Few are entirely free from it. It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood.

It may then produce a beautiful little child, but later on produce a scrofulous, catarrhic and marked tendency to consumption, before causing eruptions, sores or swellings.

To get entirely rid of it take the great blood-purifier,

S.S.S. CURES RHEUMATISM

Every case of Rheumatism has its origin and its development in the blood. It is not a disease which is contracted like a cold, but it is in the blood and system before the pain is felt, and the changes in the weather or any physical irregularities, such as a spell of indigestion, bowel disturbance, etc., are merely the exciting causes producing the pains andaches, which are the natural symptoms of the disease. Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid and other corrosive, irritating poisons in the blood, which are carried through the circulation to every part of the system. Every muscle, nerve, membrane, tissue and joint becomes saturated with these acid, irritating impurities, or coated with fine, insoluble elastic matter, and the sharp, piercing pains or the dull, constant aches are felt with every physical movement. When the blood is filled with uric acid poison, permanent relief cannot be expected from liniments, plasters, or other external treatment. Such measures give temporary relief, but in order to conquer Rheumatism and bring about a complete cure, the uric acid and other inflammatory matter must be expelled, and this cannot be done with external treatment. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism because it is a perfect and entirely vegetable blood purifier. It goes down into the circulation, neutralizes the acids, and dissolves the irritating deposits which are pressing on the sensitive nerves and tissues and producing pain, and removes every atom of impurity from the circulation. So, instead of being a weak, sour stream, distributing uric acid to the different parts of the system, the blood is strong and healthy and therefore able to supply every muscle, nerve, bone and tissue with nourishment and strength. Then the inflammation and swelling subside, the pains and aches cease, and not only is Rheumatism permanently cured, but under the fine tonic effects of S. S. S. the entire general health is benefited and built up. In all forms of Rheumatism, whether acute or chronic, S. S. S. will be found a safe and reliable treatment. Special book on Rheumatism and any medical advice you desire will be furnished free.

A Perverted Bromidium.

"Oh, girls," exclaimed the gushing maiden from the crowded street car, "I've just washed my hair and I can't do a thing with it!" Just then the car gave a lurch and she shrieked as the man in front of her stepped on her foot.

"Beg pardon," muttered the weary straphanger who had done the stepping. "You see, I've just washed my feet and I can't do a thing with them."—Judge.

Black Coated Papers.

We are becoming not only a nation of shopkeepers, but a nation of clerks. Every young man wishes to be a clerk, every young woman a typewriter. The profession is frightfully overcrowded and frightfully underpaid. We have neither servants nor laborers, only an army of blackcoated papers.—London Graphic.

Extremes.

"Pardon me," said the dowager with the mole on her chin, "but there is hardly room for two of us here if you are going to keep that thing on your head."

"O, I guess there's room enough, madam," answered the sharp featured young woman with the umbrageous hat, who occupied the adjoining seat. "I'm no making any kick about the space you feet take up."—Chicago Tribune.

A Uttermost Secret.

Wife—Have you any secrets you keep from me, dearest?

Husband—None, darling.

Wife—Then I am determined I will have none from you, either.

Husband—Have you secrets, then?

Wife—Only one, and I am resolved to make a clean breast of it.

Husband (hoarsely)—Go on!

Wife—For several days I have had a secret—a secret longing for a new dress, with hat to match, for my birthday.

That fetched him.—Tatler.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Gonorrhea. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and impurities of the system, thereby destroying the cause of the disease, and giving it a pat on the back by building up the constitution and securing nature in doing its work. "The cure," says one who has much faith in its curative power, "has just cured me. Send for list of testimonials."

Advantages of Correct Methods of Growing Wheat.

By S. C. Armstrong, Washington, D. C. (College of Agriculture, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

We must get out and get what the existing demand is going to be, and then, if possible, get that demand; for if we do not meet the requirements of the demand some one else will, and we will be forced to a lower level than we should be. Consequently, the production of wheat, we have to study the problems we meet from a competitive standpoint; we must compete with somebody else who is growing wheat, not only neighbor, necessarily, but our neighbor's section of the country. A man will go where he can get the best wheat, if he wants to buy, and if we have not the best, we will lose the trade.

We of the wheat producing districts of Washington are fortunate in having the best country for the production of wheat on earth, and we should use the utmost diligence to see that we employ only the best methods. If we do this, we can place Washington at the head of the wheat producing regions of the globe, and the brand of the "Evergreen State" on a barrel or sack of flour will be known as a mark of perfection the world over.

