Republicans Organize

In response to a request of the Chairman of Central Committee, the Republicans of Wood River Precinct have organized a Republican Club and elected E. M. Leever, pres.; O. B. Bonch, vice-pres.; and H. B. Loosely, secretary.

The meeting was addressed by Mr. Roy Wise on the importance of sustaining the republican candidates for Senator and Congressman, especially at this time, in view of the important legislation already inaugurated by the republican party in Congress.

The club heartily endorsed the following resolutions:

Whereas, We firmly believe that the interests of this state depends upon a solid republican delegation in Congress.

Whereas, The maintenance of a solid republican delegation in Congress depends upon the concerted action of all the republican voters in the state.

Therefore, Be it resolved that we heartily endorse the popular nomination of Mr. Calkins for U. S. Senator, Mr. Hawley and Mr. Ellis for Congress.

And be it further resolved: That we endorse the principles of the republican party as expounded by President Roosevelt.

When we do the best we can we think the world ought to sit around and applaud and be thankful that it escaped our worst.

Many a hard path could be made easier by the use of a little common sense.

It is a fine thing that the good time is always coming, for if it were past we would have a dismal time of it indeed.

The trouble with most of us is that we can't see why people can't see our fellow candles as far as they can see our neighbor's electrolite.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN H. SMITH

A CHEAP BLUFF.

Although your salary is small And your expenses great And you who sell you goods on time Must for their money wait, Don't let that hold you down or your imagination tame.

Go buy an auto in your mind To prove that you are game. Brush up your coat and call around To where the cars are sold And as the salesman bows and smiles Preserve a manner cold. Object to everything he shows. With comments on the side. And tell back out his choicest car And take you for a ride.

From dealer on to dealer fit, Look rich and thus put ice, Object to this thing and to that, But never to the price. This heap of riding you can get As each machine you test. A nice vacation it will be. A pleasant summer's rest.

No one is more susceptible To an article bluff Than gentlemen who sell the cars. It means to them the "stuff." Go round and see them once a week Just as a glad surprise. And they will take you for a spin. They need the exercise.

Only Way.

"I suppose your wife has the last word."
"Not much."
"You're an exceptional case."
"I say it under my breath."

Disproving a Saw.
Before the days when ready made clothing was sold regularly below cost, with a discount from that price off for cash, some one who presumably knew declared with some feeling that it took nine tailors to make a man.

Even in these days three times three tailors by putting their heads together might be able to make one of those nice men who come in so handy as part of the decoration scheme to watch the parlor furniture, but not so many tailors as that are needed to make a presidential candidate.

It is handed to us by a wise man as a serious reason why we should elect one of the candidates that his coat is always wrinkled.

Evidently a secondhand clothing man could come nearer making a presidential candidate who was looking for popular votes than could a score of artistic tailors.

Smart Girl.
"I am looking for a cloud."
"What for, you pessimistic thing?"
"I am having a new opera cloak made."
"You don't want cloudy weather for that, do you?"
"Well, I thought I would like a silvery lining for it."

Thaw's Finish.
No longer then will Evelyn Have Harry for a boarder. Congratulations, we should think. To both would be in order.
