Don't Be Misled

It is too bad that at this time in our national crisis that so much time is being devoted to discussing racial and religious differences, by leaders, at the expense of the real conditions, economic and otherwise, and a means to im prove them. If men could only realize that this sort of thing gets them no where, they would try stressing the point of mutual agreement. After agreeing on one point they would soon discover if they that there were many points upon heir own which they agree.
