POLITICAL QUIETUDE

That famous political cauldron of years gone by does not in any way seem to be reacting the boiling point. While a few candidates have announced their intention of entering the field, yet as a general proposition there seems to be no special anxiety to secure the coveted position manifest. For the office of County Judge, which is probably the most important to the taxpayers generally, no one has as yet announced their candidacy. This fact may be accounted for by reason that the present incumbent, Judge Daly, has given no intimation as to whether or not he will be a candidate for re-election. Upon his decision probably rests the whole question, for it is generally conceded that should he desire the position he will have no serious opposition. It is understood that many of the heaviest taxpayers are already urging him to become a candidate, and while the Judge has expressed himself during his past term as being loth to again become a candidate he no doubt feels under obligations to his numerous strong friends and supporters throughout the County. While the Examiner has strong Republican inclinations, yet it will in no way oppose Judge Daly should he again be a candidate. While the Judge has not performed the duties of his office so far as good roads are concerned in every way acceptable to the Examiner, nevertheless he has no doubt done what he considered the best for the whole County, and when it comes to good business judgment the Examiner concedes the whole bakery to the Judge.

GEO. WASHINGTON—THE IDEAL AMERICANISM

(Geo. A. Crawford)

Independence Day celebrates the nation; Thanksgiving commemorates the family; Christmas is the festival of the Church; but Washington's birthday is the spotlights of the individual, and proclaims the ideal Americanism.

His colossal greatness seems to elude to our analysis. All genius is a mystery. Like the throne of God, "clouds and darkness wrap" it around. When the summer goes away it leaves behind golden sheaves. Dying, this hero left behind a republic, and the splendor of character that he took away with him fully equalled the splendid freedom of the republic he left behind. Over one hundred years has passed since he left this earthly scene: The authors and orators have not exhausted the lesson of his life, or the wisdom and beauty of his teachings and character.

Humanity hungers for heroes; happy is the nation that can bring up its children and youths in the memory of the noblest heroic deeds of patriots and poets, of sages and statesmen and martyrs.

Today the youth of this nation may well remember that Washington's greatness has not been created by orator's but by Almighty God, and his influence in the history of liberty is not due to the fact that he was fortunate in being the first President of our republic, but rather to the sheer weight of his moral manhood. What he was, what he did, and what he said, make his present influence to be not only his native right, but also his abiding possession in the history of liberty.

HELP NATRON LINE

DISSOLUTION OF RAILROADS TO COMPLETE CUT-OFF

Central Pacific Would Have Long Independent Mileage in This State

Early completion of the Natron-Klamath cutoff may be a result of the Government's suit to dissolve the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific merger, says the Oregonian.

If the Government wins the suit and the Central Pacific is made an independent property, the Central Pacific doubtless will be forced to complete the cut-off so that it may have connection with its existing line between Eugene and Oak Ridge. This will give the Central Pacific a complete and undisturbed road from Ogden to Eugene—with Portland only 125 miles away.

If the Southern Pacific wins the suit, and the two roads remain consolidated, the Southern Pacific's financial position will be strengthened sufficiently to allow it to complete the work.

The Natron-Klamath project will fare better at the hands of the Central Pacific than of the Southern. To the Central its completion will be a necessity; to the Southern a mere convenience.

The Central Pacific, if it is destined to start operations independently, will have to build up its own organization and create its own business. But the position of the Central Pacific is more secure than seems apparent. All the trackage between Ogden, through Nevada to Roseville, Cal., and northward through Tehama, Red Bluff, Dunsuir and Weed to the state line belong to the Central. The branch line between Weed and Klamath Falls belongs to the same road. The Natron-Klamath work is being done by the Central Pacific, not by the Southern Pacific. The Southern appears in the situation because it controls the stock of the Central.

But in the event that the Central Pacific becomes independent, there is possibility that its position will be strengthened even further. A line already has been built from a point a few miles west of Hazen, Nev., northwesterly to a point beyond Susanville, Cal. This line is projected into Klamath Falls. Surveys have been made. This would afford a more direct route between Ogden and Eugene and eliminate a distance of nearly 150 miles.

Straight From Germany

Coming direct from Germany to Lakeview, Oregon and to J. F. Hanson's Point Ranch on the West Side was the trip completed yesterday by Count Von Boneburgh.

Count Von Boneburgh is a scientific farmer and comes to Lake County to study conditions here. J. F. Hanson received a communication from him last year, asking if he could spend a year on his ranch in this valley, and the arrival in Lakeview Tuesday evening was the result of the correspondence. He accompanied Mr. Hanson out to the ranch yesterday.

In the winter months particular care should be taken to see that the family horse has an opportunity to exercise for a few hours each day. The exercise afforded will go a long way toward keeping the animal in good condition.

St. Valentine Party

Mrs. Frank Fetsch, Mrs. Howard Sparhawk, and Miss Julia Gloster, were hostesses at a very pretty Valentine Party, given at the home of Mrs. Fetsch, February 14th, "500," being the form of entertainment. Pink and white carnations emphasized the color scheme, and with festoons of dainty hearts combined in charming house decoration. The same color scheme was in evidence at the luncheon tables, where centerpieces of flowers and jolly Kewpie Kids added to the gayety of the scene. The menu served was dainty and refreshing, and contained many unique departures.
