REGARDING OREGON

And What the Lewis and Clark Fair Will Do For Oregon Advancing the Best Country On Earth.

SOME THINGS OF INTEREST TO YOU

Secretary Henry E. Reed is sending to the leading newspapers of the United States concise information regarding the Lewis and Clark Fair. This is reprinted for the benefit of those writing letters to Eastern friends on the subject, and especially for those who are competing for the Commercial Club prizes for the best articles of Portland and Oregon:

"By an official act of the United States Congress, followed by an invitation issued by the Honorable John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States, there will be held during 1905, in the State of Oregon, at Portland, one of the prominent cities of America, and important international exhibition, known as the 'Lewis and Clark Centennial and Oriental Fair.'"

I.

This centennial will extend through a period of four and one-half months, commencing June 1, 1905, and ending October 15, 1905. It will commemorate the exploration of the great Pacific Northwest territory to the shores of the Pacific in 1805. It is the first international exhibition held west of the Rocky Mountains and is designed fitly to mark an epoch of growth and development which, great as it has been, is destined to be greater still as "Westward the course of empire takes its way."

II.

The "Oregon Country" (as that section of America was then called) shortly after became a part of the United States and was subsequently divided into the present states of Oregon, Washington, and Idaho, as well as extensive parts of Montana and Wyoming, adding over 300,000 square miles of rich mineral and fertile agricultural lands to the National domain, and its settlement and development have contributed much to National wealth and prosperity.

III.

The expedition which explored this "No Man's Land" was sent out under the leadership of Captains Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, by President Thomas Jefferson, in 1803, and reached the mouth of the Columbia River in 1805. The perilous journey, some 3000 miles overland, was accomplished under most trying circumstances. It has been aptly called "a new Xenophon march to an unknown sea." The expedition was composed of 33 men. Their way through the wilderness was beset with obstacles and dangers that gave pause to the hardest. It is the epic of the National explorations.

IV.

Captains Lewis and Clark were the first Americans who reached the Pacific Coast overland, and it is the century of this momentous event that will be celebrated at Portland in 1905, for the subsequent acquisition of this vast region gave the United States its first footing on the Pacific's shores and opened the way to our great continental development.

V.

As this acquisition was one of the most important events in American history, because of the influence exerted toward making the United States a great Nation in territorial extent, the American people in general, and those of the Pacific Coast in particular, supported by the Government, have determined that this Centennial shall be fittingly celebrated. When its gates are officially opened it will represent an expenditure approximating $5,000,000, and will occupy some 400 picturesque acres in the beautiful suburbs of Portland overlooking Guild's Lake and the Willamette River.

VI.

The City of Portland, numbering 125,000 inhabitants, is an ideal Western American city. It is situated 110 miles from the Pacific Ocean, on the Willamette River, at, practically, its confluence with the famous Columbia. It is a common sight to behold the heaviest draught vessels of all nationalities moored in the city's magnificent harbor. Portland holds extensive commercial intercourse with the whole world, her chief export commodities being lumber, flour, grain and the products of innumerable salmon canneries located on the Columbia. Portland does a wholesale business of $175,000,000 annually. Its factories produced $49,500,000 in value last year, and it is the first wheat port of the Pacific Coast, and the only fresh water harbor.

VII.

The Centennial will provide ten commodious exhibit palaces and thereby furnish ample space, free of charge, for all displays, governmental and otherwise that are offered. Desirable building sites will be allotted, gratis, to those countries wishing to erect special pavilions of their own. The main palaces will be: Foreign Exhibits, Liberal Arts and Industrial Palace, Horticultural and Machinery Hall, Mining Palace, Alaskan Building, Government Exhibits Palace, Hawaiian Building and Oceanic Building. Arrangements have been made with the transportation companies so that exhibits at St. Louis in 1904 may be displayed at Portland in 1905, with little or no extra cost of transportation, through the opportunity offered by the free return

Neuber's "Gold Bricks" Send Mr. Hulin's Hired Men Down to Defeat Twice Last Sunday

SCORE, J'VILLE 4-9, ASHLAND 2-2.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

Papa Hulin's aggregation of ball tossers that came all the way from Ashland last Sunday met defeat at the hands of Neuber's Gold Bricks, not once, but twice in succession was the dope administered, and as a result it was a heavy-hearted crew that returned to Peachtown in the cool of the evening.

