BLACK COFFEE RECIPE.

As it is Used as a Digestant No Cream or Sugar is Added.

Black or after dinner coffee is usually made exactly like that taken for breakfast, and made by filtering, steaming or boiling, save that double the proportion of the beans is used, two heaping tablespoons of coffee to each cup of water. It should be strong and perfectly clear. Serve in small cups with black sugar.

As after dinner coffee is used as a digestant, neither cream nor milk should be added. There is a growing fancy for making the regular Turkish coffee for the Sunday dessert, but it is extremely "puttery" work, as only small cups are made at a time. The essentials for the Turkish coffee are one of the Turkish coffee mills of brass that grind the bean as fine as powder and one of the tiny Turkish coffee-pots that can now be found in any of the house furnishing stores.

To make the coffee in these put a pot containing freshly boiled water on the fire with two or three lumps of sugar. Add two heaping cups of coffee powder to the water, which is just enough for two after dinner cups, stir well and let the pot boil up four times. Between each boil the pot is taken from the stove and tapped gently on the bottom until the froth appears on the top. Then return to the fire until it boils again. It requires very close watching.

After the last boiling pour off the coffee from the sediment, first into one cup, then into another, so as to divide the froth evenly.

Have more boiling water in readiness and repeat the operation until all are served.

The Service

you obtain from your clothing is two-fold. There is style service and the service defined by the durability of the garments. The one is a matter of taste and the other a matter of quality.

The patrons of this store have learned that we safeguard them on both kinds of service, and in addition to this we endeavor to give them at all times the very best personal service possible. Your good will and patronage are our existence, and we shall endeavor to merit them—now and always.

The moment we have a dissatisfied customer we expect to close our store, unless it is a man who thinks so little of his money that will purchase something that does not please him and neglect to tell us about it. If you buy anything in this store and it disappoints you in any way, shape or manner, come and tell us about it; we are here to make it right.
