Able Ady states that the traffic via Teeter's is becoming so heavy that the erection of another building at the Landing is necessary. If the spur of the California Northeastern should be built Teeter's will become an important point until the railroad is extended to this city. It is almost a certainty that a large sawmill will be put in there within another year.

Bonanza Bulletin Items

Jas. H. Dilsch left Sunday for Lakeview.
The Mong troupe arrived here last Friday and a crowded house again greeted this celebrated company of dramatic players in the production of the comedy "Penelope the Servant Girl."
Early predictions of crop failure are made every year in Klamath county. In nearly every year it is the predictions, not the crops, which fail. This year has not been neglected by the doleful prophets who see nothing but barren fields as the farmers' reward for their plowing and sowing. We have had fine crops under far more discouraging conditions, and up to date there is no reason for feeling blue. The warm weather of the past few days has brought up all crops, and the fields look thrifty.
It will be remembered that a number of years ago J. D. Whitman, of Medford, erected a building near the old ford on Lost river below the lower gap and built a cannery for putting up the fish commonly called suckers but during high water lost everything in the brine. Mr. Whitman has returned to this county and purchased a piece of land near D. W. Anderson's at the gap and is building a fine little house. He will put in a first class fish trap near the old cannery and go into the business again having made all arrangements and will be ready for next year's run.

Flames Consume House

News was received in town this afternoon from the Geo. R. Hurn ranch, about midway between here and Keno that fire had destroyed the house on the place at 6 o'clock this morning. Mr. Hendricks is an old man and has been living on the place alone. About 6 o'clock this morning when he awoke he could smell smoke and he immediately rushed down stairs, upon opening the door he found that the entire outside of the house was on fire. In passing through the flames his hair was singed and his face burned. The house was built this Spring and it together with all of its contents is a total loss. The origin of the fire is unknown. Neighbors rushed in to assist as soon as the flames were discovered but it was then too late to save the building or any of its contents.

Recent developments in the freight situation indicate the business from Dorris to this city will be divided between the two companies that are in the field. J. M. McIntire has all of the through freight, but the Klamath Falls Transportation Co. has recently secured the signatures of twenty Klamath Falls shippers to an agreement that they will ship to Dorris in its care. If this is done it will divide the business between the two companies.

H. J. WINTER

"The Brides' favorite Jeweler"

When Abraham Lincoln sought solitude that he might find his inaugural address, he sought it in the quiet of a room in the White House. For Webster's reply to Jackson's proclamation of nullification and for Henry Clay's speech on the compromise of 1820 it is told of Ben Jones that in his last illness King Charles II. sent him a small sum of money for his services. "He sends me so miserably little," cried the dying poet, "I am poor and live in so alloy. Tell him his soul lives in an old London Standard."

Young people suffering from symptoms of first love have had their trouble explained by Dr. James C. Brown, who writes the following in a "species of coronation" and a stirring of coronation dominant association of the appropriate allusive language.
