OWNS WRIGHT SHOE STORE

Mr. Hugh Harper, former ly of Texas, and one of his white associates were recently reported in the Shopping News as being the new owners of the Wright Shoe Store, formerly owned by the late Mr. Greenfield.

Many Portlanders will recall that it was through the intercession and influence of Mrs. B. Cannady-Franklin the editor of The Advocate that Mr. Greenfield employed Mr. Harper some fiften yars ago to sell shoes in his store at $6 per week. Mr. Harper became not only one of the best shoe salesmen in the city but he became one of, if not the highest paid clerk in the store. His climb has been steady until now he is an owner.

Mrs. Franklin recalls that Mr. Greenfield remarked to her one day when she stopped in the store to find out how his employer liked his clerk, Mr. Harper, htta he "wished she had sen: him there long before she did".

It is satisfying to not the success Mr. Harper has made in his line of endeavor and the editor wishes him continued success.

Bethelites here are fortunate in having his service. Rev. Hill is pastor of Bethel church in Portland, Oregon.
