

WRIGLEYS AFTER EVERY MEAL

affords benefit as well as pleasure. Healthful exercise for the teeth and a spur to digestion. A long-lasting refreshment, soothing to nerves and stomach.

The Great American Sweetmeat, untouched by hands, full of flavor. SEALED TIGHT KEPT RIGHT.

Babe Ruth Suspended. New York—Babe Ruth, baseball's champion slugger of all time, picturesque idol of youthful millions and the highest salaried player of the major leagues, tottered from his throne Saturday.

Chicago—Stiffing heat sent Chicagoans to beaches and other cool spots Sunday for relief from temperatures ranging from 96 to 109 degrees.

World's Largest Library. The largest library in the world is the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris, founded by Louis XIV.

Elephant Four Feet Tall. A pygmy elephant, full grown but only 3 feet, 8 inches high, has arrived in London from the African Congo.

Jesuit Martyr. Father Isaac Jogues, the French Jesuit missionary, who is one of the many holy persons beatified during the holy year in Rome, was killed by Mohawk Indians at Caughnawaga, N. Y., October 18, 1646.

Ibsen Voluntary Exile. Ibsen, the Norwegian dramatist, after failing to stir up his countrymen by his "A Brother in Need," to rally to the aid of Denmark, left Norway in voluntary exile, and remained away until 1891.

Developed Own Talent. Meissonier, the great French painter of military subjects, was practically self-taught, having received only very meager instruction from teachers.

Hand Power. It has been estimated that if all the hand-shaking of the last election could be put to milking cows, all the cows of the nation would be milked for a week.—Good Hardware.

Of Spanish Origin. Ranching is a term derived from the Spanish-American word rancho, originally meaning a place where herdsmen eat and sleep, but gradually extended to mean a grazing farm.

First English Book. The first book printed in the English language was the work of William Caxton, who, in 1474, issued the "Recuyell of the Histories of Troy," a translation of Raoul de Fevre's work.

Hypocrisy Doesn't Pay. No man, for any considerable period, can wear one face to himself and another to the multitude, without finally getting bewildered as to which may be true.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

ROAD BUILDING

BUY SATISFACTION WITH HARD PAVING. When the street running past your house or in front of your place of business is to be paved you are interested in seeing that the material chosen has the advantage of providing for economy and satisfaction.

By experience over a term of years it has been found that hard-surfaced pavements meet all requirements. A street thus improved is sure to give satisfaction. Now first cost alone is no good argument; the cheapest surface may prove the most expensive in the end.

Having paid for a paved street you want to enjoy the improvement without being called upon for taxes every year in order that it may be repaired or rebuilt. The original cost should be the last except for such incidental attention as may be needed.

Michigan Gives Nation Its Best Road Builders. Michigan university, in establishing a chair of highway engineering and transport, is among the first of the colleges of the country to approach this important subject from the practical standpoint.

Trees on Highways. Trees adapted to their environs may grow to a great age and nobility, and in this way highway planting will become a most important task in the matter of our rural landscapes.

Missouri Going Ahead. Missouri is marching steadily forward in the building of paved highways. The state highway department awarded contracts for the construction of 67.8 miles of road to cost $874,795, making a total of $18,000,000 of road work contracted for since January 1.

Corn Good for Sows. When the sow begins to show a loss of weight from suckling her litter she can be fed all her appetite demands. Shelled corn is the most suitable grain if it is properly supplemented by a good slop.

Advantages of Self-Feeder. The self-feeder is especially valuable when feed is high-priced. For then you need to use economy in production. Hogs will waste less grain when fed in a first-class self-feeder than when they are fed "by hand" under ordinary conditions.

Wife—I suppose we must send Miss Spicer a wedding present. Hubby—I warned you not to get too intimate with that girl. I knew she was one of the kind to get married soon.

LIVE STOCK

SUMMER FEED FOR SWINE NEGLECTED. It is not necessary to feed lots of high-priced feeds to pigs during the summer, but it is advisable to add some concentrates to a good forage.

One other common cause of lack of growth in spring pigs to which Mr. Godfrey calls attention is parasites, both internal and external. Hundreds of pounds of feed are wasted every year feeding worms. A few dollars spent for worm treatment will save some hogs and cause the others to make the most from the feed consumed.

Hogging Down Corn Has Three Big Advantages. The advantages to be gained from hogging down corn may be briefly summed up under three heads. First of all, and one that is of utmost importance at the present time, is that the practice is ideal from a labor-saving standpoint.

Guard Against Cholera Among Hogs This Season. Hog cholera, as is well known, is a disease that runs in cycles. It is less virulent in some years than in others and those who are well posted on these cycles claim that we are now entering upon a period of a virulent form of cholera.

Indians Didn't Intend Selling Lands Outright. "From the day that white men had their first land dealings with Indians," says the Frontier, "it has been assumed that the aborigines sold their lands outright, and the various negotiations into which the United States entered with them for the transfer of their lands by treaty or agreement, until comparatively recent times, are no exception."

Dangerous Foods. It is a generally accepted fact that rabies cannot be transmitted to normal animals through food containing the virus of the disease unless lesions are present in the alimentary canal. However, the conclusion that there is no danger to the consumer from the meat or milk of animals that are rabid is not tenable, since abrasions of the lips, mouth, pharynx are all too frequent to permit of such risks.

Makes for Humility. He that works and rightly considereth his own well will find little cause to judge hardy of another.—Thomas a Kempis.

THE ROOM OF THE PURPLE RAY

By DON MARK LEMON. FOUR months after the salt waves had laid at his feet the cold form of his Love, came the news that Herbert Munson was the possessor of a startling secret. He had, it was stated, discovered a Purple Ray that would wither and destroy certain human cells of memory without injury or danger to neighboring cells.

And, sure enough, here they came—those who loved not wisely but too well, those who loved deeply but not wisely, and those who loved the dead and could endure the grief no longer—and the Purple Ray "plucked" from the memory its rooted sorrow, and they went forth from the Mansion of Forgetfulness unscarred and fall-free.

He watched them come and go—watched the many, ah, too many, pilgrims arrive with sorrowful, love-scarred faces, but depart with unconcerned, care-free looks, and at times he feared that his philanthropy was a sacrifice. There seemed something unholy in this sudden transmutation of grief into gladness—this swift thrusting aside of their own free will to forget a hopeless passion, and they could now return whence they came and love again, more wisely if less deeply.

Something in her manner—perhaps her agitated hesitation at the portals—moved the master to accost her. "Kind friend," he said, "were it not better to remember what you now seek to forget?" As he spoke he drew closer about his face the cowl he wore to conceal his identity from the merely curious.

"No, you will wholly forget. The Purple Ray is oblivion itself." "Ah, well, better I kill these painful memories than break my heart!" "Then, if it must be so, enter and forget."

"Show me the way and let me go quickly," was the plea of the veiled lady. "I have come far, and the worst is only a few steps farther on." "Come, then, and the master led the way to the room of the Purple Ray.

"Have you forgotten?" he asked. "Forgotten! I know that I have forgotten something, else why am I here, yet I do not know what I have forgotten." "So they all say!"

"A flush of rosy light shone from a slender window overhead, halving the pilgrim like a saint." "How beautiful everything is!" she exclaimed. "Why do I wear this veil? I will no longer!"

"No, no!" protested the visitor. "I am not a spirit, and I fear I am too, too human." "You are Morella!" whispered the man, staring before him like one peering through intense darkness.
