MONDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1908.

One of the neatest and brightest little daily papers in the state is the Evening Herald of Klamath Falls. It is an able exponent of that wide-awake, thriving little city.

The senate has removed any obstacle that the government might of feared in its efforts to sue the Harriman road system for the recovery of valuable mineral and timber lands.

W. S. U'Ren wants to run for Republican nomination for United States Senator on a Statement No 1. platform.

A quarrel has already resulted from the recent rich gold strike in Nevada. Edward Miller and 20 friends, barricaded behind a breastworks of high-grade ore, are defending their rights to a lease on the litigation claim on Ballon Mountain at Rawhide.

When Fulton returns from Washington next month he will probably make things interesting for Francis J. Heney and it is rumored the Senator may resort to Heney's practices and tell a few things about the past career of the prosecutor.

Ex-United States Senator, John C. Spooner, of Wisconsin, has been engaged to defend the Southern Pacific in the Oregon and California land-grant suits to be brought by the Department of Justice.

After making a trip covering a period of exactly four months, during which time he traveled 30,000 miles and was on the water 105 days, United States Deputy Marshal John F. Kerrigan returned to Portland Friday with Horace G. McKinley the fugitive land fraud defendant.

The American Car, in the New York to Paris automobile race, is still in the lead being closely followed by the French car. In Indiana big snowdrifts were encountered and the farmers turned out and shoveled snow for miles, to help the American car get through.

Jonathan Bourne and Mr. U'Ren are making a great fight for statement No 1, but would not it be well for the people to vote for a man in whom they have the fullest confidence, rather than one who has to be pledged. It is just possible that our officials may have something equally as important to do, as voting for U. S. Senator.

DIABOLO.

How do you perch the bobbin on the string? Before you send it skyward with a jerk? How the diabolo do you get the thing To work?

Last night I practiced for an hour or so Until a difference of opinion led To the diabolo shaking in below The bed.

I caught it twice—once off my looking glass, And once it got entangled with my ear: We're needing three new marbles in my gas-olier.

I could admire the creature's graceful walls Did it reverse with less unholy glee: I can't forgive its cowardly assaults On me.

Are not its fascinations mostly sham? Do its experiments really find the fun? Worth all the loss of temper and the damage done?

Next year its name will be anathema: The present cry will in a month or so Be changed to "Au diablo with diabolo!" —Glasgow Herald.

Wisdom of the Young.

"Oh, Willie, don't yer wait yer was a real horse, so's yer could wear a silver plated harness instead of dese old strings?" —New York World.

Man Proposes, Woman Disposes. "No," said the girl with the refrigerator heart, "I can never be your wife, and I'm sure I never gave you any encouragement."

"Encouragement," echoed the young man, who was too dense to realize that he had won by losing. "Why, even your father thinks it all settled!"

"How do you know he does?" queried the chilly fair one. "Because," explained the young man, "he tried to borrow money from me last week." —Chicago News.

The Artist's Way.

D'Auler—Of course not every one can be an artist. One must have imagination to draw.

Crittick—Yes, I notice that most so called artists in talking about themselves draw on their imaginations a great deal. —Catholic Standard and Times.

The Reason of It.

"What do you think, George?" began Mrs. Stiles. "I dreamed last night that I was in a box party at the opera and"

"Ah," exclaimed her husband, "that explains why you were talking so loud in your sleep." —Philadelphia Press.

Pretty Tough.

"Walter, what kind of a steak was that you served me just now?" demanded the dissatisfied guest.

"Well done," responded the waiter, with a low bow. "H'm! Do you mean me or the steak?" —Detroit Tribune.

The Other Side.

Landlady—Are you so particular about having a quiet room because you sleep in the daytime?

De Toot—No, ma'am. I practice on the fute several hours a day, and any other sound jars on my sensitive eard.

A Fine Discretion.

Colonel Coltes—Why did Majah Blue-meadow withdraw from the convention?

Judge Hilldew—He said he was afraid if he remained he would shoot something he would afterwards regret. —Puck.

Her Real Purpose.

"I'm afraid," said the anxious mother, "your new gown will be too expensive to please your husband."

"Oh," rejoined the young wife, "I didn't get it to please him. I got it to worry other women." —St. Louis Republic.

Too Wise For Him.

"Dar's a Georgy mule froze up in de snow!"

"Don't let him fool you," said Broth-se Dickey. "He wants you ter come along sez whar he is, so's he kin kick you ter blazes." —Atlanta Constitution.

Had Reasons.

"We are going to put all the grafters in jail," declared the prosecutor.

"But why are you so slow?" "Say, you wouldn't deny us the pleasure of anticipation, would you?" —Philadelphia Ledger.

Preferable.

"Do you prefer coins without mottoes?"

"Yes," answered the struggling citizen. "It's a good idea. Infinitely preferable to mottoes without coin." —Washington Star.

MILLS ADDITION LOTS

are Advancing in Value

When blocks in Mills Addition were offered at bargain prices a number of shrewd investors bought; since that time values have increased materially.

These Lots are Bargain Buys

at present prices, and there is every reason to anticipate an advance in prices. Remember these lots are FIFTY feet in width and ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY FEET deep—more than double the area of most town lots offered to investors.
