CITES RACIAL UNITY AMONG WORKERS

having eaten only a dry sausage sandwich that day. In Philadelphia, the Salvation Army consented to feed the group—but after some consultation, that institution decided to "jim-crow" the marchers, and decreed that the three colored veterans should eat by themselves in the kitchen. One of the leaders, who recognized such methods and their meaning, turned to the men:

"How about it, fellows? Are these comrades fit to eat with us? They were good enough to fight alongside us in France; they are good enough to march by our sides now."

At once another voice responded: "We all eat together—or we all go hungry! Is it agreed?"

In a body, without a dissenting man, the fifty veterans turned away from the Salvation Army kitchen. They would not permit their Negro comrades to be jim-crowed.

At Fort Hunt, where the government is quartering and feeding the men, an attempt to arouse race-antagonism is met with solid defense on the part of the united veterans. UNITY! is their watch-word—UNITY regardless of race, political or religious beliefs. Attempts to split them into "right" and "left" wing camps are met with no welcome. They are presenting a united front against hunger and will not be divided.

gro Youth realizes that concerted action is of immediate and utmost importance. Evidence of the beginning of such a realization is at hand. Young men and women of the black race are already becoming organized. Clubs are being formed, leagues are being established, conferences are being held, but AN INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION TO EMBRACE ALL NEGRO YOUTHS IS NECESSARY.

We, who issue this call for an international Negro youth conference believe that the time has come for the establishment of an international organization through which negro youth may carry on concerted action. The purpose of this conference will be: first, to bring together the Negro youths of the world, with their varying problems; second, to get an international perspective of these problems; third, to formulate a concrete program of action for combating segregation, economic insecurity, lynching, disfranchisement, imperialism, the growth of youth delinquency; fourth, to determine the attitude that Negro youths should take in the future wars; and fifth, to establish a permanent organization through which all Negro youths may take an active part in the uplift of the race.

We call upon the Negro youths to attend this conference from June 20, 1933, in Chicago, Illinois, U. S. A. at the Good Shepherd Congregational Church, 5709 Prairie Avenue where thousands of young men and women of the black race will assemble to cooperate in developing a program of concrete activity on the problems that face the Negro. NEGRO YOUTH MUST ANSWER! We call on all groups of Negro youths, workers' organizations, student clubs, church groups, social clubs, civil clubs, fraternities, sororities, and unorganized Negro youths to elect delegates to participate in this conference and to carry back a program for action to Negro youths in their respective communities.

The president of the Committee is John M. Gray; Ruby L. Anderson is its secretary.

Mrs. Ada McGill, well known and popular cateress has moved from her home on Union avenue to Ross street where she has taken rooms with Mrs. Fanny Cosby.

Report received at The Advocate office states that Mrs. Towne and Mr. Thompson were recently wed.

George Cannady was host to the International club in Salem last Tuesday night.

First prize for artistic decoration of her dinner table went to Mrs. Mable Washington at the Hostess Dinner on the 18th at Zion church. Mrs. Washington's table was a symphony in yellow and green. Second prize went to Mrs. Ada Mumford. Her table was an ensemble of pink and white. Mrs. Lena Bowers won first prize for the largest number of guests, forty-two and Mrs. Allison, second for twenty-eight.

Other hostess were Mrs. Rosalie Bird and Rev. Kinard also had a table. They were all perfectly beautiful and it was hard for the judges to pick the winners above the others.

Captain Etienne de'Aubert, Mrs. de'Aubert, Mrs. Charles Bishop Dr. Chester Easter and Mrs. Florence Campbell were the judges.

A beautiful program consisting of music and speeches was presented by Mrs. Jesse Grayson, contralto; Mrs. Allison, soprano; Mr. Guy Holmes, tenor; Mr. Solomon and Mr. Soap, of the Savings and Loan Association, gave inspiring talks; Mrs. Clemens gave a reading and Captain de'Aubert, in announcing the winners took the opportunity to praise Rev. and Mrs. Kinard and the members of the church for the beautiful spirit manifested at the gathering. Mrs. Kinard, who was the instigator and prime mover in the affair made the presentation speeches and presented the prizes which were beautiful silver pieces.
