MONEY TO LOAN—Hard times but I have some money to loan if you have the security.—E. B. Hall.

The First Coins.

While the first actual coining of money is attributed to Pheidon, king of Argos, in 895 B. C., it must not be supposed that there had not existed a keen appreciation of the value and uses of money for centuries previous to the introduction of coinage. The ancient Egyptians had a gold and silver standard of currency, and their money was in the form of gold and silver ornaments, rings and nuggets, the purchasing value of which depended on their weight. The Greeks improved somewhat on this system by first marking the weight on gold and silver nuggets so that it would no longer be necessary to reweigh them every time they were to be used for purposes of exchange or trade. Then came the introduction of gold, silver and copper nuggets of graded uniform sizes and value. The next step was the molding and stamping of disks made from the precious metals. Some of these first coins were enormous, the idea apparently being to discourage the greedy from attempting to accumulate and carry around too many of them. There were copper coins as large as dinner plates. While the idea was based on excellent motives, it had to give way before the demand for smaller and more convenient forms of currency, and the giant pennies soon dwindled in size to meet the popular demand.

Open Minded.

"You wouldn't believe this possible, but still"—

"I'll believe anything possible," interrupted the sour citizen. "I've bought a little law in my time."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

There is just this about it—it is impossible to be an easy mark and a hard case at the same time.

No Danger.

"Whatever you do, dear," wrote the ardent lover, "don't show my letters to you to any one."

"Have no fear, dearest," came the reply. "I'm just as much ashamed of them as you are."

And with that the engagement became a matter of history.—Judge.

Entering a Demurrer.

"Talk about the superiority of mind over matter!" said the argumentative boarder. "It's just the other way. If you want to be sure not to forget a thing you don't trust it to your memory. You take a pencil and a slip of paper and make a memorandum of it."—Chicago Tribune.

To the Point.

When you have a thing to say,
Say it; don't take half a day.
Where your tale's got little in it
Crowd the whole thing in a minute.
Life is short—a fleeting vapor;
Don't you fill the whole blamed paper
With a tale which at a pinch
Could be cornered in an inch.
Boil her down until she simmers;
Polish her until she glimmers.
When you have a thing to say,
Say it; don't take half a day.
—Editor.

Suggested by the Waiter.

"Waiter, I wish you'd let me have a knife that's sharp enough to cut this steak."

"Sorry, sir, but we don't keep our knives sharp. Maybe you could use the steak as a strop, sir, and sharpen your knife up a bit."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bad Bill's Waterloo.

He was a bad man, every inch,
And often made his hearers wince
When he'd whoop: "Dis is a cinch—
To clean de house out! See?"
But when in spring his wife would say,
"Hey Bill, come help clean house today!"
You'd see the bad man run away—
"No cleaning house for me!"
—Detroit Tribune.

A Decoy.

The Painter—You play charmingly. Do you ever play for charity?

The Pianist—Oh, yes; frequently.

The Painter—Well, come over and play at my studio some day. Then perhaps I can get some people to look at my pictures.—Puck.

The Matinee Girl.

Her moods are wondrous strange, 'tis said.
For her grief is a bliss sublime.
If nose and eyes with tears are red,
She vows she's had a lovely time.
—Washington Star.

Nobody?

First Guest—Who is that insignificant looking little man standing near the door?

Second Guest—I can't tell you who he is, but I know what he's. He is the hostess' husband.—Boston Post.

That's wrong," the old convict confessed.
"Now, I've been quite bad in my day
And frequently found there's arrest."
—Philadelphia Press.

Deceitful Appearances.

Little Margie (after watching her small brother devour several large sections of chocolate cake)—Mamma, isn't it funny how much larger Jimmy really is than he appears to be from the outside?—Judge.

With a Steel Pick.

He tried to pick the winners,
But somehow they had him beat.
But now each day
At two per pay
You'll see him pick the street.
—Chicago News.

The Modern Nomad.

"Did you ask that man why he paid rent instead of owning his own home?" asked one real estate agent.

"Yes," answered the other. "He said he didn't. He kept moving."—Yonkers Statesman.

Huge.

We've harped upon big hats until
We're weary, more or less.
But ere we quit we must admit
They are a huge success.
—Kansas City Times.

Wronged.

"Mercy sakes! Is she suing for divorce again? This is the third time, isn't it?"

"Oh, no! Don't wrong her. One of her husbands died."—Harper's Weekly.

An Automobile Trip.

A whiz, a smell of gasoline,
A thought of worlds to come,
A blur of green—the passing scene—
I guess that's going some!
—Washington Star.

Grudging Himself Pleasure.

Lady Bountiful—I hope you are coming to our "pleasant evening" tonight at the coffee tavern, Giles?

Giles—Wull, I s'pose I shall hev to.—Punch.

The Ring of the Bell.

"Effect will sometimes precede cause,"
Remarked Professor Krell.
"The diamond ring is always heard
Before the wedding bell."
—Bohemian Magazine.

He Who Waits.

"Everything comes to him who waits," mused the man in a restaurant, "but it comes cold."—New York Life.
