Kiss Microbes.
There are microbes in a kiss, sweetheart, is what the scientists say. And yet, despite these microbes, do you think you'd say no nay if I kiss you with or without microbes or without? Don't think you would deny me in the winning of love's tournament? Don't think that we should know or care if millions lingered there? Of naughty, hungry microbes? Don't you think that we would dare defy the millions and all and kiss the same old way? As Adam kissed sweet Mother Eve in paradise that day?

The microbes of a kiss, sweetheart, pray what, pray, what, are they? Of confidence and sweetest love and hope that day by day? These microbes all will stronger grow and flourish as they may. While I kiss you and you kiss me the sweet old-fashioned way.
—Pittsburg Post.

A Comparison.
"Biggles makes a great fuss over trifles," said the critical person.
"Yes," answered the nervous man; "you can't ask him the time of day without his getting as excited as a cuckoo clock."
—Washington Star

He Was It.
Mollie—Tell me, did you ever win a prize at a lottery?
Cholly—No, I never did, but my wife did.—Yonkers Statesman.

Different Suit.
They fished together, he and she. Beside the building mountains brook. He used minnows small for bait. She used a sweet but saucy look.
When they cut the noisy stream The maiden's home they sought. He hadn't looked a single thing. But a "sucker" she had caught.
—Detroit Tribune

Experience Contribution.
Poetic Friend—Some one says a baby in the house is a wellspring of joy.
Exasperated Young Parent—Well, don't you believe it. As an element of enjoyment a baby in the house is a screaming farce.—Baltimore American

The Same Thing.
She—I'm told you believe in nothing.
He—I never said so. I said I believed only in what I understood.—Punch.

Fly Time.
Of all slow tortures ever Satan fed. To all that is on human life a blight. The worst is when one wakeful lies in bed. And hears a fly approaching in the night.
—Judge.

One of Many.
Mrs. Miklus—Your husband told my husband that his word was law at home.
Mrs. Miklus—Yes, it's one of those laws that are never enforced.—Chicago News.

How He Made It.
"They say he made money speculating."
"No. The other fellows were speculating."
—San Francisco Examiner.

Depends on Your Mood.
Here's the difference 'twixt humor in books. And that which we hear after meals—The former's as old as it looks. The latter's as young as it feels.
—Punch.

An Alibi.
Pat—Say, Moll, p'wot's an alibi, Ol dunno?
Mike—Faith, an alibi is whin a man is ather bein' where he ain't.—Chicago News.

All on One Side.
"He seems very proud of his family."
"Yes, and that's just where his family can't reciprocate."
—Pick Me Up.

—Minneapolis Journal.

Not to Be Told.

"Hush! The minister is sitting over there, and he'll hear us."
—Cleveland Leader.

A Big Difference.
She—What's the difference between a simple and a wrinkle?
He—Oh, about thirty or forty years.
—Philadelphia Inquirer.

An Unwieldy Wish.
If what we're wishing could be done. And each held automatic away. We should be loosed, every one. With no one willing to obey.
—St. Louis Republic.

—Judge.

The Mysterious Time.
Boots (that has overslept)—Will ye please to get up, sorr? It's an hour later than it was this toime yesterday mornin', sorr.—Punch.

Silk Weaving.
The wife of the fourth emperor of China invented silk weaving and was worshiped in consequence. Japanese bronze work resulted from a woman's efforts.
Oliver Cromwell.
In the early days of his career, while lying in bed, Oliver Cromwell declared he saw the curialna part and a woman of titanic stature appeared, who told him he would be the greatest man in England. Cromwell was subject to fits of high temper.

A Roumania Custom.
Good luck comes to a home in Roumania if a hat and a gold coin are buried together under the threshold.

Austria's Cotton Mills.
The cotton mills in Austria divide themselves into four separate groups—the Bohemian mills along the northern border, the lower Austrian mills lying just south of Vienna, the Vorarberg mills and the mills around Trieste.

The Amazon.
The greatest river in the world in flood of waters, draining an immense region, the Amazon, is one of the least useful owing to the character of the region through which it flows and the fact that it is subject to stupendous floods, owing to the vast volume of water which is poured into it in the rainy season under the equator.

