In the JUNGLE With Cheerups and the Quixies By Grace Bliss Stewart

THE NERVOUS GNU

IT WAS a very trying moment for Mr. Gnu. He had just begun to wonder what kind of an animal he really was. All his friends were quite sure which family they belonged to. There was Mrs. Ostreich, Raffy Graffe, Swift the Antelope, Springy Gazelle and Zippy Zebra, his jolly neighbors on the Great Plain. Each knew without a doubt where he belonged in the Animal World. "But here am I," grumbled Mr. Gnu, "with the head and horns of a bull, the mane and tail of a horse and the body and legs of an antelope; just a mixture like patchwork. It's most embarrassing." He took a sudden leap into the air, alighted on the ground and began to paw and wheel about like a frisky horse, which is a funny way Gnu's have of doing when they are excited and disturbed. Then, kicking up his heels and flourishing his long tail, the Nervous Gnu scampered across the Broad Sunny Plain at top speed. Soon the Great Trees and Twisted Vines of the edge of the Jungle loomed before him. Their cool shade looked very inviting to Mr. Gnu. "I haven't been in there for a long time," thought he. "I wonder what's going on in the Jungle these days. The same old Lions and Leopards are there, I suppose, and they would like a nice juicy something-or-other like me for supper. But I can't help that; I've just got to go in and look around for myself. It's so mysterious and exciting."

"Now don't be disturbed, Mr. Gnu," said Cheerups, smiling and nodding his topknot merrily. "There isn't a bit of doubt in my mind what you are. You are an antelope. Don't you see that your body and I have the same shape or part of you—are like those of the antelope family? So there you are! The question is settled as neatly as can be." "Oh, I hadn't thought of that," gasped the Gnu. "It's funny how you don't think of things, isn't it? I see now that you are perfectly right, Mr. Cheerups. That's really a wonderful idea. How you have relieved my mind! Thank you, thank you!" "Now you can go back to your happy little neighborhood on the Broad Plain and know just where you stand. Swift the Antelope and Springy Gazelle are your cousins, remember! But please do be careful about being curious, Mr. Gnu," called Cheerups. "Curiosity carries you far. And teaches you much, I hear. But caution tells you not to stray. Where danger is lurking near."

"I'll try to remember all you have told me, Mr. Cheerups," cried the Nervous Gnu, kicking his heels joyfully in the air, and with a final switch of his tail he made off at top speed in the direction of his friends on the Broad Plain. (By Little, Brown & Co.)

Your Last Name

IS IT HINMAN?

THERE is no English Hinman family. Burke gives arms for Inman, Hindman and Hyndman. A genealogist of the American Hinman family suggests that Inman is the original form of the name for which Hinman is a Cockney variation. At any rate there was early a big family of Hinmans in this country. The first of the name here was Sergeant Edward, who is recorded in Stratford, Conn., between 1620 and 1652. There is a family tradition that he was a sergeant-at-arms in the bodyguard of King Charles I, and that that is where he got his designation as sergeant. There is record that he and Capt. Charles Underhill, in Albany, offered their services to Governor Stuyvesant to help the Dutch fight the Indians but Stuyvesant turned down their offer, saying that he considered the Indians as good friends as the English. Sergeant Edward married Hannah, daughter of Francis and Sarah Stiles of Windsor, Conn. He died in 1681, leaving four daughters and four sons, Titus, Samuel, Benjamin and Edward. BUCK—The Buck family, to which Dudley Buck, the musician, belonged, was founded here by Emanuel Buck, who came to Massachusetts shortly

"Don't Be Alarmed," Called a Voice From the Palm Leaf Roof.

Winding Way into the heart of the Jungle. He was timid and suspicious, of course, but his curiosity quite got the better of him. "Oh, what's that?" whimpered he with a jump, as he came suddenly into the clearing and saw Cheerups' little house standing there. "I don't believe it means anything good, whatever it is, and yet I should like to know." "Don't be alarmed," called a merry voice from the peak of the small palm-leaf roof. "I know it looks queer, but I just got up here on top of my house for a change and a better view of things. I'm Cheerups; is there anything I can do for you today?" "Why—why—yes, str, there is," stammered the Gnu, remembering all of a sudden the knotty question which had troubled him that morning. "I'd like to know what I am. Now there's a power for you! You see my clumps, Raffy Graffe, Mrs. Ostreich, Springy Gazelle, Swift the Antelope and Zippy Zebra, all know who they are. We are very happy and sociable out on the Broad Plain, str, but I am bothered about my family tree." "What is your name?" asked Cheerups kindly. "They call me the Nervous Gnu, Mr. Cheerups, because I am so easily flustered. But who I wouldn't be if he had the head and horns of a bull, the mane and tail of a horse and the body and legs of an antelope, and didn't know all what he is and who are his relations? It's confusing, I say."