There was nothing to it but Jacksonville during both games, and the "joyful noise" proceeding from the bleachers but added to the fun. Below is a brief summary of the game which is cut short on account of lack of time and space this week:

FIRST GAME.

The first inning passed off quickly and demonstrated to the grand stand that there was a ball game on.

Hulin was first up for Ashland and he flew out to Pat Donegan, Martin was thrown out at 1st by Cline, an error gave Moore a base but he was thrown out at 2nd by Carter. For the home team Schofield struck out as also did Cline who followed him, and Streib was thrown out at 1st.

In the second inning Miller of Ashland was up first and flew out on a little "pop-up." McKrutch was thrown out at 1st by Lester and Neil was caught out by Strube on a foul fly. In the 2nd half of the inning Strube flew out to Hulin, Collins struck out, Pat Donegan got a nice two bagger but died on 2nd when Lester failed to reach 1st.

Ashland commenced the third inning by a nice hit by Freeburg. Cleveland then struck out. Hulin then flew out to center field and Freeburg was caught returning to 1st, which retired the side. In the second half the Gold Bricks meant business. Nunan made a clean hit to the left field fence, Ed. Donegan fanned and was out at 1st, Schofield walked and Cline hit a two-bagger to center field scoring two runs. Strube made a hit, Strube went out at 1st, Collins made a nice two bagger, scoring two more runs, Pat Donegan was thrown out at 1st and this closed the agony but 'twas a nice little bunch and netted four runs.

The unlucky fourth was the only inning in which the Peaches were allowed to score and they did it in this wise: Martin hit a hot one past Lester and made 1st, Moore hit a warm one between short and 3rd Carter then hit one past 2nd scoring both runs. Miller was thrown out at 1st, McKrutch struck out and Collins shot Neil's light out at the initial bag and that stopped them. In our half of this inning Martain struck out Lester, Nunan and Ed. Donegan quicker than you could say Jack Robinson.

In the fifth Freeburg was 1st up and he fanned the breeze, Cleveland flew out to 1st, Papa Hulin got a hit, Martin got a walk but was forced out at 2nd on a fielder's choice. Schofield starts things off for the Bricks by making a nice hit and was sacrificed to 2nd by Cline. Strieb was caught out on a foul, Strube got a base on balls but on Collin's dinky grounder was put out on 2nd.

In the sixth inning Lester flew out to 3rd, Miller walked but was put out on the neat double by Lester, Nunan and Strieb. In the 2nd half Jacksonville did no better, as Donegan, Lester and Nunan were put out in quick order.

In the 7th, Neil flew out to left field, Freeburg got a hit, Cleveland forced Neil out at 2nd and Hulin flew out to Schofield. In the second half, Ed Donegan got a hit, Schofield got to 1st on errors, Cline was thrown out at 1st, by Hulin, Strieb struck out and Schofield, was put out stealing 2nd.

In the eighth Martin secured a neat hit, Moore flew out to left field, Miller and Carter were both thrown out at 1st. In the 2nd half the home team did no better. The scoring seemed to be over. Strube fanned the atmosphere, Collins flew out to left field, and Pat Donegan was killed off trying to get to 1st.

The ninth inning was the Peaches' last chance but they didn't stand a ghost of a show to score. Lester had them on his hip. McKrutch struck out, Neil flew out to left field and Freeburg struck out. This closed the first performance and set the crowd in the grand stand wild with joy for it looked easy now, and it was.
