RABBIT SUPPER ATTRACTS CROWD

New Pine Creek was a lively little city Friday evening Jan. 23rd. The Captains of the rabbit hunt, J. U. Gentry and L. C. Vinyard, had selected this date for the annual feast known as the "Rabbit Supper."

The hunt was in progress during the last days of December and first days of January. Many of the pests were destroyed. Mr. Gentry being the captain of the losing side, took the superintendency of the banquet. Mr. Vinyard's men did all they could to aid the losing side.

Nothing short of a banquet describes the sumptuous feast. It was one of the best suppers that has ever been spread in our city. It was served in the Larkin Building on the California side, almost every home from Sugar Hill to Crane Creek being represented at this gathering.

Between three and four hundred people were served.

The True Source

The Rev. E. Milan, field missionary for Southern Oregon, is still holding services at the Baptist church. The meetings are fairly well attended but there is not the interest shown that should be. Church work has been sadly neglected in New Pine Creek for the past few years. Why? Well, we hear several reasons. By the way, Rev. Milan gives it to the picture shows for operating Sundays. It appears as though he is trying to make people believe that the shows are keeping people from church. But if Rev. Milan had lived here as long as the writer he would see the matter in a different light. The writer suggests that Rev. Milan first approach one or two of the would-be-sisters and put a stop to the idle gossiping which is doing more harm and keeping more people from church than a half dozen picture shows could do.

Last Sunday a would-be-good sister told the church element that the management of the picture show had given complimentary tickets to some of the church people to keep them away from church. This was a falsehood, and she knew it. From this and other false stories floating around there must surely be an abundance of this work going on. It merely creates trouble and injures the welfare of the town. The writer believes these trouble makers are mainly responsible, and that if the good people would put them out of the church that both it and the community in general would be benefited greatly. The correspondent does not want it understood that he is condemning Rev. Milan for protesting against picture shows on Sundays, for he believes that people should go to church on that day. If the people of New Pine Creek would co-operate and down the idle gossips, there is no doubt but what they could get a good Minister here who would bring the people out to church. We feel that Rev. Milan is a sincere worker and could have accomplished good work if this gossiping had been stopped before.

Judge H. V. Malloy and August Doring made a business trip to Lakeview one day last week.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Troumsek is critically ill. Dr. Smith of Lakeview has been called to administer to the little sufferer.

Harvey Benham is quite ill at present. The attending physician, Dr. E. H. Amsden, is doing all that can be done to check the child's fever.

TUGHY BROTHERS HAVE CONTRACT

Porter Bros. Construction Outfit Did Not Move to Bend.

Apparently the item which was recently published in a number of papers in the interior part of the state, saying that Porter Bros. had removed from Eugene to Bend to begin work on the extension south of the Oregon Trunk, was erroneous. A correction of this statement is to the effect that Porter Bros. were removing to North Bend. Tughy Bros. have a contract for a portion of the work on the Oregon Trunk extension, and it is now rumored that they are preparing to move their construction outfit from Portland to Bend.

The Wendt Theatre was crowded Friday evening. Mr. Wendt has been serving the public well. Five real-headers have been run for the same price as three.

C. E. Crowder, Jeff Mulkey and Chas. Watkins three stockholders of the Big Four Mines at High Grade, spent a few days in New Pine Creek last week. T. E. Sturdevant and Bird Wade relocated the Big Four mines the first of the year claiming that the assessment work had not been fully done and it looks as if a big law suit will follow.

A meeting of the Ladies' Civic Improvement League was held at the home of Mrs. O'Neil, Saturday. Much important business was transacted. Several warrants were drawn, plans for the Valentine Calico Ball were completed. The Secretary, Mrs. Moffit, has drawn a petition which will be circulated on the Modoc side, memorializing the Board of Supervisors to establish the County Library.

We note that Bird Wade is staying on the Oregon side of late. He says that the California climate does not agree with him. He would not even go over on the Cal. side to the big Rabbit Hunt supper. He sent one of his friends over who brought back a good, big feed for him. The Big Four people tell us that it is not the California climate that disagrees with Bird. We will tell you more about it later.

The writer wishes to make a correction in the item written about the mask ball Jan. 1. We mentioned about a man coming in to the Opera House and said to the management that if he bought a ticket he would dance with out a mask. The gentleman we referred to came to us and convinced us that there was some misunderstanding, and the management of the Opera House regrets that they gave the item to the correspondent.

The second election of the officers for the Student Body League of the New Pine Creek Grammar School was held last Friday. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Theresa Keller; Vice-president, Miss Ruth Fisher; Secretary, Miss Owens Wendt; Treasurer, Miss Bessie Alexander. The young people are taking a great interest in their school. Many have remarked that they enjoy attending school this year more than ever.

