

A Suffering Love Does Not Pay

Have you a puzzling love affair on which you need friendly advice? Write to Julia Jerome, care of this newspaper. If you wish a personal reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Julia Jerome

An unhappy wife in Raleigh, N.C. asks our advice.

"My Dear Mrs. Jerome:

"I have been married six years and have a little boy. But though my husband supports me well enough, he does not housekeep with me. I am just so tired of living this way. And he never wants me to go out though I know he goes whenever he chooses. But if I am not at home when he decides to call on me he is furious.

This very Sunday I was out when he came. When I returned he tried to choke me. Now, I can't stand it any longer. I want to go away to some other city and get me a job and never see him again. But I am afraid he will steal my little boy if I leave him with my mother and I can't very well take him with me. Please, what shall I do? I am only twenty-three. Shall I sacrifice myself longer?
R. W."

Certainly not! Sacrifice of that sort is decidedly out of fashion. Women who sacrifice their happiness or fear of scandal for financial reasons, or because they believe their children's future demands it are making a sad mistake. In the first place it is better to be happy than to suffer for one who does not appreciate it. In the next place happiness is a greater luxury than any money can buy. And thirdly, a man who does not make a good husband will probably not make a good father. By all means leave. Find a job and with it your soul and self respect again. Leave your child with some trustworthy friend of whom your husband does not know. Or if that is not possible hire someone to keep him if you have to borrow money to do it on. Long suffering in love does not pay.

His Style Goes Big in Chicago

Wherever you may go in Chicago now, you see men with their hair done like Hal Bakay's. It's the newest thing, and is going over big.

Hal Bakay is the master of ceremonies at the Regal theatre in Chicago, where his winning personality has been praised so highly by the critics. He tells his friends — "This new idea to keep the hair bright and evenly brushed, is the best I ever heard of. I just work a little La-Em-Strait hair dressing into the hair then brush it. That's all. That's why so many of the fellows here are using La-Em-Strait."

This popular new hair dressing is sold by all druggists in two sizes—25c and 50c. Takes just 30 seconds to use it. Be sure to ask for La-Em-Strait so you will get the smooth, bright effect you want, without the grease.

You build a great many air castles, and are rather easily annoyed, which is not such a good trait.
