County Judge-elect George W. Dunn, was in Jacksonville Monday to arrange for a dwelling house. He secured a house on North Oregon street now owned by T. J. Williamson but formerly owned by J. W. Myers. This location is one of the most desirable in Jacksonville commanding a fine view of the valley and there being an acre of land in the premises gives ample play room for the Judge's children, he having five boys and girls. As the Judge is a farmer he desires to keep a driving team and a cow for which there is a good stable on the property. Judge and Mrs. Dunn will become permanent residents of Jacksonville in a short time they planning to move here from their farm above Ashland the last of next week. Those having the acquaintance of Mrs. Dunn find her an educated, accomplished woman and she will be given a most hearty welcome to Jacksonville. As to the Judge he too is a bright educated man, a college graduate and very popular in his circle of acquaintance, and being a thorough business man his friends anticipate that he will do his full part in giving a prudent yet progressive administration to the affairs of Jackson county.

John Spiker, after spending a week in Jacksonville enjoying a rest from the hard work of mining, returned Monday to Upper Applegate where he has a number of very promising copper claims on Squaw creek.

Miss Ella Parks will close a term of school which she has been teaching in a district near Leland for the past three months. Miss Parks will stop for a short time at Grants Pass before she returns to her home at Buncom. Miss Parks may return to Leland in September as she has been offered the fall term in the district where she now is teaching.

George Wolters, administrator of the estate of the late Johanna Blecher, was in Jacksonville Monday from his place on Humbug creek. Mr. Wolters states that he expects to be able early in July to pay off all claims against the estate as there will then be money coming in from timber that has been sold to the Jackson County Lumber Company. The real estate of which there are some 1300 acres will not be sold until some time this fall.

W. R. Radford returned Saturday from a trip with his team to Klamath Falls for which place he left the previous Tuesday to convey Chas Faith and his son John Tiny Cooper, George Hunter and David Plymale. He reports that all the party secured employment at once. David Plymale is clerking in a hotel, Tiny Cooper has a position as bartender. George Hunter is working in a livery stable and Mr. Faith and his son are working on a hay farm. Mr. Radford reports men in demand in Klamath county and he expects to return there in a short time with his team and work at haying.

Summer Normal in Connection With Chautauqua.

A summer school for teachers will begin June 27th and continue until the county examination, August 10th.

W. T. Van Scoy, of the Normal, and G. W. Milam, principal of the East Side School will have charge of the work in methods and the review of the branches required for state and county certificates, also Latin.

Prof. A. R. Sweetser, State Biologist, University of Oregon, will conduct nature work for teachers during the Chautauqua session. This is a rare opportunity for teachers of the county and Southern Oregon, to combine thorough review with the hearing of great lectures and fine music, besides the outing in Chautauqua grove. For circulars of information, address
