

JACKSONVILLE SENTINEL

Vol. I

Jacksonville, Jackson County, Oregon. Friday, October 9, 1903.

No. 22

City Council Meeting.

The Jacksonville council met Tuesday evening with Mayor E. Britt, Councilmen John S. Orth, J. H. Huffer Sr., T. J. Kenney, Geo. E. Neuber, Recorder H. Dox, Marshal W. G. Kenney, and Street Commissioner Chas. Dunford present.

A petition, signed by all the residents on North Oregon street, was read asking that the street lamp on Oregon and D streets be moved to the east side of the street and put up at the north end of the Jackson creek bridge was granted. Marshal W. G. Kenney called attention to many complaints that had been made that the low limbs of many of the shade trees along the streets prevent the lamps from properly lighting the streets. The marshal was ordered to notify property owners to trim up their trees and if they fail the marshal will have it done and charge the work to the owner of the trees.

Councilman Neuber, having been strolling about town observing the many signs of prosperity that are now to be seen had observed that there were divers weed pests in many places, among them being the obstreperous and rank-growing cocklebur that was provocative of much profanity and lacerated feelings. So forceful was Mr. Neuber's appeal that the council ordered the street commissioner to go forth at once and eradicate the noxious pests, and property owners failing to heed the state law to destroy those on their premises will find the weeds gone and a bill to pay instead.

Councilman Orth had also been out about town but he being in the first year of his married life did not deign to go afoot and consequently the rocks in the street and the bad condition of the roads were more observable to him than cockle-burs. His special desire was that section of the Medford road that is wandering aimlessly about in the channel of Jackson creek, like a lost spirit in Hepsidam, be gathered up and put on a firm foundation. His plan was to get the county road grader and throw up a turnpike in the center of the roadway with a channel on one side for the creek. All the other councilmen and the mayor fell on this plan and Mr. Orth was left to fight single-handed for his improvement scheme. Mayor Britt thought it impossible by any reasonable expenditure of money to make a road down the creek and that a new route should be secured on firm ground and the road relocated. Councilman Kenney said it would cost $500 or $600 to grade up the road and the first flood would wreck it. Councilman Huffer declared that the next big flood would end this road trouble for the tailings from the mines had so filled up the creek that the channel was now on a level with the adjoining land and that likely the creek would do as it came near doing last winter and cut a new channel down through the adjoining fields and leave the road bed a natural turnpike for all time to come. Councilman Neuber also held that the creek would get out of the road and into the fields with the next big flood. After discussing the subject for some time the matter was finally dropped and Jackson creek was left in peaceful possession of the road. But there is a likelihood that the council may again tackle this road problem, for Councilman Neuber offered to take the members of the council in his rig and drive down to the creek road when they would examine it and see if some tangible way of improving it could not be agreed on.

As all wages are up Councilman Huffer thought that as Marshal W. G. Kenney was giving good service his salary should be raised and on motion of Mr. Huffer the marshal's salary was raised by unanimous vote from $45 to $50 per month.

The marshal was ordered to purchase two cords of wood for use in the city hall.

Cause of Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes cuts, bruises and like injuries to heal without maturation and in one third the time required by the usual treatment. It is for sale by City Drug Store.

Teams Wanted.
