MOLASSES AS A FEED FOR BEEF CATTLE

Before the feeder can study the comparative value of feeds intelligently he must have a knowledge of the digestible nutrients which they contain, says the Kansas Farmer. Prime cottonseed meal as sold on the market at the present time contains 37.6 per cent digestible protein, 21.4 per cent digestible carbohydrates and 9.6 per cent digestible fat. The cold pressed cottonseed cakes contain approximately 25 per cent digestible protein, 23 per cent carbohydrates and 6 per cent fat. No cattle feed on the market supplies so much digestible protein per hundred-weight as does cottonseed meal, and for that reason it is oftentimes the most economical feed that can be purchased to supplement the cheaper feeds of the farm, which are, as a rule, deficient in digestible protein.
 Molasses such as is sold for feeding purposes contains 1.5 per cent digestible protein, 59.2 per cent digestible carbohydrates and no fat. In experimental work which has been conducted at various experiment stations it has been found that where used as a portion of the ration blackstrap molasses has had a value fully equal to corn, pound for pound. At the Texas experiment station a very successful ration for full feeding steers was made up by using through a feeding test of 120 days an average ration consisting of 6.6 pounds of molasses, 8.6 pounds of corn, 3 pounds of cottonseed meal and 12.6 pounds of cottonseed hulls. The molasses replaced part of the corn of the ration and the necessary protein to properly balance the ration was supplied by the cottonseed meal.

It is claimed for the Shorthorns that as a whole they are heavier than any other breed. In some localities, however, herds of Herefords may outweigh Shorthorns on adjoining farms. Both these breeds average heavier than the Angus. All are excellent cattle and produce the highest grade of beef. Shorthorn cows are better milkers than those of any other beef breed, and for that reason it is claimed the young steers mature earlier. The Shorthorn bull shown was a prize winner last fall.

With normal prices for grains molasses cannot be looked upon as a feed for replacing any considerable amount of grain except in the south, where it is much cheaper than in the north. In a year when economy in feeds of all kinds is necessary molasses may be used as a means of stimulating the consumption of low grade feeds which would ordinarily not be eaten.

DIPPING THE FLOCK.

Sheep Cannot Thrive When Infested With Parasites.
 No flockmaster should attempt to raise sheep without planning to dip them at least annually and in most cases twice a year. When sheep are brought from other flocks, and especially when transported there by railroads, they should be thoroughly dipped before allowed to mingle with the rest of the flock.

Experience has taught sheepmen that sheep thrive much better when their skins are clean. A good dip increases the quantity and improves the quality of the wool. It is impossible for lambs infested with ticks or other parasites to thrive properly, owing to the constant irritation set up. In trying to get relief lambs often nibble at the fleece and swallow small portions of wool with fatal results. A good and regular system of dipping the entire flock is money well expended. Hence most of the leading flockmasters dip twice in the year—once in the spring and again in the fall.

The object of dipping is to destroy the parasites in the fleece, such as scab mites and sheep ticks and lice, and to prevent subsequent attacks from the same. In England, where sheep raising has attained its highest state of perfection, dipping is required by law at least twice a year.

While dipping may not be done at any season, it should, if possible, be avoided in cold weather for obvious reasons. If the flock is badly infested it is important to repeat the operation in ten days in order to destroy the insects that have hatched during the interval.—Better Farming.

COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN

Never give a child cough medicine that contains opium in any form. When opium is given other and more serious diseases may follow. Long experience has demonstrated that there is no better or safer medicine for coughs, colds and croup in children than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is equally valuable for adults. Try it. It contains no opium or other harmful drug. For sale by all dealers.

THE SWINEHERD.

It doesn't pay to feed pigs after they are 80; neither does it pay to sell or kill a pig until it is 80. Separate the fattening pigs as they reach marketable condition, so as to give the smaller ones a better chance.

When feeding heavily, correctors in the way of charcoal, ashes, salt and sulphur should be kept in all the feeding pens and hog yards.

Don't sacrifice the old sow that is a regular breeder, even if the price of pork is high. She is the kind that makes the pig business certain.

In selecting young sows for breeders it is pretty safe to select from the dam's litters the pigs that are most like her in conformation.

LIME FOR BROOD SOWS.

Necessary to the Health and Growth of Dam and Pigs.

The importance of supplying lime in some form to brood sows and young hogs is often overlooked by the feeder, writes H. T. Morgan in the Country Gentleman. An investigator at one of the agricultural colleges says that a sufficiency of lime in the ration of the brood sow is fully as important as a sufficiency of protein. One thousand pounds of corn contain only about three ounces of lime. Tansage contains about ten pounds of lime to each 1000 pounds. Clover and alfalfa hay contain twenty and twenty-seven pounds respectively in each 1000 pounds. It is evident that corn alone is not a satisfactory feed either for pregnant sows or for growing pigs. It is surprising how quickly hogs will respond in winter to a ration of clover or alfalfa hay.

During the grazing season this matter of supplying lime and protein in addition to the grain need cause the feeder no concern, but during the winter months both lime and protein must be supplied. Wood or cob ashes or charcoal supplied in generous quantities will furnish the animals with a sufficient amount of lime. They will also eat ground limestone. I have always made a practice of supplying air slaked lime to hogs of all ages. It is estimated that in an average litter of pigs about six ounces of lime enter into the composition of their bones. If the sow has not had a well balanced ration or has been fed on corn alone she has had to supply the bone building material necessary for the development of her young from her own body, and if this has been insufficient the pigs will be weak and often deformed in the head and joints. Rickets, or rachitis, is believed to be due to a lack of the proper bone building elements. This disease usually proves fatal in young pigs and is much more frequently observed in the produce from gilts than in the litters from mature sows.

A good way in which to supply lime is to make a hopper which will hold a bushel or more and have it under shelter. An excellent plan is to make a square hopper and divide it into four compartments, in which wood ashes, air slaked lime or ground limestone, ground rock phosphate and salt shall be provided at all times. Place this box in the hog lot and arrange it so that the hogs may feed themselves at will. The cover should overhang sufficiently to protect the contents from the weather.

Homemade Drill.

To make a drill something which is essential on every farm, take a wheel about eighteen inches in diameter and wide enough to run a belt on and bolt same to the side of your workshop, as shown in sketch. Take two 2 by 4's about eight inches long and bore a five-eighths inch hole in the center of each, so that a half inch gaspipe will work in them freely. Bolt these 2 by 4's to the side of the building about twelve inches from the big wheel. Attach a four inch pulley to the half inch pipe or rod so as to run a belt from the large wheel to this, and fasten an old brace ratchet to the bottom of the gaspipe to hold the drill in place. Put a weight on a lever at the top of the drill rod to force the drill through the iron.—Iowa Homestead.

MAKE WORK EASIER

Lakeview people are pleased to learn how it has been done.

Its pretty hard to attend to duties With a constantly aching back; With annoying urinary disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier for many a sufferer.

They're for bad backs. For weak kidneys.

Here is convincing proof of merit: Frank Kasahara, bailiff County Court, Applegate Road, Jacksonville, Ore., says: "For years I was a miner and the work caused kidney and bladder trouble. The pain first attacked me in the small of my back, especially when I first got up in the morning. I also had trouble with the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills soon removed the complaint. You may continue using the endorsement I have given Doan's Kidney Pills before."

"When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name." Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kasahara had. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