We, the public, should commence to raise the grade standard. The state grain commissioner is at present forcing the purchaser to accept No. 2 as No. 1; we cannot expect to get much for No. 1 wheat that tests 58 pounds as our neighbors can for wheat that tests better. Because this state of affairs exists, we are sending out, each year, wheat less sought for than wheat grown in many other countries.

We should insist that every grain grower in the state use such care in the production of his wheat that the resulting higher standard will increase the demand for our wheat. If we improve the quality of our product, the state grain commissioner will be forced to raise the standard; and we should in this way see that our standard is above the standard of every other wheat producing state. By doing this, we would cause our wheat to be quoted at fancy prices. We should make our product so good that we would be willing to have our name and address printed on it, so that as it goes out into the markets of the world, people the world over will know that we are proud of our product.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Valuable Information to Pacific Northwest Inquirers.

By J. L. Ashlock, Washington Experiment Station, Pullman.

Ryan—Has mankind ever been able to devise a fence that will stop an Angora goat? Do coyotes annoy them?

L. L. V.—There are no domesticated animals that are as hard to keep penned up as Angora goats. To secure them, a fence should be of a kind that will not permit the animals to climb, and from four to five feet high. It should be so constructed that a goat cannot jump over it, and preferably should be made of wire instead of boards. A wire fence made of woven wire and about fifty four inches high should hold them. Remember that if the animals can get any sort of vantage from which to jump, they will go over the fence. The goats are pretty good on the defensive, hence coyotes do not as a rule make much headway in attacking them.

Glenwood, Idaho.—Is "quack grass" a dangerous pest? How may I kill morning glories?

C. B.—"Couch grass" is another name for the pest, and it is certainly dangerous when it once has escaped into a garden. In the Eastern States it is reported quite often, but I have not been informed that it is in the Northwest in any great abundance. The morning glory is even more dangerous than quack grass. It is a climbing and covering vine, and its tendrils are fairly good means of destroying it, but it is nearly impossible to kill it by fall plowing.

Wolf Creek, Mont.—How much alfalfa seed should I sow per acre? Which is better, fall or spring seeding?

W. C.—If moisture conditions are all right, fall seeding will do in some regions. Spring seeding should be done as to avoid damage by frost when the seed is germinating. Twelve to fifteen pounds per acre is about right for broadcast seeding, but if a drill or roller is used, ten or twelve will do.

Grass Valley, Or.—Please tell me concerning the comparative value of wheat, hay, and carrots as a feed for horses.

I. M. U.—Such a comparison is impossible, since the feeds in question do not fill the same need. The food value of carrots is very low, but the effect they have in toning up the system, and keeping it in good running order is very important. A horse could eat a peck of carrots per day to a very good advantage, but you should not attempt to substitute them for hay. The same is true in making a comparison of wheat and raw carrots for hog feed, although up to the amount that a hog will eat, the carrots will replace a certain portion of the wheat. I can safely say that where carrots will yield twenty tons per acre, you will find it highly profitable to feed them to hogs to the full capacity of their appetites, provided you feed some grain in connection with the carrots; but you will be unable to keep stock hogs on carrots alone, as they contain too small a percentage of bone and muscle making material.

Getting Acquainted.

"My dad, kin lick your dad," said the dirty faced boy.

"I don't know whether he kin or not," said the new boy on the other side of the back yard fence, "but I'll bet he kin lick your'n."—Chicago Tribune.

Missouri marketed 30,000,000 dozens of eggs last year, which was received more than $10,000,000. Added to this are the items of live and dressed poultry and feathers, making the comfortable sum of nearly $10,000,000 for poultry products for the last year.

JOLLY JOKER

The Artist (showing new picture)—This is the best thing I ever did. The Critic—Oh, well, you mustn't let that discourage you.

Hewitt—Are you a believer in vaccination? Jewett—Most certainly. It kept my daughter from playing the piano for nearly a week.—Stray Stories.

Maudie was afraid the girls wouldn't notice her engagement ring? "Did they?" "Did they?" Six of them recognized it at once.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Heiress—But they tell me you are embarrassed by your debts. The Suitor—Don't you believe it. But doubtless my creditors are.—Chicago Daily News.

Patience—They say she has a wonderful command of language. Patrice—Well, she seems to command her husband's, but not her own.—Yonkers Statesman.