Don't forget the old time Ball at New Pine Creek this Friday night, Jan. 20, 1914. We held one of these old time dances Dec. 23rd, which proved to be the best of any held in a long time. We have heard a few complaints from young men that some young ladies had refused to dance with

HORSES SHOULD HAVE GOOD CARE

Dangerous Infections Require Precaution for Prevention and Cure.

By H. H. SPARHAWK
U. S. Veterinary Inspector

The diseases or conditions included in this article are Shipping Fever, Equine Distemper, Strangles and Equine Contagious Pneumonia, as well as the classical Pink Eye.

These infections are all contagious and are contracted by horses and mules while in transit from one part of the country to another, are found existing side by side in the same stable under the same stabling conditions and in the same epizootics, and as a rule one attack confers immunity, though frequently the animal has a second hard attack.

If it can be shown that certain pathogenic microorganisms are present in these conditions constantly and that the majority of fatal lesions following these diseases or conditions are due to these certain microorganisms and that the spread of these microorganisms can be controlled, then it behooves those most concerned to use plenty of common sense as well as to take advantage of all scientific measures available to stop the spread of the disease and check its ravages. The initial cost of prevention may seem large, but the final saving is enormous. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and in this case it is worth a ton, as compared with the loss incurred if the disease is allowed to continue unchecked.

The primary cause of the disease has never been satisfactorily proven, although we are sure of the organisms that produce the greater number of lesions. In all laboratory experiments and in live animals we have found the same germ, possibly affiliated with many other germs. This germ is the Streptococcus Pyogenes Equi. Usually along with this germ is the Staphylococcus Pyogenes Auris, a pus-producing organism. With these two germs working hard in and on the animal has fever and the first germ breaks down the tissue, while the second one digests the blood corpuscles that are sent to antagonize the enemy, and as the corpuscles are digested many of the germs are destroyed and then pus is the result, with swelling, and then eventually abscess formation, causing fever, loss of appetite and general debility.

Now as this germ has been condemned by authorities as the one that causes our trouble, we have three preventive measures:

- (1) Isolation of infected animals, followed by well known approved methods of antiseptics.
- (2) Practical disinfection and fumigation of stables, stockyards and railroad cars.
- (3) Preventive vaccination before exposure, and curative vaccination of infected ones.

The first and third methods can be carried on with very little trouble or cost. All that it necessitates is a determination on the part of the owner and in case of shipment, the shipper, and a certain degree of intelligence on the part of those detailed to carry on the work.

The second method is not so easy, however, to secure favorable action upon, for it at once imposes a condition on those not directly interested, and therefore, if anything from that source is ever brought about, it would be years before results could be obtained.

It is not an absolute impossibility to properly disinfect and fumigate all railroad cars in which animals are shipped and perhaps some day this will be demanded, although at present in many stock yards where cars, known to carry infectious diseases, the railroad companies are compelled to clean and disinfect the cars immediately after unloading. Experience and experiments have proven to us that an animal infected with these diseases (under discussion) eliminates and spreads the germs from secretions, excretions and discharges from the infected animals, and therefore, isolation of the animal together with careful handling and antiseptic precautions are the best means available for preventing the infection. (Taking this subject up from symptoms, the discussion will be concluded in next issue.)

The Bidwell News reports that a saloon license was granted to S. C. Painter at Lake City, this being the only booze emporium at that place since the wet and dry election last fall. Ft. Edwell now has three saloons.

Here is a tip from the writer. If a young man wishes to have a good time at our dances, he better stay in the hall and not get too much freewater aboard as the ladies are making it a rule not to dance with any one who is somewhat "tipsy."

THIS is the time of the year when attention should be devoted to your season's with the best faculty available, grounds, buildings and means of teaching so many vocations or trades that no one, who desires a practical training for the work in future life, will err by attending and becoming proficient in some of the many courses offered. It was gratifying to hear the faculty speak of the Lake county boys with such praise. Though we are represented by but few none are doing better work. The boys are personally known to all the professors and have achieved prominence in their work. This college is primarily a working school in all arts, mechanics, agriculture, stockraising, poultry etc.

After completing my work on the examining board I went to Spokane to visit a sister who was seriously ill in the hospital. I visited other relatives at Walla Walla and LaGrande. One of the great pleasures of the trip was to meet so many of my former pupils.

Several schools were visited and much data gathered which I feel confident will benefit the schools of our county. The special work to be done will be mentioned from time to time in the press and by circular letters.

Wishing all pupils and teachers a happy and prosperous year and hoping to hear from all is the wish of your servant,

CHAS. E. OLIVER,
County Supt. of Schools.

The Record states that J. W. McAffee and wife are visiting in Cedarville from lower California.
