Fellow Citizens:

The unrest that is now so prevalent among the people owing to economic conditions has been responsible for many persons who are candidates for public office making promises impossible of fulfillment in order to attract the support of the unemployed and other groups whom the depression has most seriously affected. Promises to reduce taxes to a ridiculously low level is another method used by such office seekers to endeavor to attract taxpayers to enlist in their campaign.

In announcing my candidacy for the office of City Commissioner I resolved to refrain from the making of any promise or any statement that might even remotely be construed as a promise to do anything if elected that I might find impossible to accomplish.

My pledge to Portland citizens is that I shall exercise my best judgment in the administration of the affairs of the City of Portland and that I shall faithfully endeavor to run the business of the city in the same careful and economical manner in which I conduct my own. On that pledge, I respectfully ask the support of my fellow citizens.

Edward L. Kropp.