"I pay as I go," declared the pompous citizen. "Not while I'm financing these apartments," declared the landlord. "You'll pay as you move in."—Washington Journal.

Jack—In the Oriental world a girl never sees her intended husband until she is married. Floss—How odd! In this part of the world she seldom sees him afterward.—New York Globe.

"On your trip abroad did you see any wonderful old ruins?" he asked. "Yes," she replied, archly, "and guess what?" "Well?" "One of them wanted to marry me."—Harper's Weekly.

"You admit that you sometimes make mistakes," said the intimate friend. "You are wrong," answered the eminent statesman. "I sometimes make mistakes, but I don't admit it."—Washington Star.

Office Boy—I bought our fair typist a bunch of postcards for her desk, today. Messenger Boy—What did you lose on like that? Office Boy—Try'n' ter bait de old mite for fire-de chesty book-keeper.—Puck.

"Say," asked the first messenger boy, "got any novels ter swap?" "I got 'Big Foot Bill's Revenge,'" replied the other. "Is it a long story?" "Naw! Ye kin finish it easy in two messages."—Philadelphia Press.

Mistress (astounded)—You can't read, Nora? Good gracious! How did you ever learn to cook so well? New Cook—Shore, mum, O! lay it 't not bel'n' able to read the cook books.—Town and Country.

He—Yes, a daughter is a father's dearest possession, and I don't blame him for not wanting to give you up. She—Oh, if I were the only thing he had to give up he might not feel so badly.—Town and Country.

"Would you advise me to go into politics?" "Young man," answered Senator Sorghum, "the more fact that you are so modest as to ask advice about it proves that you are unfit for the profession."—Washington Star.

Muriel—When you eloped with George, did you leave a note telling your people where you had gone? Gabrielle—Why, of course! If I hadn't, how would papa have known where to send us any money?—Illustrated Bits.

"And would you marry me if I were a poor girl, working for a living?" asked the heiress. "Darling," responded the accepted suitor, "it wouldn't be fair. You'd be doing enough in supporting yourself."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Nimmy," said the hostess, "you appear to be in deep thought." "Yes," replied Tommy, "papa told me something to say if you should ask me to have some cake or anything, and I bin here so long now I forgot what it was."—Philadelphia Press.

"Where has yer been this evenin'?" asked O'Riley of O'Toole. "Sure, I have been playin' 'Bridget whist,'" said O'Toole. "Bridget whist? An' how'd yer play that?" "I sit in the light with Bridget, an' I pile an' cake an' chicken, an' when Bridget hears the misses count she says 'whist.'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Back to Stupid Ways.

Abe, a light mulatto, called upon a minister for whom he had formerly worked.

"Yo' know, boss, I've gwine be married nex' week," he admitted haltingly. "I've gwine to marry Miss May Felicity Johnson, an' May she say she wants ter be married jus' like white folks."

"All right, Abe, I'll marry you if you want," the minister replied.

"How much you gwine charge?"

"It will cost you $5 to be married like white folks."

Abe scratched his head. "Guess we'll had ter be married like colored folks, then," he said. "You see, boss, we's got ter be housekeepin', an' I ain't got but $8."

The Page Between.

A New Orleans woman, well known for her work for charity, recently accepted an invitation to speak at an anti-tuberculosis meeting. On the platform she found herself seated between a bishop and a rabbi, and the tone of the meeting seemed to be rendered extremely solemn by the combination.

In order to lighten the solemnity, she said, turning to the rabbi: "Do you know, I feel as if I were a leaf between the Old and the New Testaments."

The rabbi turned a sad-eyed gaze upon her.

"Yes, madam," he said, "and if you will recall, that page is usually a blank one."

Sam Weiler.

It was Sam Weiler who made Dickens famous. "Pickwick Papers" were a complete failure financially until this unique character was introduced. The press was all but unanimous in praising Samival as an entirely original character whom none but a great genius could have created. Dickens received over $10,000 for "Pickwick Papers," and at the age of twenty-six he was incomparably the most popular author of his day.—London Standard.

Modernized Version.

Pythias had returned, just in time to save the life of Iphigeneia.

"Gee!" exclaimed Iphigeneia. "Boys, when that story is worked into a play it will make a great hit."

"Most noble tyrant," said Pythias, venturing to correct him, "it's merely a sacrifice hit."

Many of the scores, however, having only a superficial knowledge of the game, marked it down as a double play.—Chicago Tribune.
