Studebaker wagons
certainly last a long time

"I have had this wagon twenty-two years, and during that time it cost me only $6.00 for repairs, and that was for setting two tires."

"And after twenty-two years of daily use in good and bad weather and over all kinds of roads, I will put this wagon against any new wagon of another make that you can buy today."

"Studebaker wagons are built of air-dried lumber and tested iron and steel. Even the paint and varnish are subjected to a laboratory test to insure wearing qualities."

"No wagon made is subjected to as many tests or is more carefully made than a Studebaker. You can buy them of Studebaker dealers everywhere."

"Don't listen to the dealer who wants to sell you a cheap wagon, represented to be 'just as good' as a Studebaker."

Farm wagons, trucks, dump wagons and carts, delivery wagons, buggies, surreys, depot wagons—and harness of all kinds of the same high standard as the Studebaker vehicles.

MARINER RETURNS WITH GOOD REPORT

Travelers along the line of the N. C.-O. from Reno to Lakeview, Ore., bring back reports of unusually prosperous times throughout that wonderful country, says the Reno Journal.

J. D. Mariner, a business man of Reno, confirms everything that has been said recently concerning the improved conditions throughout those portions of Nevada, California and Oregon, which are served by the N. C.-O.

Mr. Mariner returned recently from an extended trip through Madeline, Susanville, Alturas and Lakeview and his report bears out the statements of others that the agricultural districts around the cities visited are entering upon an era of great prosperity.

"The territory I visited had a rather severe winter," said Mr. Mariner, "but the copious rains of the last few days have revived the spirits of the ranchers and business men and they all look forward to a prosperous summer and fall.

"Crops throughout the county promise enormous yields and the growers are correspondingly happy.

"The whole country served by the N. C.-O. is seeing a wonderful revival of activities and everyone looks for a prosperous future."

RHEUMATISM QUICKLY CURED

"My sister's husband had an attack of rheumatism in his arm," writes a well known resident of Newton, Iowa, "I gave him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment which he applied to his arm and on the next morning the rheumatism was gone." For chronic muscular rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Sold by all dealers.

BAND YOUR BIRDS.

Leg bands on fowls, whether of gold, silver, aluminum, celluloid, linen, enamel, colored or plain, seamless or adjustable, are not for ornament, but are a convenient, useful article of poultry apparel.

That punch mark in the foot web is a private mark. It's an identifier, a proof of ownership. You keep a record of it and can thus trace the pedigree.

But leg bands are conspicuous. You need not catch the fowl to tell from which pen it has eloped. The style, leg, color or number of the band will show that.

The bands are required on all show birds for record, and we find them a special convenience for marking birds selected for breeding pens.

The bird's age, pen, owner's initials or what else is necessary may be pressed on the band.

Special bands are made for pigeons, and in many large modern lofts you

TO UNCLE JOE.

'Tis time for you, dear Uncle Joe,
To drop the pitchfork and the hoe
And let your grandsons plow the field
And sow the grain and reap the yield.

You built your home; you cleared your land;
You planted all this fruit so grand;
You've worked in rain, you've toiled in sun,
From dawn until the day was done.

And, mother, dear old mother there,
Has sweetly borne her load of care,
Her silvery hair, her worn hands, tell
That she has done her duty well.

Your sun now nears the golden west,
And you have surely done your best,
And you dear souls deserve a rest
Before life's sun sinks 'neath the crest.

Come, dear old dad, it's time to quit
While you and mother still feel fit.
Come, lay the working tools away
And take a good, long holiday.

TOO MUCH TONIC.

Many poultry tonics on the market prove the prevalence of their use. Many of them are cure-alls, including a guarantee to make hens lay or bust, while others are simply egg pushers.

We are not here discussing the merits of these preparations, but claim that fowls that are bred right, fed right and housed right need no tonic. A flock that must be kept alive or laying with stimulants is kept at a loss and is only junk.

The doctrine, less drugs and more nature, is now the cry among humans because so many people have drugged themselves to death or thus wrecked their constitutions. We are often asked at our lectures, "What poultry tonic do you use?"

Our tonic for weak stock, drone layers and nonlayers is the ex and red pepper, mustard and other stimulants that boost, but don't build, that leave a hen worse off after taking than before. It is seldom that a good stock needs a tonic. Occasionally when they have intestinal colic from getting wet, when the molt drags, when their vitality seems lowered from heavy egg production, a tonic is in place, and then Douglas' mixture, an old time standard, fills the bill.

