

Use Judgment In Choosing A Mate

Have you a puzzling love affair on which you need friendly advice? Write to Julia Jerome, care of this newspaper. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We have a letter from a worried lover in Winston-Salem, N.C.

My dear Mrs. Jerome:

I am eighteen and deeply in love with a girl. My girl is going to dances and being with other boys. Now, I do the care for dancing and am very anxious. I tell her she shouldn't act the way she does but then she gets angry and tells me she doesn't want to see me any more. This takes my mind off studies and upsets me till I persuade her to make up. I am trying to accomplish something and she keeps me in turmoil. Yet I love her. What shall I do?

D. Y.

The trouble is, D. Y., you've picked the wrong kind of girl for your nature. Most lovers stumble into love, and if it doesn't turn out well they feel thwarted and disillusioned. They feel it is a reflection upon themselves that they could not hold their love. It is a reflection, but upon their intelligence, not upon their power to attract and hold love. And because having the reputation he had have been able to grow old in such forgetfulness. The war, evidently, brought many competitors to his fame.

General Dodds Modest

General Dodds, never spectacular, had no taste for public exhibitions. He led a very retired life. However, on July 14, 1919, when he was not invited to take part in the great parade of the soldiers of the great war, he could not refrain from saying: "They have forgotten me a little too much." His widow is still alive in Paris.

He was described as being tall with large shoulders, well-developed body, strong head with regular features, luxuriant black mustache falling thickly from the parting of the upper lip. His complexion was darker than that of the average mulatto from the tan of the fierce tropic suns.

Kind to His Men

He was very popular with all his men, black and white. One secret of his success was his spirit of kindness and consideration for those under him.

It may be noted here that the accident of birth-place played a great part in the fortunes of General Dodds. Had he been born, like his father, in a British colony and joined the British army, the highest rank that would have been possible for him, as a Negro, is sergeant-major.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

TO REMOVE GRASS STAINS

For white material rub the stain with butter, then wash with soapy water, or cover the stain with molasses for five minutes before washing. Rubbing the stain with a soapy cloth dipped in kerosene will take stains out of colored cottons usually. Nonwashable materials should be sponged with carbon tetrachloride (which last you buy at the druggist's).

TO REMOVE FRUIT STAINS

Orange or peach stains are removed more easily with cold water; wet the spot in cold water and rub with CREAM OF TARTAR. Dry in the sun, then wash. Raspberry and cherry stains are removed from linen and silk by pouring full strength peroxide on the spots and drying in the sun before washing. Fruit stains may also be removed by pouring boiling water through the stain from a height of two feet. The material should be tightly stretched over the mouth of a pail.
