STATE'S HEAD SAYS ANY ONE WILLING TO WORK WHO IS FAIRLY INTELLIGENT IS AN ASSET.—TELLS COLORED PEOPLE TO BRING RELATIVES WHO ARE GOOD CITIZENS

"Call on Me, I Will Help in Word or Deed," Declares Democratic Governor in Promoting Race Program.—Necessity of Hour Medium That Unites Capital and Labor.

(Preston News Service.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Governor Smith last week told a mass meeting of Negroes held in the interests of those of their race who are migrating from the South to the North and West that "if your relatives in the South want to come to the North and will be clean living, hard-working members of society as you are, we will be glad to have them."
Anyone willing to work, who is fairly intelligent, is an asset, I wish your movement all possible success. Call on me and I will help either in word or in deed."
Referring to the white cross labor bureau, Rev. Simon P. Drew, manager, which has undertaken to provide employment for the migrating Negroes, the governor declared New York was the country's greatest industrial state and necessity of the hour was the medium which brought capital and labor together.

COLORED CITIZENS SURPRISE ATLANTA

The Community Chest campaign for $500,000, held last week in Atlanta, Ga., was liberally subscribed to by colored citizens in that city to the amount of $32,084, which sum equals the total amount apportioned in the Chest Budget to colored organizations.

More surprising than the total was the fact that the second largest individual subscription of the whole campaign was one of $3500, made by Heman Perry, colored, in the name of The Service Company, an organization which affiliates eleven Negro business enterprises, with a total capitalization of $5,500,000. Officers and employees of this company sub-

For Reliable Goods

My fingers are greasy, my face is greasy, but what care! I have my cornbread, neckbones and beans!
I heareth my plate with beans, decorateth the rim with bones and buttereth the cornbread with oleo.
I putteth into my mouth a spoonful of succulent beans, biteth off a hunk of hot cornbread and then juggluth with a juicy, greasy neckbone.
I am content. Lobster Newburg, Chicken King and Livers Brochette are nothing to this banquet board of tasty fare.

SOME THANKSGIVING TURKEY!

Oscar Turner, 231 N. 15th street, is the happy recipient of a 30-pound turkey, which his mother, Mrs. F. C. Dunlap, sent all the way from Claiborne Parish, La., to her son.

While the big bird did not arrive in time for Thanksgiving Day, it filled the bill a day later just the same. Not only did Mrs. Dunlap wish her son to eat, but she wished him to sleep as well, for in the same mail came three lovely hand-made, old-fashioned bed quilts, which the fond mother made 36 years ago, before Oscar was born.

A remarkable thing about the quilts is, they are just as fresh and new looking as they were when first made, due to special care taken of them by Mrs. Dunlap.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT REPUDIATES KLAN ENDORSEMENT

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 2.—At a meeting of the National Republican Club on Lincoln's birthday last year, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., had the following to say about the Ku Klux Klan: "The word Americanism has been soiled by being used by some groups for the purpose of furthering their brutally intolerant designs. Such a group is the Ku Klux Klan, who have banded together against certain creeds and races. Americanism never goes masked, and he who tells you it does, lies."

THE SONGS OF SAM

Harken, O sons and daughters, while I lit to thee a lonesome lay on neckbones and beans.
I remembereth the day when ham, chicken and pork chops crowded my menu and tantalized my aching palate.
But old Hicost hath tampered with my change and I have sought far and wide for other luscious food. And I hath found it in neckbones and beans.

I hear the pot simmering now and the gentle odor of corn bread floateth from the kitchen and tickleth me.
And O! ye table when thou art set with cornbread, neckbones and beans!
I heareth my plate with beans, decorateth the rim with bones and buttereth the cornbread with oleo.
I putteth into my mouth a spoonful of succulent beans, biteth off a hunk of hot cornbread and then juggluth with a juicy, greasy neckbone.

I am content. Lobster Newburg, Chicken King and Livers Brochette are nothing to this banquet board of tasty fare.
My fingers are greasy, my face is greasy, but what care! I have my cornbread, neckbones and beans!

NEVER BEFORE IN HISTORY OF RACE IN AMERICA HAS SUCH POMP AND SPLENDOR ACCOMPANIED WEDDING.—DR. JACKSON OF CHICAGO AND MISS WALKER ROBINSON UNITED

New York Thrilled at Gorgeous Spectacle.—9000 Invitations Sent to All the Seven Seas.—26 Police Hold Crowds in Abjectance While Gorgeous Procession Passes.

(Reprint from New York Times of November 25.)
Miss Mae Walker Robinson, only granddaughter of the Mme. Walker who was the sole patentee of a famous prescription to take the kink out of negro hair, became Mrs. Dr. Henry Gordon Jackson yesterday at St. Philip's Episcopal church in Harlem, and nobody in the territory roughly bounded by Park and Columbus avenues and 127th and 140th streets could have failed to be impressed by the event.

It was a wedding such as Harlem never saw, and may never see again, for there was but one granddaughter of Mme. Walker, the world's richest negroess, reputed to have made more than a million dollars out of her hair stimulant. It was a wedding that rolled into one all the ceremonial of a royal, a military and an ordinary marriage.

At high noon, in the stillness of St. Philip's church, near Seventh avenue, the bride and bridegroom slowly ascended the steps from altar rail to altar. The long white train of the bride, sprinkled with sea pearls, swept gracefully along from step to step. A rustle was heard.

"Hear those pearls rattling," said Harry D. Evans, advertising manager of the Mme. G. J. Walker Manufacturing Company, who chaperoned the reporters. Real pearls they were, too, rattling down the aisle—symbols of the luxury, the fine attention to details of etiquette, that stamped this notable "obey-less ceremony from end to end.

500 in Church; 2000 Outside
What if 9000 invitations had been issued and only 500 were in the church? More than 2000 women were in the street outside, gasping at the gorgeousness and cheering the bride. Besides, the 9000 invitations, according to Mrs. Sara Price Patton, social secretary to Mrs. A. Lella Walker, mother of the bride, were distributed thus:

"One thousand covered M. m. e. A. Lella Walker's personal mailing list, which includes friends and acquaintances in every State in the Union, British Guiana, British West Indies, Canada, England, France, Haiti, Liberia, Nigeria, Panama and the Philippines."
Possibly some of these went astray. Anyway, it's a long jaunt from N-