Riffraff.
Rief is Anglo-Saxon and means rag. Ruff is also Anglo-Saxon and means sweepings. Hence "riffraff" means the offscourings of society, the refuse from the sweepings—human trash.

A Left Handed Salute.
To salute with the left hand is a deadly insult to Mohammedans in the east.

Prayers in Belgium.
In Belgium at 6 o'clock evening you hear from every cottage the voices of father, mother, children and servants saying their prayers, and it is much the same at noon.

Russian Peasants.
Russian peasants believe in witches, demons and wood devils and live under such conditions that in ordinary times in the Russian villages 50 per cent of the children from birth to five years die and 250 to 400 per 1,000 of those from birth to one year.

Gate of the Dead.
In Seoul, Korea, there is a small gate in the city wall known as the gate of the dead, through which all dead bodies must be carried out. No one may enter through it.

The Great Pyramid.
The great pyramid covers thirteen and a half acres of ground, was originally 475 feet high and contains 90,000,000 cubic feet of stone. Sir William Tite informs us that the mighty pyramid could not be built today for less than $150,000,000.

Dante's Dream.
Dante, the Italian poet, is said to have dreamed of the plot and characters of his great work, "The Divine Comedy." The story goes on to say that this phenomenon occurred when Dante was only nine years old.

Billiards.
To Henriette de Vigue, a French artist of the reign of Charles IX. (about 1571), are ascribed the invention of billiard tables and formulation of rules for the game, although the origin of billiards has been accredited variously to China, England, Spain and Italy as well as France. Shakespeare asserts that Antony and Cleopatra were good enough friends to play billiards without falling out, but he doesn't mention how or when the game got into Egypt.

Somnambulists.
Somnambulists can maintain their footing in the most perilous places so long as they remain in a state of somnambulism, but if suddenly awakened they instantly lose their self possession and balance.

For Sore Throat.
For an inflammation in the throat infuse one large handful of cinquefoil in a quart of water. Let it boil to a pint. Strain it and sweeten it with honey very sweet and swallow two or three spoonfuls often. This, though a simple medicine, is an old remedy and may be relied on. The herb is otherwise called five leaved grass.

Careless.
A woman horse thief who had dressed in a man's clothes was detected at Midland Junction, Western Australia, because she got off the wrong side of the animal and also loosened the wrong side of the girth.

Announcing a Birth.
In some parts of Holland a birth is announced by fastening a silk pin-cushion on the doorknob. If the pin-cushion is red the baby is a boy and if white a girl.

To Head Off Another Visit.
The superstitious belief that "where death had once passed out death could the more easily pass in" came from the Etruscans, who never carried a coffin out of an ordinary door, but always through the door of death, which was most carefully bolted and barred after the corpse was taken away.

Algebra and Chemistry.
Both algebra and chemistry were invented and brought into Europe by the Mohammedans, and chemistry and algebra are Arabic words.

What They Did to Him.
"Why did Napoleon hate the Heb?" once asked an instructor in history in a public school of Cincinnati, to which question no immediate reply was offered by any pupil.
"I'm sure somebody knows," said the teacher hopefully, scanning the faces before her.
"I think I kin tell, mum," finally ventured a dirty faced lad in the rear of the room. "He hated the English because they made him live 'n' die all by himself on the rock of St. Helena."
—Harper's Weekly.

So Gallant.
"You know," said the fair patient, "when I met you at the shore last summer it never occurred to me that you were a doctor of medicine."
"No?" replied the young physician.
"And when did you find it out?"
"Not until papa called you in to attend me."
"Ah! But then I became a doctor of divinity."
—Catholic Standard and Times.

Strawberry Shortcake.
Dew of dawn on hills of dream—
Beaten egg and lots of cream!
Breath of bloom from vales of sweet—
Taste the flavor while you eat:
Layers of snow and bars of gold
In between them, crushed or rolled,
Berries from the vines that run
To the reddening of the sun!
Gods, upon Olympus' height,
Cross your hands and take a bite.
—Baltimore Sun.
