 The coin of smallest value ever issued is the "mite," so-called, such as the widow of the Bible story contributed to the poor. Its shape was hexagonal and its face value one-fiftieth of a cent. Five thousand mites are the equivalent in value of one American dollar.
 Lorente, the learned and talented historiographer of the Inquisition, was glad during the close of his brilliant but unfortunate career to hire himself out for a few sous a night to keep watch over the dead bodies at the Paris morgue and died eventually of starvation.
The Sin of Trousers.
 Trousers were not introduced into England without a struggle—a struggle in which the great Duke of Wellington suffered his only defeat, for it is on record that in 1814 Wellington was refused admission to Almack's "because he wore trousers instead of breeches and silk stockings." Next year trousers were admitted to Almack's and Wellington won Waterloo.—London Tatler.
Convict Street Cleaners.
 Public streets in the towns of Java are daily swept and kept clean by native convicts. They go to work chained together in parties of twenty or thirty under the superintendence of barefooted native soldiers clad in ill fitting uniforms, who would instantly shoot their charges down if they tried to escape during their working time, when they are unchained.—London Standard.

Don't Be Afraid

IF THERE is sickness in the house, even the most severe sickness, and you are compelled to get a doctor, don't be afraid to bring that doctor's prescription to our store to have it filled.
 IT MAKES no difference to us who the doctor is. It makes no difference how complicated the prescription is which he writes. It makes no difference how much he desires the prescription to be filled exactly as it is written. It makes no difference how much he wishes the ingredients used in the prescription to be pure.
 ALL WE SAY is "don't be afraid to bring the prescription here."
 IT MAKES no difference whose prescription blank your doctor uses in writing the prescription, you have the privilege of taking that prescription to any store you prefer. We absolutely guarantee to you, satisfaction if you bring your prescription to us.
 WE GUARANTEE that under no consideration, or for no monetary inducement will we allow a single prescription to go out of our store except it is exactly as the doctor writes it, and that it is filled with the highest quality ingredients which can be supplied to us.

 "The Store that Saves You Money"

The "Evening Bird."
 The greco, a wonderful little reptile, is common to many hot countries. It is a very active animal and can run up a perpendicular wall with the greatest ease, owing to the peculiar conformation of the foot. It is sometimes known as the "evening bird" and derives its more common name from the very distinct way in which it shrieks out "cheek o!" the last syllable being given in a marked manner.
Willing to Help.
 "Mr. Shirk," said his wife's mother sternly, "Mary tells me that you won't help her at all; that you won't hold the baby even for a moment."
 "That ain't so," replied Shirk. "Why, I held it for quite a long time last evening."
Indeed! How long?"
 "Why, long enough for her to go down into the cellar and get a scuttle of coal."—London Scrap.
Ready to Oblige.
 At a dance in a certain city a visitor to the place got into conversation with an elderly gentleman.
 Presently the young man said, pointing to a lady across the room, who was smiling pleasantly in his direction: "I wonder if that ugly woman is actually trying to flirt with me?"
 "I don't know," the elderly gentleman answered mildly, "but I can easily ascertain for you. She's my wife."
England.
 It is recorded that Philip II. of Spain in the reign of Queen Elizabeth took a small map of the world, laid his little finger upon the tiny spot of England and, having thus obliterated it, asked where England was. It was nowhere then. But by contrast it is everywhere now. It is the largest empire that now exists or that ever has existed.—Lord Curzon.
Mimself to Blame.
 A youthful versifier in Washington not long ago sought the criticism of a well known publisher who chanced to be at the national capital on business with the copyright division of the library of congress.
 "Sir," said the near poet indignantly when the publisher had brusquely advised him to "burn the stuff"—"Sir, poets are born, not made."
 Whereupon the publisher smiled broadly. "Young man," said he, "it won't help your case in the least to try to shift the blame on your parents."
 —Kansas City Journal.
The Feast of young giraffe, especially that of a young cow, is extremely good, somewhat like veal, with a gamelike flavor. The tongue, from eighteen to twenty inches long, is also very good. But the marrowbones afford the greatest luxury to the South African hunter.

Callier—Where's Mr. Hanzel?
Smart Office Boy (with a look of despair):
 "Can't say. He's dead."
Callier—Why? I saw him myself this morning.
Boy—Well, anyhow, there's a copper over across the street there with "Half Dyed Here."
"That man makes a lot of money" said one factory employe.
"Yes," answered the other, "than all the rest of us put together. The foreman just keeps him in a room so that he can have some one to go on and show that he's lost."—Laghton Star.
Mr. Jawback—My goodness, dear! What are you in such a hurry about?
Mrs. Jawback—Well, I have a letter to fuss. I'm to deliver an address the Don't Worry club this afternoon and I'm afraid it's going to be Cleveland Leader.
"Dudley is married now," said Towne, "and he's got a reputation live up to."
"I heard he was married to a widow," replied Brown, "but the reputation you speak of?"
"His wife's first husband," said Delphis Press.
 A young man who had just been the office of Jeremiah Mason, the New Hampshire legal lumbar, study law asked the lawyer what should begin.
Mr. Mason, pointing to the books in the library shelves, answered boldly, "Anywhere."
Hans Andersen, the great Danish writer, was an exceedingly good man, and he had a very great heart being buried alive. So great was his dread that every night when he went to bed he would place by his bedside a large piece of paper on which he had written, "I am only apparently dead."
 Of English towns London is not the metropolis, but the brain. Its environs have been torn out and its best writers, among whom we mentioned Chaucer, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Pope, Browning, Byron, Arnold, Morris and Swinburne—don't London Library.
"Say, pa?"
"What is it?"
"Can a man who is rounded off at the corners be called a square?"
"What kind of a man is one rounded off at the corners?"
"A low legged one."—New York City Times.
 An Apt Illustration.
 Miss Kinky—What does white mean when dey talks about pe dey do Ily? Mr. Jackson—Dey's name as butterin' de pe's depepe.
 —New York City Times.

The Service

you obtain from your clothing is two-fold. There is style service and the service defined by the durability of the garments. The one is a matter of taste and the other a matter of quality.

The patrons of this store have learned that we stand guard them on both kinds of service, and in addition to this we endeavor to give them at all times the very best personal service possible. Your good will and patronage are our existence, and we shall endeavor to merit them—now and always.

The moment we have a dissatisfied customer we expect to change our store, unless it is a man who thinks so little of his money that will purchase something that does not please him and neglect to tell us about it. If you buy anything in this store and it disappoints you in any way, shape or manner, come and tell us about it; we are here to make it right.
