WHOBODY?

Everybody tells me things I should know. But Nobody tells me why they are! Somebody knows why things must be. But Whobody's going to teach it to me? Anybody seems to be able to tell. When the sun is shining, that all is well. But sometimes clouds will darken the sky. Whobody's going to tell me why? --Peter McArthur in Woman's Home Companion.

A Difference of Opinion.

"Was it a nice wedding?"
"Beautiful. Never saw handsomer one, and everything went off without a hitch."
"Without a hitch? So? What was the trouble? Didn't the minister get there?"
"Get there? Why, yes. I tell you there wasn't a hitch from beginning to end."
"No hitch? Well, tastes differ. You're too modern for me. I like weddings with a hitch in them. What good is a wedding where nobody's hitched?" --New York Life.

Cause For Suspicion.

"Oh, no, I can never trust my husband again. I feel convinced he is carrying on with the cook."
"What makes you think that?"
"Last night he kissed me in the dark." --Fliegende Blätter.

The Dramatic Instinct.

Professor Brander Matthews in a lecture on theatrical conventions to a class in dramaturgy the other day told the following story:
"A little girl had dramatized a sofa pillow into a horse and had ridden on the horse to her mother's knee. 'Horse is thirsty, mamma,' she said. To humor her the mother brought a glass of water, but the little one carefully emptied the water in a jardiniere before offering the glass to her pillow. 'A pretended horse ought to drink pretended water,' she remarked gravely." --Harper's Weekly.

Doing Her Best.

"That Mrs. Popple," said Miss Grouch, "is the most slovenly housekeeper I ever saw."
"But," protested Miss Goodley, "she has a big family of growing boys."
"All the more shame to her, for she should know that cleanliness is next to godliness," and --
"She says it's next to 'Impossible.'" --Catholic Standard and Times.

PITH AND POINT.

Lots of men are their own Jonahs. Wise is he who knows when not to be patient.
The man who lives for himself alone dies un mourned.
When some men start out to look for the deserving poor their first stop is in front of a mirror.
Greatness will show up in a great man just as certain as littleness will show up in a little man.
Every man believes there is a reward laid up in heaven for him, but he is never in a hurry to claim it. --Chicago News.

DON'TS FOR YOU.

Don't imagine you know everything, for you don't.
Don't expect acorns to become oak trees in a day or a year.
Don't lose faith in humanity because you find an occasional "bad egg."
Don't quarrel with circumstances or fret over what cannot be altered.
Don't laugh over other people's mistakes. You soon may be caught tripping.
Don't decide that charity is a great mistake because you have sometimes been imposed upon. --Home Note.

A Changed Bird.

An Irishman who wasn't much of a hunter went out to hunt one day, and the first thing he saw to shoot at was a bluejay sitting snugly on the top of a fence. He blazed away at the bird and then walked over to pick it up. What he happened to find there was a dead frog, which he raised carefully at arm's length, looking at it with a puzzled air. Finally he remarked, "Well, begob, but ye was a foine looking bird befur Ot blew ther fithers off of yerse!" --Judge's Library.
