S.S.S. CURES MALARIA

Malaria is due to impurities and poisons in the blood. Instead of being rich, strong and healthy, the circulation has become infected with germs of disease which destroy the rich, red corpuscles that furnish nourishment and strength to the body, and reduced this vital fluid to such a weak, watery condition that it is no longer able to keep the system in health, or ward off the countless diseases and disorders that assail it. The loss of these red corpuscles takes the color and glow of health from the cheek, and we see pale, sallow faces and washed out, chalky complexions among the first symptoms of Malaria. But Malaria is a general systemic disease, and as the blood becomes more heavily loaded with its germs we have more serious and complicated symptoms; the impure blood having its effect on all parts of the body. The appetite fails, digestion is weakened, chills and slight fever are frequent, and the sufferer loses energy and ambition because of a constant tired-out and "no account" feeling. The lack of necessary nourishment and healthful qualities in the blood causes boils and abscesses, skin affections, and in some cases sores and ulcers to break out, and sometimes the patient is prostrated with a spell of malarial fever which may leave his health permanently impaired. To cure Malaria both a blood purifier and tonic are necessary, in order to remove the cause and at the same time build up the system from its weakened and run-down condition. S. S. S. is the medicine best fitted for this work. It is the most perfect of all blood purifiers, and the purely vegetable ingredients of which it is composed make it the greatest and safest of all tonics. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and removes every trace of impurity or poison, and at the same time gives to the blood the health-sustaining qualities it needs. It cures Malaria thoroughly and permanently because it removes the germs and poisons which produce the disease, and while doing this tones up and strengthens every part of the system. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood the symptoms pass away, the healthy color returns to the complexion, the old tired, depressed feeling is gone, and the entire health is renewed. Goose to His Reward.
Hewitt—I see that Great, the life insurance agent, is married.
Jewett—Yes, and his marriage is a case of the irony of fate.
"How is that?"
"He didn't know until after he was married that the woman in the case carried a lot of life insurance, and now he will have to keep up the premiums on her policies."—Harper's Weekly.

$100 Reward, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving it a permanent strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Consoling!
"Poor John! He was a kind and forbearing husband," sobbed the widow on her return from the funeral.
"Yes," said a sympathizing neighbor; "but it's all for the best. You must try and comfort yourself, my dear, with the thought that your husband is at peace at last."—Sketchy Bits.

Church—I see the public service commission has recommended side doors on the railroad cars.
Gotham—And will they expect to have the words "family entrance" over them?—Yonkers Statesman.

Floored.
"You say there's no such thing as matter? Then there is no such thing as a gas meter. Yet you are paying out your good money for 8,000 feet of gas registered by a machine that doesn't exist."
"Certainly; there is no such thing as money."

During 1900 I was running a Jara on the Mississippi river and became so impregnated with Malaria that for a year I was almost a physical wreck. I tried a number of medicines recommended as blood purifiers, chill cures, and Malaria eradicators, but nothing did me any good until I began to use S. S. S. The result was that after taking it for awhile I was as well and strong as I ever was. I have never had a chill since nor the slightest symptom of Malaria. I hope others will be benefited by my experience, and with that end in view I give this testimonial, knowing that S. S. S. is the best remedy for Malaria.

GREATEST PORT IN FRANCE

Commerce of Paris Has Annually Been Growing in Importance.
Paris will soon be the greatest port in France. Work which was begun thirty-seven years ago is now nearing completion and when this is done the gay capital will have many miles of wharves capable of handling thousands of tons of merchandise daily. Although the port is mostly concerned with internal traffic, the Seine at Paris is also deep enough to receive ships coming direct from London. Her commerce of this nature has annually been growing in importance.

Shortly after the war of 1870 the Paris Municipal Council decided to establish wharves along the river banks so that boat traffic could be more rapidly developed. A vast plan of improvement was then laid out. The river was dredged. Locks were established both above and below the city, so as to maintain the river at a nearly constant level. Then a series of docks was established, some of which were large enough to take Channel steamers of moderate tonnage. Such steamers are now a familiar sight at the Port St. Nicholas, just opposite the Louvre.

The chief feature of the shipping which has Paris as its home port is stone, plaster and other building material. Huge quantities of cereals and wine are also handled. Among the things which Paris ships to the provinces by way of the Seine is refuse derived from old buildings which have been torn down, and such unattractive material as chemical manures and so forth.

During the year 1906 almost 13,000,000 tons were shipped from Paris. Last year's record surpassed this by another half million. When the present improvements are completed it is believed that the annual tonnage will be almost doubled. Practically all the ground removed in excavating for the city's new underground railroad was carried away by Seine boats. All the material used in its construction came by the same route.

The only port which at present surpasses Paris in annual tonnage is Marseilles, and within the next few months even Marseilles will have to take second place.

Humane Work That Is Practical.
Other tender-hearted women have attempted to lighten the burden of draught horses with varying degrees of success, but it has remained for Mrs. Theodore Thomas, wife of the great orchestra leader, to hit on a practical remedy for the evil. She is taking steps to submit to the city council of Chicago a mammoth petition for an ordinance regulating the tonnage a horse may be required to draw. It is her hope that the full legal penalty may be attached to the measure, and that it will be enforced. She realizes that, while a good many owners of horses might be influenced by arguments based on sentiment, there are hundreds who can be reached only through their pockets. If she can make it expensive for an owner to overload a wagon, she thinks she will be able to save the four-footed animals many a weary task.

Mrs. Thomas does not content herself with having her petition signed by leading citizens. She goes every day among the teamsters themselves and, by simple reasoning, induces them to add their names to the plea. Her argument is that it is to the teamster's interest to see that his horse is not overtaxed, because he then will be able to do his own work much more quickly and so, in time, command higher wages. Many hundreds of teamsters have given their signatures to the earnest woman, and she expects to have the names of a fair proportion of the owners on the sheet before she takes it to the council.
