Steam rolled barley and barley steam rolled at Chris Ulrich's. Barley steam rolled any day you bring a ton at $1.50 a ton. Also bran, flour, corn, corn meal and graham.

The new saloon to be opened on North D street by Hutton & Co. will probably be ready for business by Saturday says the Medford Mail. The interior has been fitted up in fine style and will be one of the handsomest barrooms in Southern Oregon.

John McAllister of New Hope has been employed at the Powell's creek sawmill at Provolt says the Rogue River Courier. The company has been sawing out timbers for the old Wimer mine at Murphy, which has recently started up to develop the ledge which was discovered February 24, 30 years ago and was worked up till September 15, 1881, and then was abandoned till last fall. It is equipped with good machinery and will probably prove to be one among the valuable quartz mines of Southern Oregon in the near future.

Geo. F. King and Mr. Gard were in the Trail Creek section last week and made another search for Wm. King, who mysteriously disappeared nearly three months ago says the Southern Oregonian. They were no more successful than those who looked for the unfortunate man before. What fate has befallen him may never be known. Frank Hammond, who lives in that neighborhood, passed by King's cabin Dec. 27th, while hunting, and saw smoke rising from the chimney, which was probably the last time his whereabouts were known.

Henry Kubli one of the leading stockmen of the Applegate valley, was in town several days last week. He states that things are looking mighty fine in that favored portion of the country this spring and that cattle are coming through the winter fat enough for the beef market. He was unfortunate last week to lose a good cow which fell off an embankment on the Blue Ledge road, a distance of twenty feet, and broke her back.

The Iowa Lumber & Box Co. are putting up a 40x60 foot, two story addition to their dry sheds. Reason, more business, more lumber, not enough room. The company has found it necessary since coming to Medford to enlarge from time to time, and the business has always justified the enlargement.—Medford Mail.

President W. S. Barnum of the Rogue River Valley Ry. left Sunday for Seattle to be gone some time. Marion Tryler is driving the engine and otherwise assisting General Manager Will Barnum, during his absence.

Jas. L. Woolridge came in from Kubli Monday, leaving at once for Grants Pass where he expected to remain a few days before returning to his home on the Applegate.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reames accompanied by Mrs. Tongue drove to Ashland Sunday returning home that evening.

WHATEVER HAPPENED IS HERE

Important Water Case.

The attention of the circuit Court has been occupied for the past week in the trial of the Wagner, creek water case, in which Fred Rapp together with 24 other plaintiffs are seeking to restrain Harry S. Lynch together with 33 other defendants from diverting any of the waters of Wagner creek above the head of plaintiffs ditches. The evidence of the plaintiffs is to the effect that they are the owners of the Davenport Ditch, the Rockefeller Ditch, the Wagner & Thornton Ditch and the Farmer's Ditch all of which were located over 50 years ago and any two of which will take all of the waters of Wagner Creek, at dry seasons of the year. That within the past ten years the defendants have wrongfully diverted the water from the stream above the heads of their ditches to their injury. The evidence of the defense was very short and to the effect that their grantors more than 50 years ago obtained patents to the lands which they are now irrigating, and as riparian owners they have the right to the water.

Several pretty questions of importance are presented in the case and the outcome will be watched with great interest by those interested in irrigation.

Nearly 50 witnesses were examined during the course of the trial and although there are many thousand dollars at stake, there was always present the best of feeling, and the opposing counsel treated each other with uniform courtesy.

Messrs. A. E. and C. L. Reames of this city conducted the case for the plaintiffs while Calkins & Calkins attended to the interests of the defendants.

County Road Work.

Road work in Jackson county has been an important subject for many years and will continue to be of the utmost importance for many years to come. Perhaps things never looked more promising in the county's history for "good roads" than they do at the present time and the next few years will see a world of improvement along this line as the county has made provision to get right into the work with improved machinery and experienced men in charge. The work will be taken up at once with the road-making machine putting on the finishing touches to a portion of the road south of Talent upon which work was commenced last fall. After this is completed work will doubtless be commenced on the sticky road between Mrs. Roberts' and Frank Peil's places, a distance of about three miles, there being enough crushed rock on hand to cover this road in good shape, provided the farmers of that locality show enough public spirit to turn out with their teams and do the required hauling. The principal drawback to the building of many needed roads in the county is the remoteness of good rock from that locality although it is most abundant in other localities.

City Election Tuesday.

The city election passed off very quietly in Jacksonville, Tuesday, although there was quite an interest taken in the result and a very good vote was polled. The only matter in doubt was the result on Marshal on which the interest centered, there being a three-cornered fight over the office.

The polls were opened at 10:00 o'clock and closed at 3:00. G. N. Lewis was chairman of the election board, S. P. DeRoboam and J. B. Wetterer clerks and J. H. Huffer, Sr. and Frank Kassahfer judges of election.

The vote on trustees resulted as follows:

J. S. Orth 109, E. Britt 107, J. H. Williamson 104, T. Cameron 103 and C. P. Briggs 98.

Henry Dox was elected recorder by 112 votes having no opposition.

James Cronemiller was elected treasurer receiving 118 votes, the highest number polled for any man for any office.

Henry Wendt had no opposition for street commissioner and received 91 votes.

For marshal J. H. Huffer, Jr. received 66 votes, M. Sidley 48, and T. Cooper 24.
