Home From Alaska.

Joseph Wetterer arrived home Monday from Alaska and William Healey arrived home Tuesday, he stopping for a day in Roseburg on business. Accompanying them were Herman Kummer and Gus Swansen, the four having been partners when mining at Nome. They left Nome, October 16 on the steamer Roanoke. The four of them will spend the winter here and try their luck in the mines of Southern Oregon. They have had all kinds of experiences in Alaska and had as good luck as the average miner but were unable to strike it rich. Mr. Swansen has been in Alaska seven years and Mr. Kummer six years and this is their first trip out. Mr. Healey has been there seven years but he came home and spent the winter of 1901-2. Mr. Wetterer is an Alaska tenderfoot having only gone there a year last spring. This past year they worked a placer mine in the vicinity of Nome, but lack of water prevented them from making more than fair wages.

Of Alaska and Nome they tell many interesting facts. Of Nome itself they say it has a winter population of 5000 with 5000 additional during the summer months and as many more people in the mining districts in the vicinity of Nome. The city has electric lights, large business houses, good schools, churches and all the conveniences of a modern town. One serious drawback to the town is that it has no harbor, ships having to anchor off the shore and to put to sea whenever a storm or heavy blows come up, and that is frequent as Nome is one of the windiest places on earth. As Behring sea is very shallow, the Nome roadstead barely having a depth of water sufficient for ships to anchor on, the Nome people hope to have the government build a seawall to break the force of the waves, which are mountains at times, and give a safe anchorage to ships. Nome has prospects of always being as good a town as it is now for before the placer is gone rich quartz mines will likely be opened up and coal in paying mines has been discovered. Rich deposits of tin have been discovered at Cape York and there is a probability that other minerals will be found. Living expenses are high in Nome and board is $2.50 a day, with wages averaging $7.50. The Nome district is no longer a poorman's country, the mining and other propositions taking big capital. As to the agricultural possibilities of the country these men say that in the Nome district where the land is sandy and faces the sun and from which the moss has been removed for a couple of years so that it can aerate and warm up that it will produce lettuce, radishes, turnips, cabbage and a few other hardy vegetables. They raised this season potatoes as large as wainuts. In the Upper Yukon Valley the hardy vegetables can be readily grown while in the Copper river valley in the Southern part of Alaska, grass, oats, barley and rye can be grown.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young. I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by City Drug Store.

Jacksonville as a trade center is steadily extending its influence and drawing business from distant points. C. W. Conklin, Jacksonville's up-to-date furniture dealer, shipped a fine order of furniture Wednesday to Montague, California. Mr. Conklin is one Jacksonville merchant who finds no difficulty in meeting the competition of furniture firms of other towns and he is building up a trade that is a credit to Jacksonville and a compliment to his business judgment and persistent hustling.

M. G. Hoge, of Hoge & Purden, attorneys of Medford, was at the court house Saturday on legal business.

Most of the farmers of this section are digging their potatoes and they seem to have quite a large yield and of a good quality.

A. B. Saltmarsh has made his last trip to the Cinnabar Springs for this season. He has a couple of trips to make to the Dezing & Chamier mine on Black Bear and then he will retire from the business until next summer.

Rev. Geo. Hoxie will hold services at the Union Town school house on the third Sunday in November at 3 o'clock p. m. for the last time this season as the roads will soon get muddy and Rev. Hoxie has a long distance to come as his home is on Lower Williams creek.

The Review of Reviews.

The Review of Reviews is keeping up its reputation as the best interpreter of the news of the day among our monthly journals. The November number deals with the postal investigation, the fall elections, the recent exposures of "high finance" in trust organization, the Panama Canal situation, the award of the Alaskan boundary tribunal, the protectionist movement in England, and the issue in the far East between Russia and Japan. Contributed articles describe "Men and Issues of the New York City Campaign," just closing; "The Nation's Print Shop and Its Methods,"—including a review of the famous "Miller case" and its outcome and the whole question of the status of labor unions in the Government Printing Office; "The Fort Riley Maneuvers," which began on October 15; "The New Springfield Rifle and the Improvement in Small Arms;" "Galveston's Great Sea Wall;" and "The Rebirth of the Japanese Language and Literature,"—a history of the movement for the adoption of the Roman character in writing and printing, in place of the Chinese system of picture-writing. Dr. George F. Kunz writes an authoritative account of the discovery of radium, and the uses and properties of this wonderful element. In this number also appears the defense of Russia's policy in Finland, which was addressed last month by Minister de Plehve to Mr. W. T. Stead. Altogether a typically "live" number.

The Misses O'Neil, who have been spending the past two weeks in Jacksonville on a visit to their uncle, Rev. Father J. D. Murphy, will leave this Saturday for their home in San Francisco. The young ladies have been on a tour of the north coast. At Seattle they met an uncle who is captain of one of the big steamers plying in the Oriental trade and he presented them with many Japanese and Chinese curios that were both beautiful and valuable. They brought them to Jacksonville and kindly exhibited them to friends here to whom they were quite interesting. The stay of the Misses O'Neil in Jacksonville was made the more pleasant by the courtesies extended to them by the young ladies of St. Joseph church, of which their uncle is the priest.
