

THE WESTERN FAIR

Lewis and Clark Exposition Nearing Completion—Will be Ready on Time—How it Looks 4 Months Before the Opening Day.

WORK BEING RUSHED BY BOARD

Work on the grounds and buildings of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, which will be held at Portland, Oregon, this summer, opening June 1 and closing October 15, is progressing rapidly. Eight exhibit buildings have been completed and the installation of exhibits begun, while the remaining structures are nearing the stage where the finishing touches will be applied. The mild Oregon winter has permitted the work to progress without an interruption and when the President presses the button on opening day everything will be ready and waiting—something unusual in expositions.

Not only are the buildings far advanced, but the landscape picture also. The grass is green and roses bloom in the open air all the year round in Portland. Thousands of rose bushes have been set out on the lawns and terraces and these, kept fresh by the winter rains,—Oregon knows no frost bites or sun strokes—are awaiting the spring sunshine to bring forth a riot of color.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition although not so large as other expositions, will be a world's fair in every sense, reflecting the progress of all participating nations, and particularly of Western America. It will be quite unlike its predecessors in that it will combine with its broad scope the idea of compactness without crowding in the laying out of the grounds and the housing of the exhibits. There will be no dreariness of architecture to tire the eye, no miles of aisles to weary the limbs. All will be perfection or at least the nearest approach thereto ever achieved by an exposition.

The Centennial, which is the first international exposition ever held under the patronage of the United States Government west of the Rocky Mountains, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of exploration of the Oregon Country by an expedition commanded by Captains Noriweather Lewis and William Clark, and planned by President Jefferson. The sentiment which inspires the people of the Pacific Northwest in the preparation of this exposition is one in which every American must share. The result of this expedition, the acquisition of the great Oregon Country by right of discovery, extended our frontier to the Pacific Ocean, adding a vast and rich territory to our domain. It was one of the direct causes of the acquisition of California and the subsequent acquisitions of Alaska, Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines are related to it.

The beauty of the exposition site and the superb view to be had from it, coupled with the artistic grace of the buildings in the style of the Spanish Renaissance, will be an agreeable surprise to all visitors. Nestling at the base of the foothills of the Cascade Range, on the gentle slopes and terraces overlooking the Willamette river, with an unobstructed view of 65 miles which embraces the snowcapped peaks of Mt. Hood and Mt. St. Helens, the site presents a picture original in exposition building.

Of the gross area of the site, 180 acres are on the mainland and 60 acres form a peninsula extending out into Guild's Lake, a fresh water body 220 acres in extent and the largest mere ever enclosed within an exposition fence, which is separated from the Willamette river by a narrow strip of land. The exposition grounds are made up of hill and dale, and in one portion a natural park of trees and shrubs affords an opportunity for landscape work of a most attractive character. In the arrangement of the buildings thorough consideration has been given to the convenience of visitors and the attainment of a rich and beautiful architectural effect. The main group of exhibit palaces consist of eight structures occupies the ground bordering on the lake, and forms nearly a straight line with their short sides facing the water. Around these structures on the outer edge cluster the state, territorial and other minor pavilions. The Administration building in which the executive officers of the Fair are located, stands at one end of the ornate colonade entrance the main gateway to the grounds.

On the peninsula in the center of Guild's Lake is located the United States Government display. Here an imposing Government building with two towers each 260 feet high, is in course of construction. Besides the main building there are several minor structures, among them being the Forestry, Fisheries and Irrigation pavilions and the Life Saving Station.

All the main exposition structures are in the style of the Spanish Renaissance except the Forestry building which is a true American type, being constructed of huge logs in their virgin state, thus exemplifying in its composition the timber resources of the Columbia river region. The structure is 200 feet in length by 102 feet in width and its extreme height is 70 feet. In its construction two miles of five and six feet fir logs, eight miles of poles and tons of shakes and cedar shingles were used.

The central features of the Exposition are Columbia Court and Lakeview Terrace. These two spots have been made the objects of elaborate embellishment. The former is situated between the Agriculture and the European Exhibits buildings and consists of two wide avenues, between which are spacious sunken gardens. Lakeview Terrace is located on the sloping ground leading down to the lake and here is the Grand Stairway flanked on either side with flower beds and beautiful lawns.

The "Trail" which is the gaiety boulevard of the Centennial, corresponding to the Pike at St. Louis and the midways of other expositions has an entirely original environment for this feature of a world's fair. It is situated upon an ornate bridge which spans the lake and connects the mainland with the peninsula. With the unrivaled water facilities thus offered much attention will be directed to concession for aquatic features.

The railroads have made exceptionally low rates to Portland for the Western World's Fair and many people in the East and Middle West are expected to take advantage of them to see the great Pacific Northwest.

Install Officers.

The officers of Rogue River Council No. 256, "Order of Pendo" were installed last Saturday evening, Jan. 28th as follows: L. A. Finney, Counselor; T. Stone, Vice Counselor; Frank Kasshafer Secretary and Treasurer and L. Stone, Warden.

CROUP

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold, there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a croupy cough apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat.

Mrs. A. Vliet New Castle, Colo., writes March 19, 1902: I think Ballard's Horehound Syrup a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant to take. Sold by City Drug Store.
