Different.

We say, "As sure As I'm alive A man should leave His bed at five And not spend all The livelong day In sleep till he is old and gray."

Thus doth he talk The night before, But if you'll in Torment his snore Next morn at five You're apt to find The early riser's Changed his mind. —Houston Post.

Instructions to Cabby.

Lady—Now, cabman, I wish you to be extremely careful, and in case of a block you must wait until the police tell you to go on, and if the streets are very slippery you must drive very slowly.

Cabby—All right, mum. I'll be very careful, mum, and in case of a accident, mum, which 'ospital would you like to be took to?—Windsor Magazine.

Anything to Oblige.

Farmer—Have you seen my bull? Golfer—Gracious me! No! Where is he?

Farmer—That's just it; he's got loose, and we want to find him. So if you meet him you might just keep on that there red coat of your'n and run this way!—London Opinion.

The Angler.

The angler angles all day long. The fish bite mighty fast. He grimly baits his hook until He's up against the last. Then, cursing, he reels in his line And flies to his feet. For of all the bites he's had today There's not one bite to eat. —Lippincott's Magazine.

Not Speaking.

"That girl doesn't speak to me if she can avoid it," said the man with a frown.

"You should have more pride than to resent it."

"I can't help resenting it. She's the telephone operator."—Washington Star.

If Anybody Should Ask.

Archie—Pardon me, but did you ever notice what large feet Mr. Stockman has?

Miss Capulem—I think I've never noticed that, but I have observed that he wears a man's size hat.—Chicago Tribune.

The Next Door Neighbor.

Down by the stream where I first met Miranda There's a hammock for two on a shady veranda. Rings that rattle graphophone. With a wheeze, a sigh, a moan, Grrr—bzzzz * * * k—urt—help! —Harvard Lampoon.

Modern Explanation.

Freshman—Did your father cut your allowance on account of that mark?

Sophomore—No, indeed; probably on account of some business misconduct of his in the past.—New York Evening Sun.

Divination.

"Bet you don't know what I am thinking about."

"Huh! That's easy. You are thinking I don't know what you are thinking about."—Lippincott's Magazine.

No Chance to Save.

I don't believe she has been paid. That "a dollar saved is a dollar made." For a dollar saved today tomorrow'd be pretty certain to be borrowed. —Catholic Standard and Times.

On a Level.

"How many girls have proposed to you this year, Tom?"

"About as many as the good resolutions you have kept this year, Dick."—Baltimore American.

To Be Consistent.

"I hate a liar!" Pecksniff cried. Said brightly, "Then 'twould seem You really ought to try and hide Your lack of self-esteem." —Philadelphia Press.

The Universal Appeal.

Manager—I want a drama of human interest.

Author—Then why not dramatize a spring cleaning?—Baltimore American.

If He Is Truthful.

Full many a hunter, on my word, Will boast, but should you ask, He'll say he never hits a bird, But often hits a quack. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Something Sweet.

Clementine—If you should dare to kiss me I should say, "Oh, sugar!"

Clementine—And I guess I'd say the same.—Detroit Tribune.

The Meth's Appetite.

The buzz a moth we should eat. It certainly seems most fat. That it should grow so very fat And simply eat a hole. —New York Times.

A Bore.

A bore is a man who talks about his own motor car when you want to talk about yours.—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Orator's Advantage.

"An epigram?" they shout with glee. When some old truth he glosses o'er. If it were said by you or me 'T would be a chestnut—nothing more. —Washington Star.

Dolce Far Niente.

Ex—Did you ever see an Indian idol? Wy—I never saw one any other way.—Cleveland Leader.

The Gist of the Argument.
