EXPOSITION VISITORS TO SEE ALL OF STATE

Campaign is Started That Should be Applauded by all Rural Communities

Portland Ore. Mar. 3 (Special)-"See the Big State and not the big city," is the appeal to be made by the business men of Portland to the people who will come West during 1915. Unless a vigorous campaign is conducted, nearly all the exposition travel will be direct from San Francisco to Portland with no stopovers in either Western or Eastern Oregon.

To perfect plans for an energetic campaign to influence travelers to visit the smaller communities and the state itself rather than spend all of the time devoted to Oregon in the city of Portland a meeting will be held in the parlors of the Portland Commercial Club on Thursday. Mar. 12. Delegates will be present from all the communities which were represented at the development convention recently in Eugene also, at this meeting, plans will be laid for a big convention to be held in the near future in the city of Salem, at which all the counties of the state will be represented.

PLUSH HAPPENINGS

Plush Oregon, March 9, 1914. Who started the report that Plush was dead? Indeed ! We are very much alive: We're able to sit up and take notice that quite a few events of local interest have taken place recently.

The bi-monthly dances which have been held at the Plush Opera House have attracted large crowds, and both old and young have tripped to the merry strains of the violin until way into the morning.

A jolly crowd surprised Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Frens at their beautiful suburban home on the evening of March lat, it being Mr. Freas' birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. Grisel, Mr. and Mrs. J. Deboy. Miss Grace Whitney, of San Francisco who is spending the winter here, Mr. Austin Deboy, Mr. E. A. Priday, Master Edward Deboy and Miss Amelia Freas. Mrs. Grisel wore a beautiful black satin gown trimmed with lace and jet ; Mrs. Deboy was gowned in an exquisite blue charmeuse, the shade that is all the rage in Paris: Miss Whitney, who is a besutiful brunette, looked charming in a Pompeiian red silk, veiled in chiffon of the same color: Miss Freas attracted quite a little attention in the latest Paris creation; Tango Pantletta-She gave a few of the Tango steps as they are danced in the East and across the Briny Deep. The SHEPHERD AND FLOCK. Be sure that the flock is not exposed to storms. Exposure means a poor ewe, a light fleece and a weak lamb. Keep the sheep quarters well littered with dry straw. Scatter land plaster over the pen to absorb the ammonia and keep the odors down.

Ewes that are successful breeders should be kept as long as possible.

Do not let the sheep drink from a trough half full of ice. Give water regularly and keep the trough clean.

If you want strong lambs give the ewes wheat bran in the grain ration.

If a lamb is chilled dip it in water as hot as you can bear your hand in and wrap it in a warm blanket until it is dry. "A little farm, well tilled," should contain a few sheep well taken care of.

KEEP EWES HEALTHY.

Bowels Must Be Looked After Before Lambs Begin to Come.

This is a critical time of the year as regards the health and welfare of their lambs and indeed have commenced to lamb in some parts of the country, says Dr. A. S. Alexander in the Farm Journal.

It must now be the sim of the shepherd to counteract the tendency to constipation, which is shown by every animal well along in pregnancy. Plenty of fresh water should be supplied and bran and olimeal added to the other ration, for corn, if used, does not open the bowels, nor does it lead to a full flow of milk at lambing time. Salt should be used for pregnant ewes in small quantities and not in the shape of salted hay. When the lambs commence to arrive the ewes may be brought into a comfortable, sheltered place where there are a number of small pens in which to put each ewe in turn as soon as she drops her lambs. On taking her into the small pen she should be turned up and the locks of wool removed from her udder, so that the lambs will be able to suck without getting wool into their mouths. This done, the ewe may be left for awhile to lick her lambs dry, and when this has been done they should be assisted to stand and take their first drink, if weak, after which they will usually get along all right.

WINTERING THE HORSE.

Idle Animals Need Exercise and a Fair Amount of Feed.

The horse in winter should not be stail tied all day, but should have plenty of exercise. Turned into the well fenced paddock, the horse's exercise will take care of itself. He should be fed and watered at regular times. The feed need not be large. It is worse to founder a horse than to underfeed him. In a vast majority of cases tragedles among domestic animais are entirely unnecessary, being due either to the carelessness or shortsightedness of the owners, who invariably are the losers financially when knows the Coast well from Seattle to these troubles occur at farrowing, San Diego says he never saw any lambing or calving time. Common humanity and regard for animal comfort and welfare, as well as the money consideration, should be sufficient to suggest that care which will give the desired results. This care should include dry and comfortable quarters, in which deep in the spring and sowing a crop there should be the largest possible amount of both sunshine and fresh air. The rations fed should be blood and muscle forming rather than fat and beat producing and should include generous allowances of the protein feedsclover and alfalfa bay, bran, soaked oats and moderate amounts tone part to ten or twelve of other cereals) of either ofimeni or high grade tankage. Both skimmilk and buttermilk furnish protein in a most desirable form for the brood sows and should be used whenthe ewes, which soon will be dropping ever they can be got. The mistake made by most farmers who have trouble when the young things begin to road through our valey, which will come is in feeding a ration consisting be completed early next year, farmof too much corn. Experiments have ing in this valley should put every shown that corn alone is better than wheat alone, but the former should be balanced, as suggested above, by a protein concentrate. It is not too late even now to so modify the feed rations as to produce good condition for the pregnant farm animals and insure for them vigorous offspring.

A GOOD ORCHARD CROP. Where one is near a market that will take considerable quantities of asparagus ithe writer has never heard of a market that got too much of it), it makes an ideal crop to grow between the rows of young orchard trees. In making ready for the asparagus the soil should be plowed deeply and pulverized linely with a disk. While from a dozen to twenty loads of well rotted manure broadcasted will give good results, the asparagus will do better if furrows are plowed to a good depth be planted and the manure scattered in these to the depth of six or seven this week. Mr. Murphy is one of the inches and as many inches of soil turned back to cover the manure. The rows should be from three to three and a half feet apart and should not be placed nearer than five or six feet to the trees. The bed will give a good return in about three years and better returns as it grows older. In the course of nine or ten years the asparagus roots should be removed and the trees allowed to monopolize the ground.

Says Two Good Crops Grow With One Plowing-Diversified Farming Urged

Mr. J. B. Fox, the founder, farmer, postmaster, merchant and all around man of Fremont, who place where two better crops could be raised by one good plowing than can be done at Fremont. This is accomplished by our good climate, abundant moisture, and by plowing of roots that will draw the nitrogen from the air and store it up in the soil. After the roots are harvested for the stock, sow to fall grain, or sow next spring to spring grain and you will get a better grain crop than if you had not raised the root crop.

Relief For Itching Pigs.

Itchiness of the skin of pigs may be due to dirty bedding, to irritating objects in the bedding, to lice or to mange or eczema. On general principles spray and scrub the pigs with a number to offset the output of the 1-100 solution of coal tar dip and rub in supplur on the worst spots while the skin is damp. Provide clean bedding. Let the pigs run out daily. Physic each pig and then give medicine for worms. A suitable treatment is to mix one dram of copperas in the slop for five consecutive days for each 100 pounds of body weight of pigs. Repeat the application of coal tar dip solution as often as found necessary.

Live Stock Profitable.

Live stock raising in connection with general farming conserves fertility elements and makes it possible to produce more food on a given area of land. Growing crops and breeding animals should be practiced on every farm of any considerable size if possible, as this kind of farming is surer as a general plan and it saves the farm for future crops.
