KLAMATH FALLS, FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 10, 1908

Tammany hall has out-Bryaned Bryan. The braves have decided to present to the committee on resolutions of the Democratic national convention the most radical platform ever suggested from the East. The subcommittee of the New York state delegation named to confer as to planks the empire state desires, favored practically all of the suggestions made by the American Federation of Labor affecting labor, especially those bearing on the anti-injunction question.

Bryan's friends are furious. They openly assert that Tammany is trying to embarrass him. He did not desire to go so far as to absolutely prohibit the use of the injunction in labor disputes. All he wanted was to regulate, not prohibit.

But Tammany declares it has only taken the peerless one at his word. He was reported to have said labor's demands were justified, and that he wanted no ambiguous language used. One of the Tammany men let the cat out of the bag in discussing the question early today:

"We will have a city election in New York one year from this Fall," he said. "We need the labor vote. If Bryan and his friends oppose us we will put the responsibility directly up to him, and if he forces a conservative platform, God help his chances, as both the West and the East will resent it."

The Tammany platform will also please the Pacific slope. It insists on the exclusion of Asiatics and favors an increased American navy.

Tammany does not want a declaration on the safeguarding and guaranteeing of national bank deposits, as suggested by Oklahoma, and does not mention the matter at all. It also dodges the plan to recommend the ascertaining of the physical valuation of railroads. In the strongest of terms, Tammany, however, demands a real parcels post which it declares is necessary for the welfare of the country.

Frank H. Hitchcock, former First Assistant Postmaster General, one of the managers for William H. Taft in the campaign for nomination for the Presidency by the Republican party, was unanimously chosen chairman of the Republican national committee. The announcement was made following a conference between Judge Taft and the members of the executive committee.

George R. Sheldon, of New York, was elected treasurer of the Republican national committee.

The Atlantic battleship fleet, with the exception of the Nebraska, which is in quarantine, weighed anchor Tuesday afternoon and passed through the Golden Gate, bound for Honolulu, thence for Australian and Japanese ports, and finally for Hampton Roads, the port of its departure.

There may be nothing new under the sun, but most of us find lots of things that are "different."

Few people are so wealthy or so patriotic that they really find pleasure in paying their taxes.
