THE PEAZEL TREE.

Its History as Told by the Rev. Jasper Napoleon Pinckney.

The Rev. Jasper Napoleon Pinckney of Punxsutawney parish used to boast that he could expound at sight any text in the Bible.

"Br'er Pinckney, will yo' be so kin' an' condescendin', please, suh, as tuh expoun' untuh us de items an' de stae-tees-tics ob de items tuh be part' in de Fifty-seventh Psalm, las' part' o' de eighth verse?"

Br'er Pinckney glanced at the text without apprehension, for he had never read it before. Silently he couped these words: "Awake, peazley tree an' harp: I myself will awake early."

Having paused long enough to let the words sink into the minds of his congregation, Br'er Pinckney repeated them and added this explanation: "My dear brudder an' sistahs: King David wuz a smaht man an' a pow'ful man, but he wuz also a ter'ible busy man, an' he hatter git up mighty early in de mawnin' foh tuh do his day's wuk, des like all de rest un us po' sinners."

"Awake, peazley tree an' harp: I myself will awake early." "My dear brudder an' sistahs: King David wuz a smaht man an' a pow'ful man, but he wuz also a ter'ible busy man, an' he hatter git up mighty early in de mawnin' foh tuh do his day's wuk, des like all de rest un us po' sinners."

Dramatic.

Just as he clasped the beautiful girl in his great strong arms a strange man came out and stood beside them, looking exceptionally foolish and idiotic due possibly to his embarrassment.

"Pardon me," he said. "The playwright had more epigrams than he could put in the mouths of his logical characters, and I've dropped in just here to get off a few of them. I'll be as quick as I can. You understand my position, of course."

"Oh, dear, yes," they replied as with one voice. "Don't mind us. Go right ahead. Take the center of the stage and talk as long as you like. We've been in society drama before, you know."—Puck.

Prolonged Duties.

"I would like to see the sheriff," announced the visitor in the county courthouse.

"He's out," replied one of the clerks. "When do you expect him back?" asked the visitor.

"I don't think he will be back for a week at least," answered the clerk. "A watch factory failed, and he's winding up its affairs."—Harper's Weekly.

The Seats Were Safe.

"It would please me mightily, Miss Stout," said Mr. Mugley, "to have you go to the theater with me this evening."

"Have you secured the seats?" asked Miss Vera Stout. "Oh, come now," he protested, "you're not so heavy as all that!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Business and Sentiment.

"I think," said the rising young broker to the wise young business woman, "that you really owe something to a love like mine."

"Under the circumstances," replied the wise young business woman, "I won't attempt to deny that you are a preferred creditor."—Baltimore American.

In the Language.

"Some one has said that a kiss is the language of love," remarked the young man in the parlor scene.

"Well," rejoined the fair maid on the far end of the sofa, "why don't you get busy and say something?"—Chicago News.

Under Difficulties.

"I'll tell you, Sepp; write him a real insulting letter!" "Oh, that's easily said, old woman! And I don't even know how to spell 'insulting'!"—Fleegende Blatter.

MILLS ADDITION LOTS are Advancing in Value

When blocks in Mills Addition were offered at bargain prices a number of shrewd investors bought; since that time values have increased materially.

These Lots are Bargain Buys at present prices, and there is every reason to anticipate an advance in prices. Remember these lots are FIFTY feet in width and ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY FEET deep—more than double the area of most town lots offered to investors.
