In Case of War

That the United States could finance a war with Mexico and scarcely feel it is the view authoratively expressed.

The Government's finances are considered to be in a fine condition so good in fact that even the Treasury department has given only tentative consideration to the subject of providing a war fund.

It is said that no plans for raising money yet had been considered, as current appropriations for the Navy and Army, in the view of officials, would be sufficient for present 25 was observed by business men needs, and it would cost no more to and others and a vast amount of efmaintain the fleet in Mexican waters than in the United States waters.

Heavy Increase

The United States is now a country of 109,000,000 people, according to the bulletin containing the estimates of population for the years subsequent to the thirteenth census soon to be published by Director William J. Harris of the bureau of the census, department of commerce It was prepared under the supervision of C. S. Sloan, geographer.

As stated the estimated population of the United States for July 1, 1914 will be 102,021,992; The population of the United States and its possessions in 1910 was 101,748,269 so there will have been an estimated gain of over 7,000,000 persons in a little more than four years.

West's Retrenchments

Governor West has designated a few of the commissions and boards which he proposes to either abolish or consolidate through bills to be initiated in the November election.

He proposes to abolish the State Desert Land Board by vesting its duties in the State Land Board, and the office of State Engineer by vesting his duties in the Secretary of the State Water Board. The duties of the State Livestock and Sanitary Board and the Stallion Registration Board he proposes to have performed by the State Veterinarian. As the Game and Fish Commission has a biologist, he states there is no need for a State Biologist, and he proposes to have the law relating to the Board of Pilot Commissioners and the State Board of Horticulture and the State Horticultural Society changed them will be reduced.

When returns from over the state began to reach the Secretary of State's Office after the registration books closed May 1, Deputy Sam L. Kozer estimated that the total registration for the state would hover between 215,000 and 220,000. Reports received from county clerks, he said, showed the total registration up to and including April 25, to be 194,132. This is an increase of 62,252 over the registration for the primary election of 1912, the total registration then being 131,880.
