

THE LIFE OF BERT WILLIAMS No. 4

Text by BEN DAVIS, JR.
 Drawn by A. W. RENNEGARBE

1. He always loved harmony. Harmony of environment, of sound, of every condition. If he saw the slightest argument in progress, he would cross the street to avoid it.

2. George Walker, destined to be his great pal, was little more than a tramp when Bert met him in 1889. He could dance a little, but he knew nothing whatever of music.

3. They became a well fitted pair, for Walker was a very clever business man and was quite at home with the shrewdest theatre managers. Often Walker engaged in the most complicated arrangements with the cleverest of managers; and very seldom failed to obtain his terms.

Are You Ambitious?

By DR. M. N. BUNKER, D.C.S.
 Nationally Known Grapho-Analyst.

Douglas Lewis! a name to conjure with in the boxing world, this one, whose handwriting we have this week. It is an interesting handwriting because it tells some invaluable things to readers who want to know something about a real boxer's nature.

along with several clippings, I am returning me the

There are people who say that boxers are not brainy; that they are just muscle, but don't make any mistake. This handwriting says that "Doug" Lewis is just as brainy as many a successful business man. He is the kind of fellow who has ability to study at home, and lay a foundation to get some place in the world. He thinks quickly. He is thrifty, and he shows initiative—the ability to see opportunities for his own advantage. He can talk very freely, and has a very great deal of pride.

Mr. Lewis has learned self-control. He has determination, which is not the same as will power. He determines to do a thing, and he will do it if such a thing is possible. He has proved this by his boxing record. He is hopeful; he expects to see tomorrow bring better than today, and he has the initiative and aggressiveness to go after the better things.

Ambition Indicated

Another quality shows in this handwriting. This is ambition. Mr. Lewis sets his goal a long way ahead. He can be very practical, but it is true that he builds air castles, and then starts climbing to reach them. If he will cultivate more will power, and use it along with his determination, he will see his dreams fulfilled. These things are true of Mr. Lewis, but they can also be true of you. It may be that you have a deep set ambition to do something worth while but have not known just what to do. Here in this little picture of a really successful boxer, you have proof that a man with real ambition can do things for himself.

"Doug" Lewis' handwriting shows that he has this ambition—and your writing tells things about you in just the same way. It is a real picture of you and your talents.

Drinks Without a Kick

By BETTY BARCLAY

SOME of the men-folks know how to concoct drinks that will turn a tam: goose into a roaring lion—but even those who drink them regularly seldom claim they are good for the health and do not care to see the children playing around too close to where they are stored.

We do need plenty of liquid, however, particularly when it is hot and we perspire about twenty hours out of the twenty-four. Water is always the staple drink, and cold milk is one of the best drinks obtainable for the children.

Pop, as a rule, is not to be advocated. Better by far to let the children drink a good ice-cream soda, or even better, a drink made from fresh fruit of some kind. Here are some recipes—one for a home-made soda, and three others for home-made fruit drinks that may be taken in as large quantity as you desire.

HOME-MADE ICE CREAM SODA
 Place a ball of ice cream in the bottom of a tall glass. Fill glass with a bottle of cream soda that you have had on ice. Stir slightly and serve immediately. When you have made home-made ice cream, you can buy a few cents worth of cream soda, and see that each member of the family gets a beverage that would cost ten cents at the store around the corner.

OLD-FASHIONED LEMONADE

Juice 6 lemons
 1 cup sugar
 6 cups cold water
 Put sugar in cup. Add iced-water. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add lemon juice and serve immediately. The two things to remember are that the sugar should be dissolved in the water before the lemon juice is added, and that the drink should be served as soon as made. Do those and you'll have a healthful lemonade that you will long remember.

GINGER ALE PUNCH

1 cup hot tea infusion
 1 cup sugar

1/4 cup orange juice
 1 1-3 cup lemon juice
 1 pint ginger ale
 1 pint mineral or ice water
 Few slices orange
 Pour tea over sugar, cool and add fruit juices: turn into large punch bowl over blocks of ice. Just before serving add ginger ale, mineral or iced water and orange slices.