DOUGLAS' MIXTURE
Sulphate of iron..... 1/2 pound
Aromatic sulphuric acid..... 4 ounces
Water..... 1 gallon

Place acid and iron in stone crock containing the water and stir thoroughly with a stick. Cover with wood-ash lid for twenty-four hours and then strain into glass bottles and seal.

Earthen ware vessels must be used. One tablespoonful of the mixture to the quart of water.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Candling eggs is getting to be a custom with egg buyers, and the day has passed when a farmer can dump a half bushel of stale eggs on the counter and walk off with the cash. A huckster tried this trick at Danville, Pa., when three customers arrested him and he had to pay a heavy fine.

Many turkey poulters died the past season because they inherited weak constitutions from corn fed parents. The turkey's natural diet is mostly protein, so feed breeders accordingly to win success.

While the Leghorn is a fier, this bird can be tamed down by kindness and made so docile that it will fly to the shoulder, eat from the hand and seldom go over the fence if there is no top rail and the yard is green. Any kind of a hen will try to get out if she is on a bare run and the greens and shade are just over the fence, and you can't blame her.

The United States department of agriculture has issued an open letter to egg shippers requesting them not to ship cracked, small, broken, stale, heated or rotten eggs. Experts estimate $45,000,000 annual loss to such improper methods.

Turkeys are very scarce this year, and the city buyer who goes from farm to farm to buy up the flocks will get left. No, it's not the wet weather killed them off. The farmer is quitting the turkey, and ten years hence the turkey will be a great curiosity.

Don't forget that the hen takes a vacation in hot summer and molts to prepare for winter weather and work.

The Hottentots have their own easy way to detect crime. If a man is accused of stealing a rooster they simply open a chicken, and if the entrails are white the man is innocent, and if they are yellow he is guilty. If this were tried in England, where white meat birds are mainly in vogue, the suspect would nearly always go free, but in this country his chances would be slim, as butter ball birds are the fad, and much poultry is corn fat.

The Campines are fast coming into favor. It is another fine white egg breed, built on the Leghorn style, and its breeders are so enthused over it that they have established the Campine Herald to boom their favorite.

England was once the goose country of the world. In 1793 a single drove of 8,000 geese was driven across Stratford bridge on their way to the London Christmas market. But Russia now holds the rubberneck championship of the world.

Only 12 per cent of the farms in the United States failed to report poultry at the last census. These may have been truck or small fruit farms, where poultry cannot well be allowed to range on account of their scratching stunts. Five million six hundred and fifty-five thousand seven hundred and fifty-four farms reported poultry.

Don't pride yourself on your soft leads. They are often a sign of soft leads.

will find every bird banded, from "squawker" to breeder, the bands showing age, sex, mating, and many a racing homer has been recovered by advertising its leg band number.

While bands may be secured to band young and old poultry of all kinds, it hardly pays to band the whole flock. It isn't necessary, and then bands must be changed to fit the growing leg, and that runs into money.

It is the practice to mark all pigeons in up to date lofts, but with chickens, turkeys and other large fowls it is only customary to mark breeders and show birds, aluminum bands being most popular.

Grandma clipped the turk's tail to mark him. Note our turk marker. Rather a difference.

DON'TS.

Don't blame it on the hens when the egg record drops. A sudden change of feed is good knockout drops.

Don't forget that you are manager. Whether a gun shoots straight depends on the man behind the gun. Whether a hen lays and pays depends on the man behind the hen.

Don't feed a certain grain because it is plentiful and cheap. Such false economy neither works with hens nor men.

Don't expect wonders your first year with poultry. You may meet with some reverses, but they are not always curses.

Don't buy an article simply because it's a bargain. Bargains are often elephants that eat their heads off.

Don't envy another. Act the true brother.

Don't waste time sneering at the women in the chicken business. If you're a bachelor wed one to insure success.

Don't sell an egg with a question behind it, for the law against rots is behind the customer, and you may be ordered before the judge and be put behind the bars.

Don't pride yourself on your soft leads. They are often a sign of soft leads.

TRACING AN ANTIQUE.

Only some eggs in a haymow
Laid by a speckled hen;
Only a year they lie there,
Hid from the sight of men.

Only a buckster wagon
That drags those eggs around;
Only a country crossroads store,
Where they at length are found.

Only a slow, hot freight car,
To the city many leagues;
Only a storage company
That finally gets those eggs.

Only a year in storage
Till prices soar and soar;
Only another freight ride
Back to the grocery store.

Only some haymow storage,
Over two years old;
Only a little longer wait
And they for fresh are sold.

Only a nice home pantry,
Where those eggs wait to cook;
Only a Sunday breakfast
And parson with pious look.

Only a great explosion—
The rot busts on his shirt;
Only a few ————
Which we dare not insert.
