The Appealing Charm of Health

Tacoma, Wash.—"Last April I came down with the 'flu' and was so weak afterwards that I could scarcely drag around, and my nerves were in terrible shape. I had backaches and headaches and my appetite failed me completely. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription had been of such great benefit to me once before when I had need of a tonic and nerve that I decided to take it again and it very quickly relieved me of the nervousness, backaches and headaches and my appetite soon returned. I was restored to health, which I still enjoy. I would recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to every woman who is ailing, weak or nervous."—Mrs. Johanna Buchko, 3561 E. Eye St.

Originally "Jaws' Harp"

The name, Jew's harp, is probably a corruption of the original name of this simple musical instrument, Jew's harp, so called because when in use it is held between the jaws. A musician named Charles Eulenstein produced remarkable effects with Jew's harps at the Royal Institute, London, on February 15, 1828.

Record for Bad English

The record for bad English is still held by a man who was not long ago a governor of one of our large states. He performed the unusual feat of making three grammatical errors in a sentence composed of two words: "Them's them!"—Scribner's Magazine.

Madame Le Brun.

Mme. Le Brun was a French painter who gained considerable reputation in Paris. Her paintings, historical pieces as well as portraits, were exhibited in the Louvre, Mme. de Genlis speaks of the talents of Mme. Le Brun with much warmth of praise, and complains that the men "sought to depreciate her paintings because she was a woman."—Chicago Journal.

Cling To Machete.

The machete is still the favorite weapon and cutting tool of the Cubans, who buy 450,000 of the instruments from manufacturers in this and other countries every year.

Cleaning Silverware.

Soiled silverware is instantly cleaned if dropped into hot soda solution, provided the latter is contained in an aluminum vessel and the ware touches the aluminum.

Universal Force.

Force, force, everywhere force! We ourselves a mysterious force in the center of that. There is not a leaf rattling in the highway but has force in it; how else could it rot?—Thomas Carlyle.

Chase Evil Spirits.

In many parts of South America wooden crosses are still erected on the outskirts of the towns and villages to frighten away the evil spirits.

"Hello Daddy—don't forget my Wrighleys!" Slip a package in your pocket when you go home to-night. Give the youngsters this wholesome, long-lasting sweet-for-pleasure and benefit.

Use it yourself after smoking or when work drags. It's a great little fresher!

Primitive Matches. Early matches were called lucifers, and a match that would ignite by means of friction was invented by a man named Walker, of Stockton-on-Tees, England, in 1829. In March, 1842, Reuben Partridge took out a British patent for a machine for manufacturing the splints. All these early matches depended upon phosphorus for their lighting by means of friction. Safety matches were first brought out in 1862.

Apostle Man of Learning. St. Paul was educated in all the learning of the Jewish doctors of the law, as he states himself. His addresses also show that he had a knowledge of classical literature, particularly the literature of the Greeks. There were many seats of learning in the East in his time. One, that we would call a university, was situated in his native city of Tarsus, in Cilicia.

Marriage Solemnity. The two stages through which marriage has developed are: Marriage by force and marriage by contract. In the latter stage of development there was a solemn surrender of the bride by her guardian in the Anglo-Saxon marriage service. This ceremony is the prauning, and the custom of "giving away the bride" is traced to this solemn surrender.

The Earnest Man. The earnest men are so few in the world that their very earnestness becomes at once the badge of their nobility; and, as men in a crowd instinctively make room for one who seems eager to force his way through it, so mankind everywhere open their ranks to one who rushes zealously toward some object lying beyond them.—Dwight.

Twig as Tooth Brush. Kim, the little boy in Kipling's story, was an English orphan brought up as a native in India. He cleaned his teeth with a twig, chewing the fibers thoroughly to penetrate all crevices, and scrubbing energetically to remove tartar. Most East Indians have white, strong teeth.

Caledonian Art. At pottery the Caledonians could not compare with the Romans, since the potter's wheel seems to have been unknown amongst them. But they almost excelled the "masters of the world" in their ornaments. The mountains yielded their craftsmen gold, silver, bronze, amber, rubies and rock crystals such as agate, jasper and cairngorms and jet. From these they made ornaments and weapons.

Height of Redwoods. Two hundred and fifty-five feet is the average height of the big redwood sequoia tree, although specimens exceeding 320 feet with trunk diameter of 30 to 35 feet near the ground have been measured.

Keep Goal in Sight. Let a man but have an aim, a purpose, and opportunities to attain his end shall start forth like buds at the kiss of spring.—Bishop Spalding.

Care of Metal Utensils. In order to save constantly using polishers on metals to keep them bright and spotless it is a good idea to wipe the metals with a flannel containing vaseline after the first polishing treatment, after which they can be gone over again frequently in the same way.

Water in Cucumbers. About 90 per cent of water is contained in the makeup of a cucumber.

Woods in Combination. Gum and mahogany is not considered real mahogany. Only solid mahogany or solid mahogany with a mahogany veneer could be considered real mahogany. However, gum and birch with mahogany veneer is quite generally used.

Carbonated Drinks Popular. Carbonated drinks, which were originated in 1807, in this country, have attained immense popularity here. More than 8,000,000,000 bottles are consumed yearly, according to the United States Department of Commerce figures.

SPARROW AND ROBIN. "But of course it will stop raining. Mrs. Sparrow," said Mrs. Robin in a cheery tone. "It always stops sometime, you know."

"Never Saw Such Weather," Mrs. Chippy Sparrow Grumbled. "I don't see how you can sing," said Mrs. Sparrow. "You are going to have a wet nest if this lasts and, anyway, you can't get anything to eat with the rain coming down like this."

ASTOLD BY Irvin S. Cobb THE CURIOUS DARKY

AN ATLANTA cotton broker had occasion to take a business trip into interior Georgia. He bore his golf clubs with him, intending to stop off upon his way back for a match on the famous links at Augusta.

QUESTIONS FREE. Caller — But you said you wouldn't charge me anything for the little legal questions I asked you. Lawyer — I haven't. What I've charged you for is the answer.

MAUDE. MAUDE, signifying "mighty battle maid," was interchanged in former times with Mathilda, the first instance of its double use being the daughter of Henry I, who was known by both names.

A LINE O' CHEER. By John Kendrick Bangs. A PROMISE. JUST for Today. As on you run your way Do all you can amid the rough and tumble Completely to forget Your own regret And bear a bit of 'other fellow's trouble I promise you that you If this course you pursue Will find that bit of kindly self-denial Down the road Will cut at least in half the pressing load Of your own trial.

Malcolm McGregor

This handsome young leading man in the "movies" is an American by birth. He went through the elementary schools, and then entered Yale university. His athletic nature made it inevitable that he should go into sports, and so it was that he made the Yale team for several years. It was while at Yale that he met the prominent producer who induced him to enter motion pictures.

hard world to live in. Things are always wrong. Mrs. Robin flew away to another tree. "If I stayed there and listened to her faultfindings I might get to be as dissatisfied as she is," she chirped. "I don't see anything wrong with this world. It is a pretty nice place to live in, I think."

Have You This Habit?

HARRY HERRIOT, even as a little boy, had the habit of hurry. He would gulp down his porridge long before his brothers and sisters had finished theirs, and he always rushed away to school with a button off or his hair unbrushed.
