A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
THIS ONE THING I DO:—For getting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.—Philippians 3:13, 14.

The Advocate has accepted a Newspaper Association Membership in the National Highway Association (Washington, D. C.), with which are affiliated two hundred and two road associations and organizations. It stands, not for any particular road, but for Good Roads Everywhere, through the establishment of National Highways.

The "Map Device" at the head of this column expresses our interest in roads. It is the symbol of an Association which for twelve years has worked faithfully and hard for the dissemination of road information, which has published thousands of maps, and millions of pamphlets, in the interest of good roads, and which believes that the future civilization of this great country will go forward as fast and no faster than we develop our systems of transportation.

Good roads everywhere mean prosperity and happiness everywhere. That is why we have become a Newspaper Association Member of the Association which will eventually produce Good Roads Everywhere!

The Ku Klux Klan, so we read, will not name Mayor George L. Baker as its candidate for the office of United States senator as was thought by many they would do. Instead, they have decided on Fred L. Gifford, who is the recognized leader of the Klan in Oregon. Now the question is, will Mayor Baker make the race, regardless of the endorsement of that organization.

LOOKING BACK TWENTY YEARS

Can you who have lived in Portland for twenty years recall some of the people who were engaged in various pursuits, especially those engaged in business and some who held responsible, well-paying jobs; and those who were considered good-livers and well-to-do; and others who were leaders in church, fraternal and social circles? If you do, do you think they have kept pace with the growth and advancement of the city? If they have not, very not? In our humble opinion, very few of them have kept up with the rapid advancement of this day and this city. In other words, they have gone backward, except, perhaps in their church buildings.

Twenty years ago there were ten colored people in business in Portland to every one of today. Many who were leaders in the activities and affairs of the race are now sitting supinely by doing nothing towards helping the race come into its own—they seem to be willing to let the race go to the—

Twenty years ago some of our colored men owned property almost in the heart of the business section of the city, estimated to be worth $40,000 or $50,000. But not so now. Twenty years ago some of our women had finely equipped beauty and dressmaking parlors in the downtown district, where they were patronized by the wealthiest women of the other race, but few, if any, are now so prominently situated. Twenty years ago, colored people owned a fine hall where they held their lodge meetings and social gatherings and where they could meet and enjoy the fact that the building was owned by the race; twenty years ago colored men owned some of the leading barber shops of Portland, some of the best tailoring shops and other representative places of business, but not so now, for the colored business man has seemingly become contented and happy and has fallen in the habit of waiting for business to come to him, while the business men of other races get up and hustle for business. The result is they are still in business, while many of our former colored business men are looking for jobs. The Advocate regrets to see this retarded condition amongst our people; we still have hopes that in the next twenty years there will be wonderful improvement amongst the race in the business as well as other circles.

OREGON BLUE BOOK

The 1933-1934 edition of the Oregon Blue Book, just off the press, has been received at our desk from Sam A. Koser, secretary of state. It contains that incorporated in previous issues of the publication with the exception that wherever an extension or correction thereof has been found necessary it has been brought down to that date. The publication since its authorization has become almost indispensable in connection with the political, business and social life of the state, and it is said that the demands each biennial period being far beyond the provision made therefor.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE AND LAW-LESSNESS

Press dispatches contain information to the effect that the new President Coolidge, stirred up by reports of lynching, flogging and other deprivations of masked and unmasked bands in Texas, Georgia, Florida, Ohio, and Oklahoma, is considering proposed legislation would not only include lynching but all forms of lawlessness by bands who take the law into their own hands. The bill would make any act of mob violence a federal offense. Penalties on a smaller scale for outrages other than lynching would be provided for in it. It is probably true that in every state in the nation, President Coolidge will find active and eager supporters for such a measure and that support would be more readily forthcoming than was support for the Dyer Bill, which unfortunately was shelved.

Masked bands, the concrete evidence of the growth of mob tendencies in the country generally, have operated so widely as to be considered a general menace to the established laws of the nation. In fact there are few states now in which some form of mob law has not manifested itself and the spirit of lawlessness not proved itself present. State law making bodies, composed of men with their political futures at stake, have not acted vigorously to suppress these tendencies and to increase the respect of the general public for constituted authority.

The federal law-makers must act if the nation is to be saved from its own folly.

President Coolidge has established a reputation for devotion to constituted authority which will go far toward causing general confidence in his ability to carry out any legislation in its behalf which he may undertake. In fact, Democrats as well as Republicans can find common ground for support of such legislation as he is now proposing.

We hope that the actual proposal of such a bill may be made. We believe that the sentiment created by

Bonfire Party Enjoyed

Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hardin and their guest; Mrs. Blanche Ross, Mr. Al Green, Mr. and Mrs. Grice and Mrs. George Mullen, all of Portland, enjoyed a big bonfire party on the beach at Seaside Monday night. Singing and story-telling were the diversions to the accompaniment of the big breakers. The party stopped at the Frin and the Ba-Am (Curry Tents).

The advisability of enacting an anti-mob bill in the next Congress. The fight for and against the Dyer bill and the discussion of lawlessness which has followed its failure, may be turned to good account in support of new legislation of a similar nature.

And, too, it may augur well politically for Coolidge who, with only a few months before him before another campaign, needs the good will of the Republicans everywhere, pivotal states where Negro voters are dissatisfied not excepted.

WRITER CONGRATULATES THE ADVOCATE

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 4, 1933.
Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Cannady,
Editor and Associate, The Advocate,
Portland, Oregon:
My dear friends:

Allow me to congratulate you upon the twentieth anniversary of The Advocate and the success which you have made despite the long years of toil, persecution and opposition. Out of the welter of dross comes that rare ore called—pure gold. It is singularly strange that dross and gold must be intermixed, like truth and error. It seems to be the order of things terrestrial. The world admires the man or woman that holds to the purpose of winning out—and wins out.

Many more birthdays, but may they be more golden.
Yours most sincerely,
NETTIE J. ASBERRY.
