TRY the Speed Shells this season; they get the load to your bird quicker than any other shells you ever used. You take a shorter lead—angles bother you less—you get more birds.

The speed of these shells is due to the steel lining—to the way it compresses the smokeless powder and keeps all the punch of the explosion right behind the shot, where it belongs.

GEN. SHERIDAN A NATIVE OF N. Y.

No much has been written of late concerning the birthplace of the late General Philip H. Sheridan that the following extract, taken from his personal memoirs which are on file at the War Department at Washington, and bear the date of August 2, 1888, three days before his death, and his signature, is interesting, and should be regarded as authentic.

"My parents, John and Mary Sheridan, came to America in 1830, having been induced by the representations of my father's uncle, Thomas Gainer, then living in Albany, N. Y., to try their fortunes in the New World. They were born and reared in the County Cavan, Ireland, where from early manhood my father had tilled a leasehold on the estate of Cherry-mount; and the sale of this leasehold provided him with means to seek a new home across the sea. My parents were blood relations—cousins in the second degree—my mother, whose maiden name was Minor, having descended from a collateral branch of my father's family. Before leaving Ireland they had two children, and on the 6th of March, 1831, the year after their arrival in this country, I was born in Albany, N. Y., the third child in a family which eventually increased to six—four boys and two girls."

SHEEP INDUSTRY HAS MANY VIRTUES

From The Irish News

History shows that for many ages past sheepraising has gone hand in hand with the highest type of civilization, and the most progressive and prosperous nations. A few sheep add beauty to the farm, and where all conditions are right, they add profit and pleasure to the farmer, working in perfect harmony with general farming. They leave every portion of land they pass over in better condition for future use. They destroy weeds that rival the growth of pasture grass and form seed to the injury of future crops. Thus they will nigh pay their keep, leaving their wool and increase almost clear gain. Where they are handled right they love the shepherd's voice, and delight in his company, and give the least trouble of any animals on the farm. In many cases they have yielded their owners such satisfaction and profit as to entice him to keep too many for their health and comfort. They are about the only farm animals ever handled that yield 100 per cent profit.

The question naturally arises, then, why am I not raising sheep? The answer, of course, is dogs. And as long as I live where the majority love dogs and sport better than they love sheep and prosperity, the law and custom will allow them to rove at will over my premises, and I will suffer the loss of farming without sheep. It is true that the dog tax in our county is devoted to paying the assessed value of sheep known to be killed by dogs, but in many cases that is only a small per cent of the damage to the flock. The right kind of dog, properly trained and cared for, is a valuable animal on the farm. But the worthless curs that are as really worshipped in America as they ever were in Egypt cost us more than is paid out for education and the gospel.—Albert Murphy in Practical Farmer.

MONEY WASTED IN ROAD BUILDING

Scientific Study of Construction Essential.

NEW YORK AN EXAMPLE.

Lack of System and Slipshod Methods Cause Great Waste—Highway Commission Now Making Study of Practical Construction.

New York state is spending an average of $50,000 a day in the construction of better roads. At two referendums the people of the state have voted to expend $100,000,000 in the building of highways. Prior to the time John N. Carlisle, commissioner of highways, took hold of the affairs much money was wasted on account of slipshod methods and lack of system.

Part of the road fund will be spent in each county. When the commissioner was asked recently when new contracts for highway improvement would be let he replied:

"New York state should have the best highways in the world. No one familiar with the conditions believes it has been getting them. At two referendums the people have voted to expend $100,000,000 in the construction of good roads, and they have a right to insist that the highways be improved. But until I am satisfied that roads will be built which will give the people a dollar in value for every dollar invested in them I am not going to approve of further construction.

"No man not familiar with the conditions can understand how disorganized this department was when I became commissioner. Although it was and is now spending on an average $50,000 a day, there was no system in its office work, and mail was received at the postoffice in five private letter boxes. No one thing surprised me more than the fact that this department, charged with the expenditure of $100,000,000 in construction of new highways, had no facilities for making a scientific study of road construction.

"It is not necessary to tell the people that, with this lack of system and with this slipshod method of doing business, money has been wasted. There is evidence of it in every county where highways have been constructed. Not even the engineers believe that some of the roads, if built according to contract, would stand the traffic, but it was expected that the contracts would be modified by supplemental agreements, and in nearly every instance this was done."

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Pie Rehabilitated.

Pie, which has long had a reputation for indigestibility, is commended by a writer in the New York Medical Journal as an admirable combination of fruit and carbohydrates, the only real objection to which is that it is usually eaten by people who have already eaten enough. Properly chewed, according to the Journal, it is not at all indigestible, and in this respect it says that all pies are much alike. Flaky or soggy of crust, even a delicate stomach can take care of them if it be not forced to do the work of the teeth.

time past with his brother, Con, left about the middle of October for Ireland. We wish him a successful voyage.

Word has been received from Mrs. J. P. McAuliffe to the effect that she reached Chicago safely in company with her son, Patrick. She expects before returning to visit a sister in Michigan.

John and Jim Moynihan, for several years residents of this county, have departed for Ireland. Jim was well known as captain of the Duhalloo Football Team in the days of its existence, and his departure in company with his brother will be regretted by all.

Con Murphy, of Paisley, and Patrick Fitzgerald, this city, have left during the past week for Ireland. The former intends to return here in the spring, while Mr. Fitzgerald will probably make his future home on the old sod. With them go the best wishes of us all.

John and Mike Quinn, local sheepmen, have left for their former home in Newmarket, Ireland, where they expect to locate permanently. It is with regret that we make this announcement as during their stay here they have made enviable reputations for their industry. May they be successful in their future ventures.

Ben Shanahan, popular local sheepman, made a trip to San Francisco and other California points the forepart of last month. During his absence he saw many former Lake County residents, two of whom were Dennis Shaughnessy and Jack Leader. He reports further that Little Jack McAuliffe is now conducting a grocery store in San Francisco, although he didn't get a chance to see him.

Advertising Will ROUND OUT Your Business

Advertising is not a mere adjunct to selling---it is a NECESSARY PART of it. True, goods are sold every day without advertising, but so are men earning a living every day who have had the misfortune to lose an arm or an eye.

In the case of the unfortunate man, the handicap is plainly visible. In the case of the non-advertised business, the handicap is not so openly apparent, but it is there just the same.

A whole man is in full possession of ALL his faculties. A goods-selling campaign CAN NOT BE WHOLE AND COMPLETE without advertising as a part of it.

This much is fundamental and permanent. It remains only to apply to any business--to YOUR business--the kind and amount of advertising to fit its special needs.

The trained advertising man will help you here, precisely as the trained mechanical engineer will help you to enlarge your power plant, or the trained chemist to improve your product, or the trained architect to build your new factory. The advertising man justifies himself by the help he gives--by the SERVICE he performs; and not merely service in the abstract, but direct and positive service to you.

Listen to him as to a FRIEND --for that is what he is.
