UP-TO-THE-MINUTE NEIGHBORHOOD BITS

Tumalo.

TUMALO, May 10 (Special Correspondence)
The gentle showers and fine growing weather that has struck western Crook county lately is making the harvesters and stockmen smile.
Six men from Hightower and Smith's saw mill passed here Saturday on their way to Bend. They report their mill has closed down for a while and they have laid off most the men.
George W. Wimer & Sons have had two valuable two-year old colts almost ruined on poorly constructed barbed wire fences lately. They have been these horses badly cut on such fences out in these parts within the past few months. Some claim that it is no ones business as to the kind of wire fences they erect and maintain, and they don't seem to realize that they could be held for all the damages the people sustain from putting up and maintaining such dangerous fences.
J. W. Baker will go back to his old place working for the D. I. and P. company this week. He will remain with them until having time. Then he will return and take care of quite a large crop which he has put in on his home stead and on G. W. Wimer & Sons' ranch.

Madras.

MADRAS, May 14 (Special Correspondence)
Owing to delay in the mails, it is impossible to set the Madras correspondence this week.

High School Is Needed

There is considerable need in this part of the country for a consolidated unison high school and the plan has been propounded by the powers that be that such a school be located at Laidlaw with a free bus, paid for by the school district, calling for the various pupils as is done in parts of Iowa. It is getting a row that ranchers outside of this district, as well as some in divided districts, are sending their children to the Laidlaw school, for lack of funds to support the smaller districts. This plan will doubtless appeal to the trustees and citizens of Pleasant Ridge and other neighborhoods as much more desirable than such an arrangement with a more remote district, like Bend.

Short Cut Proposed

A plan is afoot by which Laidlaw will be brought five miles nearer the outside world. By building a bridge across the Deschutes at Dr. Cline's ranch, seven miles down the river, a cut off of at least five miles in distance and many minutes in time will be accomplished between Laidlaw and Trail Crossing. This innovation will be appreciated by travelers. Another advantage of the proposed route is that there are no hills to ascend or descend at Cline Falls.

Protest Case Decided.

The officers at The Dalles land office have rendered a decision in favor of Marion F. Hudson in the protest case of Joseph H. Buckholz vs. Marion F. Hudson. This case was tried before U. S. Commissioner H. C. Ellis at Bend a short time ago. Attorney Myers of Laidlaw acted as counsel for Hudson, while C. S. Benson of Bend was attorney for Buckholz. Hudson gets a valuable tract of timber.
