In the Reviews of Reviews for June there are two important articles by economists on the taxation of franchises. Professor E. R. A. There are two important industrial articles in the Review of Reviews for June. "The Turbine: A New Era of steam" is the subject of an interesting paper by Arthur Warren. "The Automobile in Business" is a practical article, addressed to practical men, by J. A. Kingman. Both articles are copiously illustrated.

Since the death of Sir Henry M. Stanley, on May 10, perhaps nothing that has appeared in print so well summarizes the work accomplished in Africa since Stanley's explorations began as does the article in the Review of Reviews for June by Mr. Cyrus C. Adams the geographical expert. The remarkable changes of the past thirty years in the map of Africa are clearly set forth, and the world debt to the intrepid explorer is graphically described.

Mrs. T. B. Roberts, after spending a week in Jacksonville where she visited her sisters Mrs. W. H. Miller and Mrs. C. T. Davidson and her brother Lester Bailey, left last Saturday by Wendt's stage for Missouri Flat, where she will spend a week with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bailey, after which she will return to her home at the Millionaire mine in the Blackwell district, where her husband has been employed for the past year.

Miss Emma Wulf, who has been employed in Ashland for several months, has come home and taken a position in The Boss confectionery store. Miss Wulf was in this store last summer and proved to be a popular clerk. Her sister Miss Nellie Wulf who has also been in Ashland for some months past is expected home this week to remain for the summer.

S. S. Randles, who has for several years been employed at the Sterling mine, where he resides with his family, has decided to give up mining, as working in the damp mine has given him rheumatism, and he will move with his wife and three children to Jacksonville this fall. Mr. Randles owns two and a half acres of land and a good dwelling house on the Sterling road, half a mile out from the Jacksonville town limits, and recently he has purchased an adjoining tract of nine acres from Chas. Dunford. It is Mr. Randles' intention to clear this land of the heavy growth of brush now on it and plant it to fruit and berries. But as that will take some years to accomplish he will supplement his orchard venture with cows, pigs and chickens, thus adding to his income as well as to the fertility of his land. It will not be long until Mr. Randles will have a comfortable home and be making a good living off a piece of land that a few years ago was considered worthless except for the wood that could be had from it. The time is not distant when there will be scores of small farms about Jacksonville on land that is held now to be of no value except for timber or for mineral. The red hill land about Jacksonville is especially adapted to fruit growing and within the next few years this land will all be owned by thrifty people who will make it as productive as are the valleys of this section.

John Hobbs and John Ditmore both well to do farmers of Hamilton county, Nebraska, were in Jacksonville Monday and Tuesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hooks. They and Mr. Hooks were pioneer settlers in Hamilton county, Nebraska but Mr. Hooks became tired of that wind-swept country with its uncertainty of crops and came to Oregon and now Mr. Hobbs and Mr. Ditmore have decided to seek a more salubrious climate and a country where farmers have a certainty of reaping when they sow. They were quite favorably impressed with Rogue River Valley and may locate here. They have been through California and from here went to the Willamette Valley to visit old friends and to look over that country.

Overland Monthly for June.

The story by that clever writer, Lucy Baker Jerome, entitled "Sutter 8091," develops an entirely new plot in fiction. It is a telephone story, and it is well worked out, holding the reader's interest from start to finish. Helen Lukens Jones is another of the excellent woman writers of the West, and she gives us "Old Tanquity," the story of a Southern California mountain, in legend and description, which is most fascinating. Edna A. Daniels contributes a rollicking bit of fiction, a love comedy in prose, called "The Irreverent Guv," Elizabeth Florence Gray writes of the great of the North "In the Valley of the Yukon." Guy N. Stockslager tells of "Taking the Census in Alaska" in a most fascinating manner. There is a very interesting article in "popular science" by Ellen Robertson Miller, entitled "The American Silkworm Moth".

The Public will be largely interested in an article by Professor J. Oliver Curwood "The Battleship in Action." Austin Lewis, an authority, contributes "Success and the School." This will be read with great interest by the teachers and the parents all over the land. "The Danger of Unionism" is another of the industrial series by that writer on economic subjects, Guy Raymond Halifax. There are several purely California articles, but the general trend of the magazine is toward a wider policy. The West is growing, and the West is gradually becoming the world center in literature and learning.
