A boat for Squaw Lake was completed recently and will be taken to the lake at once by William Deneff and Oscar Lewis. The boat will be for the accommodation of the public who visit the lake and it will be free for every one to use who goes there, the only caution to be observed on the part of the users is that they shall exercise care in handling it and see that it is in no wise damaged while used by them. Another boat is under construction at the present time for use on the smaller lake and will be taken there as soon as completed. The Squaw Lakes are becoming a place of resort for sportsmen and persons who are looking for places of outing with easy access of the public highway and not too great a distance away. The only objectionable thing which can be said of the lakes is their name—Squaw Lakes—and there should be a movement to change the name to something a little pleasanter to the ear.

Land Opened To Settlers.

OMAHA, June 28.—Nine millions of acres of Government land in Nebraska were opened for homestead entry today under the provisions of the Kinkaid law, which permits homesteaders to file on 160 acres of land. The land opened by the Kinkaid law is known as semi-arid land, and is mostly adapted to grazing. This is the last great opening of Government land of this nature that will ever be made, and was the occasion of a rush for choice sections.

The six land offices in Nebraska were the scenes of great excitement. At O'Neil nearly 1000 persons, nearly 10 per cent of whom were women, were in line at sunrise.

The greatest excitement was at Broken Bow where over 2,000,000 acres of the best land included in the provisions of the law were thrown open. At sunrise 2000 persons were in line, and Sheriff Richardson, who had already taken extraordinary precautions to forestall trouble, today enlisted an extra force of deputies to keep order. Later he requested Governor Mickey to order the militia out to assist in keeping order.

To get perfect rest use one of those silk floss or cotton felt mattresses. They are the best. C. W. Conklin.

EVERY DAY UTILITY

The average man buying a suit of clothes is all at sea. Perhaps he knows a little about the goods. He must depend upon the man that sells him the article. Here is the moral: BUY WHERE YOU CAN PLACE YOUR CONFIDENCE. We want you to come here with the confidence that you can depend upon the quality of our goods and what we say about it.
