THE BOLERO ENSEMBLE
This smart and wearable warm-weather ensemble has a bolero jacket which may be worn or doffed, and which ties in a soft knot at the point of the V neck. A flared peplum, posed at the top of the circular skirt, dips in back, and shares the honors of interest with the jacket. There is wide choice of sleeve treatment in the pattern; the bolero may have them, or the frock, in lengths ranging from none at all to long sleeves with flares. A large number of fabrics may be successfully used—with printed silks probably in the lead—such as flat crepes, wool crepes, and various combinations. Excella Pattern No. 3176. Sizes 14 to 42, 25 cents.

ANOTHER SPORT FROCK
The new shaped, slightly fitted lines of sports type are made much of in this new frock, which will fit quite as well into all casual sport occasions as it fits into the golf setting. Two darts mold the waist in vertical lines which are continued by the skirt pleats, creating the impression of a one-piece frock. The long front button opening, continued in this case under an inverted-pleat, is not only smart, but a boon when a dress must be hurriedly donned. Shantung, pique, linen, jersey or flannel suggest themselves as fabric possibilities, with combining material. Excella Pattern No. 3161. Sizes 14 to 42, 25 cents.
