The Oregon Semi-Weekly Journal will soon begin the publication of a new newspaper novel by Paul De Laney entitled "The Sheepherder." In order to give our readers a chance to read this story, we have arranged an unprecedented low clubbing rate with the Journal. This paper and the Semi-Weekly Journal will be given one year, the two for $2.00. Call at this office at once and subscribe in order to get the first chapter of the story. This offer applies to old subscribers paying in advance as well as new ones.

Paul De Laney has spent five years in traveling in Eastern Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California, and has seen every phase of life in this vast region. His first novel was "The Lord of the Desert," which was inspired in his travels through this country. His second novel, and more popular than the first was the "Toilers of the Columbia," but now he has written a better story still—a story that will live. It is a new feature in fiction. It deals with the great range wars, the timber land frauds, and the irrigation projects in all romantic spirit. See this paper about getting the story.