WHO SAID

"Every tub must stand up on its own bottom."

THESE are the words of the man who is known to history as the author of the great religious allegory, "Pilgrim's Progress"—John Bunyan. Bunyan was born near Bedford, England, in the year 1628. His father was a tinker by trade, and, as a young man, John Bunyan followed the same vocation. During his youth he served in the great civil war that engulfed his native country and his change of mind which led to deep religious ponderings may be attributed to his experiences as a soldier. Bunyan returned from the war with a much more serious regard for life than when he had entered in upon the struggle as a careless young man. He was greatly impressed with the truth and importance of religion, and he shortly joined the Society of Anabaptists at Bedford, where he was soon made a teacher among the sect and achieved considerable reputation as a preacher. There were, at this time, severe laws against any one who dissented from the established church but these statutes held no terrors for Bunyan. He continued to preach in defiance of them and eventually was apprehended by the authorities and sentenced to serve 12 years in prison. During these years, from 1660 to 1672, he devoted himself almost entirely to religious meditation and to writing. The first part of his celebrated "Pilgrim's Progress" was written in the Bedford Jail. Upon the expiration of his sentence Bunyan was released and became pastor of the community in which his former preachings had resulted in his jailing. As has so often been the case, his jail confinement only served to make him more popular and his preaching services were attended by great numbers and many new converts were secured. John Bunyan died in the year 1688, while on a visit to London. (By George Matthew Adams.)

Charles De Roche

Charles de Roche was born in Port-Vendres, Pyrenees, France, July 7, 1893. He is six feet, one inch in height and weighs 185 pounds. He has brown hair and gray eyes. Before entering the "movies" he had a number of years' experience on the stage in France, playing all sorts of roles. He has been seen in some of the most popular pictures, playing opposite prominent stars.

Mrs. Audrey Savin.

Portland, Ore.—"A few years ago I caught a bad cold which settled on my lungs and in the bronchial tubes. I had a severe cough, and became so bad that for six weeks I could not lie down, would have to sit up in a morris chair. I doctored but did not get any better. I was 'all in' physically, and began myself to think there was no help for me, when I was advised by one of my doctors to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine so completely relieved me of my trouble that I have never had any return of it. My lungs and bronchials are strong and never give me any trouble."—Mrs. Audrey Savin, 693 Tacoma Ave.

Obtain this "Discovery" of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid at your nearest drug store and you'll quickly find that it builds you up, besides correcting your distress. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice. Send 10c for trial pkg. tablets.

Corvallis.—That better crops and improved prices have combined to put Oregon agriculture in its best condition since the world war is the belief of 25 county agents, assembled for the annual extension service conference. Agents from practically every section of the state, in making reports of their districts, were optimistic over general farming conditions.

The dairy industry has revived rapidly during the last year under the influence of increased prices and greater demand. Reports from Josephine, Lincoln and Crook counties confirmed the upward trend. The southern Oregon fruit situation was reported by C. C. Cate of Jackson county and H. B. Howell of Josephine county. Pear and apple crops were short, though prices on the whole were fair. Wasco county had only a half crop of cherries this year, but they brought good prices, according to C. W. Daigh. Prunes were plentiful in that county, though peaches and grapes fell to about one-half crop.

Central Oregon, where spring wheat is the predominating crop, reported a yield of from 40 to 50 bushels. The grain crop in general throughout eastern Oregon was reported as good. A similar condition existed in Benton county, but the clover crop was the best the county has had for years. Poultry, reported C. R. Briggs, is just about holding its own in Benton county.

Panama Canal Passage.

A vessel proceeding directly through the Panama canal without delay requires only from ten to twelve hours for passage. Of this time three hours is occupied in being lifted and lowered through the locks.

American Inventors Lead.

The United States leads the world in the number of inventions patented and is followed by England, France, Germany, Belgium, Canada and Italy.

Sensible French Law.

According to a recent French law, city and state officials may condemn private vacant land in order to establish needed athletic fields or playgrounds.

Her Lucky Day.

The "Star of the South," one of the most famous diamonds, was first discovered in a river by a colored woman when engaged in doing the family wash.

Eastern Well Sweeps.

A shadoof is a water-raising device consisting of a long pole pivoted near one end and having its shorter end weighted. A bucket is hung to its longer end, thus operating on the principle of a well sweep. Shadoofs are used on the Nile and elsewhere in the East, especially for irrigation.

Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEY'S is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good. Fresh and full flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.
