SCOTT M. WILCOX, Agent,

W. E. Wright, who worked at the Sterling mine for some two years, but who for the past two years has been placer mining in the Happy Camp district, spent this week in Jacksonville and vicinity visiting friends. Mr. Wright, true to a miner's predilection when on an outing, is making his trip horseback and has with him a pack animal with a camp kit and a prospecting outfit, so he is at home wherever night may find him in the mountains. Mr. Wright reports that there is more mining, both placer and quartz about Happy Camp than for years, and old-timers say that the famous old camp has much of the activity for which was celebrated in pioneer days when it was the center of the mining industry in Northern California.

Myrl Peter left Thursday for San Francisco where he will enter Heald's Business College for a business course. Myrl is an industrious, studious boy not given to making a man of himself by the cigarette route and he will be quite certain to gain an education for himself that will start him on a successful career, for he will realize what an education is for he, as many another boy has done, will work his way through college, which while it has its disadvantages and unpleasant features allows no spare time to loiter about the streets and questionable resorts, those pitfalls to the average boy in town.

John Spiker arrived Tuesday from a two weeks trip north during which he visited Portland and several other towns in northern Oregon. He reports a pleasant trip and that the business outlook in the section he visited as very good. Mr. Spiker leaves this Friday by Lewis stage for Joes Bar, from which place he goes by trail four miles to his mining claims on Elliot creek, where he will resume the work of developing his mine, which is showing up quite rich in copper.

Rev. Robert Ennis having settled in his new home and a number of improvements made including a fine drilled well 48 feet deep and containing 13 feet of water, will begin this Sunday his regular pastoral work for the Presbyterian church. For this Sunday he will only hold services as 10 a. m. but his future appointments will be for morning and evening on alternate Sundays with the services of Rev. Snyder at the Methodist church.
