

Mines and Miners,

Of Southern Oregon.

Work is progressing on the Greenback in the 12th level, which is 1000 feet, in depth. Seventy tons of ore is being disposed of daily in the thirty stamp and the ten-stamp mills of this mine, which nets its owner, W. M. Brevoort of New York, an average of $30,000 monthly. A patent will soon be applied for, surveys to that end having been completed recently.—Glendale News.

The Eureka mine on Soldier Creek which has been closed down for some time on account of repairs, is now nearly ready for renewed operations, and it is expected that development work will begin on a larger scale than ever about the middle of December. This mine is owned by California capitalists, and is equipped with a ten-stamp mill.—Grants Pass Journal.

A rich streak of ore was recently reported at the Free and Easy mine on the Illinois river, near Kerby. This property, which recently came into the possession of the Siskiyou Mining Development Co., has an immense ore body, carrying values of from $4 to $5 a ton throughout its entire width, and its present owners are contemplating the building of a cyanide plant in order to work the base ores at a profit.—Grants Pass Journal.

Lester Boling of the Foothills Dredger was in the city this week says the Oregon Mining Journal. He reports the Champlin Dredge as working night and day and employing some fifty men on the dredge itself and the wood fields. The Champlin Co., are also planning to install another dredge in the Foothills district if they can secure ground.

Leader of Women's Papers.

The November number of "The Twentieth Century Home" is a superbly illustrated magazine and its contents, for interest and variety, are on a par with the artistic side of this new and popular periodical. Some prominent features are "Some Fancy-Dress Balls in London," "Electricity as an Aid to Housekeeping," "Women Who Toil," and "The Homes of George Elliot." This is not taking into account the fiction, which includes a charmingly illustrated story by Florence Wilkinson entitled "The Gipsy Queen," as well as stories by Howard Markle Hoke, Tom Masson and Harriott Prescott Spofford. "The Twentieth Century Home" is primarily a magazine for women with large interests in life, who endeavor to make something of themselves, and therefore it gives considerable attention to means of commercial activity within and outside the home. This month we note at least four articles of this nature, "Why Women Fail In Business," by Elizabeth M. Gilmer; "Is Work Inimical to Beauty?" by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow; "Artistic Bookbinding for Women," and "A Woman's Farm." The desire of every woman for personal details is gratified by sketches of Mr. and Mrs. William Faversham in their Surrey home, and Julia Cooley, the extraordinary child-poet, now only eleven years of age, but already occupying a place on library shelves. Richard Le Gallienne has written a very sympathetic and appreciative account of her personality and work, while Elia W. Peattie does the same for Rose Cecil O'Neill, the popular illustrator. The useful and home-helping departments are up to their usual high standard.

THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS THE DOOR TO LONG LIVING.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund well fed, but thin, spare men who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age, will occasionally eat too much of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age. For sale by City Drug Store.

GRIP QUICKLY KNOCKED OUT.

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of grippe with all its miserable symptoms," says Mr. J. S. Egleston of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip." These Tablets promote a healthy action of the bowels, liver and kidneys which is always beneficial when the system is congested by a cold or attack of the grip. For sale by City Drug Store.

COUGHING SPELL CAUSED DEATH.

"Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, choked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Dec. 1, 1901." Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by City Drug Store.

A CERTAIN CURE FOR CROUP.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children, and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by City Drug Store.

Society's New Game.

"Trail" has taken society by storm. It is something new, something different. "Trail" as the name implies, is founded on a popular hunting sport, is played with fifty-three fine cards in four colors, representing a fox to be chased and caught, and four packs of hounds of thirteen each.

"Trail" has constantly recurring interest for players as they perfect their playing from evening to evening, in marked contrast to certain recent boisterous games that bore the players at the end of an hour.

With the one pack six other splendid, new, copyright games can be played. Two Educational games, and two games of Fun, making it suitable for all members of a family.

"Trail" can be had of dealers or sent post-paid, 75c. gilt edge, plain 50c. Rules for seven games free.
