tomary in my department to address them about as follows: "Mr. Foreman, have you reached a verdict?" whereupon if he says "es" he is asked to deliver it to the bailiff. If I made such a remark and it turned out that the "Foreman" was a "Forelady" instead of a "Foreman" I should most certainly have something to the effect that "I beg your pardon, Madam Forelady", but not because the color of the party thus addressed caused any surprise. We frequently have colored people on our juries, and, generally speaking, they are accepted. I certainly have seen no discrimination against such persons because of that fact.

I feel quite satisfied that this explanation of me was not required by you, and that you have requested it solely that you may correct any wrong impression that may have been conveyed concerning the writer, and I thank you sincerely for having given me this opportunity of answering.

Yours sincerely, Walter H. Evans

nap myself and missed quite a portion of the lady's argument. I hope every man and the few women there were properly impressed with the noble efforts of the national leader of the organization who is sacrificing her comfort etc., etc., to lead this wicked nation of bootleggers and lawbreakers into the haven of whiskey, light wines and beer. Because Mrs. Caserly made it quite plain that she was particular about the quality of her whiskey. She told us a very pathetic story about the poor widow of a carpenter who had been helped on his path to the grave by bootleg whiskey and his son blinded thru drinking what the father had left in the bottle. And she insisted that this country needed whiskey—she would not consent to any modification of the hated Volstead act that would let us have only light wines and beers. No, she must have her whiskey. And evidently the men in the audience and some of the women too, thought the same as she was vigorously applauded and hooted when she got thru talking. Cards were distributed and Mrs. David Honeyman gathered them up and will drive the whiskey cart which is to carry the Oregon women into the above mentioned haven of booze.

Well, our morals are saved—thru the adoption of the amendment to the tariff bill which continues the censorship of literature that comes into this country. We should be grateful to Senator Smoot of Utah for his efforts in that direction and some of the southern senators helped him in his battle to save this nation from being demoralized thru reading the wicked, obscene writings of Robert Burns, unexpurgated sections of the Bible, Shake speare and common vulgar books like these. I warn the people of Utah and the south that the lily blossoms who represent them in the Senate are in danger of having their petals smudged and broken before their return to their protected homes and firesides. They must associate with such vile-minded wretches as Cutting, Walsh, Brookhart et al who held out for trusting the intelligence of the American people and incidentally thought that the courts of the country could be depended upon to determine what was too bad to be read. My goodness, what a state the morals of that census clerk must be in—if he has any left after reading all the 700 books that he has banned but which repose at present in the Congressional library at Washington. I beg them not to allow themselves to be corrupted thru such books. Why this clerk is so careful in his censorship that he would not allow a technical book from England (ordered by a Johns Hopkins prof.) to go thru the mails—it was so obscene. I expect it described parts of the human body and their functions. Oh, me, how fortunate we are to have such careful guardians as Smoot et al.

WHAT PRICE SERVICE? Improvements in service and reduction in cost of generation and distribution of electricity benefit the customer more than they do the light and power company. The maximum return for the time, labor and money which are required to give service is fixed. Whether the service is good or bad, this return can be no more than a reasonable return on the value of the property in use or useful in the public service. If costs are lowered, the customer gets the benefit. If the service is improved, the customer gets the benefit. The company's only added reward is satisfaction in a job well done.
