The way to build up your home town is to work for it, talk for it and patronize those in business there

The result of the recent prohibition election in the state has been the cause of considerable litigation and contest all over the state and the end is not yet.

It is said that one of Central Point's leading society ladies recently shot three wild geese down there in the valley, yet the report doesn't give any hint of young men becoming scarce in that vicinity.

We were all mighty thankful yesterday; some were thankful that they were not running for office on the democratic ticket this year, others were thankful that they were not floundering in the mud of the football field, in fact there were only a few who did not feel that they had cause to be thankful.

The Roseburg Plaindealer is without doubt becoming one of the best country newspapers in Southern Oregon and if the people of that thriving little city know a good thing when they see it they will look to it that Editor Conner does not lack for patronage and encouragement to enable him to keep that paper up to its present high standard.

An exchange states that on account of the approach of winter, operations on the Big Butte railroad project will be suspended until spring. It seems to us that "hot air" would be much more acceptable to the people of this valley during the "inclement weather" than during the summer months. We fail to see why winter should materially "interfere therewith" as the entire "operations" seemed to consist of a generous dispensation of the beforementioned "heated atmosphere."

The attention of our readers is called to the article on the first page of the paper regarding a mineral exhibit to be collected and sent to the Lewis & Clark Exposition for exhibition during 1905. This is a golden opportunity to advertise the wonderful mineral resources of this district where it will do some good, while the expense of it will be scarcely anything. Opportunities of this kind do not come often hence should not be neglected especially when so easily embraced as is this. Other districts with much less to advertise, will have large and varied exhibits and an abundance of advertising literature.
