We have made an entire transcript of all Records in Lake County which in any way, affect Real Property in the county. We have a complete Record of every Mortgage and transfer ever made in Lake County, and ever Deed given.

Errors Found in Titles

In transcribing the records we have found numerous mortgages recorded in the Deed record and indexed; and many deeds are recorded in the Mortgage record and other books. Hundreds of mortgages and deeds are not indexed at all, and most difficult to trace up from the records.

We have notations of all these Errors.

Others cannot find them. We have put hundreds of dollars hunting up these errors, and we can fully guarantee our work.

WINDOW GARDENS

Now's the Time to Think of Your Indoor Plants.

COFFEE A GOOD TONIC.

The Silvery Pink Tinted Petunias Are Beautiful and Hardy Growers—Liquid Fertilizer Often Found to Be an Effective Stimulant.

Now is the time not only to think of what you are going to have in your winter window garden, but to act on whatever decision you come to in rather prompt fashion.

Probably the most effective of all window plants are the cinerarias. Some think they are difficult to raise, but there are only a few general principles to be applied to them. They require a great deal more water than the primrose, and once a week at least they should be soaked for three hours in water that covers the pot. The reason for this is that their sturdy roots make such a complicated and intricate mat in the earth that water reaches them with difficulty from above.

The shades to be chosen depend entirely on the individual taste, though if one has many other brightly colored flowers in the window the white, blue and dull shades of red are easier toned in than those of the vivid magenta.

Cyclamen plants are exquisitely pretty with effective leaves and charming little flowers. In an east window with an average amount of water and sunshine they will bloom continually till well in the spring. Then some time the last of April take them out and plant them in the ground, preferably with east exposure, till fall, and they will be ready for use and just as pretty the following winter.

Snappedragons in all kinds of glorious colors and shades, including pinks, yellows, rich crimson and cream whites can be made to bloom from November till well into March. Exposure in a south window agrees with them the best, watering them abundantly, but not recklessly.

Petunias also make splendid winter window plants. The silvery tint pink ones are especially pretty and are cared for in much the same fashion as snappedragons. If the plants appear to droop and grow weary after a month or so of steady blooming they have to be doctored up like any human being after a strain of hard work. Liquid manure has been proved to be most effective as a stimulant and bracer, and a third of a pint given once every ten days or so is the dose. Some people recommend weak coffee as an excellent plant tonic and have great success with their plants in allowing them to absorb it.

Study Aprons.

Every almost grown schoolgirl knows that no sort of wear is so hard upon the school frock as that which it gets during the hours outside the classroom. Yet it is not usually convenient to change from that frock to some other one. Whether a girl is attending a boarding or a day school she should have to put on over her class frock an all enveloping apron which can be slipped off in an instant. One very pretty model, having the fashionable straight line silhouette, is cut in one piece, buttons down the back from the deeply rounded out neck to below the hips and has arm eyes precisely like those of a blouse sleeve. There are pockets on both hips. Finished everywhere with a machine stitched hem—broad about the feet, but narrow elsewhere—this model is charming in white batiste, lawn or dimity, in a colored scrim or cheesecloth or in a figured madras. A set of these aprons will save the school frock from many an annoying ink stain, and to make them is mere play.

Quite the Newest.

When salad is served at table the salad set is a matter of great moment if the housewife is at all particular in her table appointments. The set pictured is quite the latest development of the silversmith's art. Not only the serving fork and spoon are included in this outfit, but there are all kinds of helpful implements for aiding the cook when she mixes the dressing.

A Thread Economy.

To economize on thread raise the foot of the machine to remove a garment you are sewing, but before cutting the thread lower the foot again with top and lower threads toward the back. You can then cut the threads much shorter, and the foot will hold them firmly in place with no trouble about the needle getting accidentally unthreaded. The work can easily be placed under the foot again, and you will find the needle always threaded in place of always unthreaded.

WHAT IS EXPECTED OF A NEWSPAPER

Seldom do those of the journalistic fraternity dwell upon the trials or tribulations connected with the business, but the following editorial gleaned from the Portland Journal is so fitting to the general circumstances that we feel the transgression for reprinting it will be pardoned. The article was printed during the time of the last meeting of the State Editorial Association in Portland, and is as follows:

The up-state newspaper men have been in session in Portland.

Much is asked of them, and little bestowed. The man who wants free publicity and gives nothing back in advertising, besieges all newspapers but none more than the up state publications.

The mail overwhelms them with all kinds of copy with a request that it be inserted free and marked copies of the paper be sent. Stock shows, horse shows, county fairs, church fairs, state fairs, school fairs, world's fairs, charity balls, June festivals, health committees, charity committees, development committees, promotion committees, publicity committees, general welfare committees and every other kind of fair, show, exposition and committee showers the publication office with requests for free space, always holding out as remuneration the assurance that it is of the good of the community, never realizing that white paper must be paid for in dollars, that printers must have money for food, clothing and shelter and that publication offices cannot subsist on warm wind.

Along with the fairs and other free publicity folk, is the real estate agent who doesn't advertise but wants his name mentioned in every sale, the doctor who doesn't advertise because he says it isn't professional, but wants his name as the surgeon in a case of accident, and the merchant who doesn't advertise because it doesn't pay, but he wants the reporter to drop around and write up for the paper a description of a newly arranged show window.

In addition, there is the professional press agent who is paid a big salary because of his versatility in working the newspapers for free publicity. He is the cunningest, craftiest, man with winning ways, chaste smile, polished address and soulful eyes, and when he gets through with the up-state newspaper publisher there isn't much left about the office that the agent wants to buy, especially in the way of advertising.

In no activity in the world is there so much endeavor to get something for nothing as is attempted on the newspaper business. No activity in the world gives as much to the public gratis, and gets as few thanks back.

For all the boosting of the community, for all the constructive agitation, for all the struggle at reform, for all the appeals in behalf of public movements, for all the cheery puffs of the prominent citizens, for all the free notices, free exploitation, free advertising, and free gifts of space and influence of every kind, the community expects in return to lay a few flowers on the grave of the defunct newspaper man when he is dead and let it go at that.

No public servant is more faithful and devoted, no citizen more sincere and but few figures in the community so generous or able as is the average up-state editor.
