Southworth Realizes Snug Sum From His Invention

WILL BE MANUFACTURED HERE

Patent Egg Tester Will Soon Be in Market—Will Be Pushed by LaBarr of Spokane—Goeller Sole Manufacturer of Article in United States and Territories

P. B. Southworth, the Klamath Inventive genius, has realized a neat sum from one of his inventions. On February 22, 1904, he was granted a patent on an egg tester, a simple device, and since then he has been working on a method to put the invention on the market. A few days ago, E. E. LaBarr, a commission man, of Spokane, Wash., was shown the invention and it impressed him so favorably that he at once began negotiations for certain territories. It resulted in his purchasing the rights for the three states, Oregon, Washington and Idaho, paying $2000 for each one.

It is Mr. LaBarr's intention to sell county rights in Oregon, while he will handle Washington with agents, and he has not decided upon the manner he will handle Idaho in, but it is probable that he will put agents in the field in that state in the near future.

Mr. LaBarr intends to push the invention in his territory and he considers it one of the best things that he has seen. In his opinion it solves the question of testing eggs for the commission merchant, for the store keepers and also for the producers.

It is a device that is easily handled being a small box with a slot for light and a plate glass in the bottom. It can be made so as to test any number of eggs at one time. The invention will sell for $2, and J. F. Goeller, of this city, has secured the sole manufacture of it in the United States. Mr. Goeller has already ordered the material necessary to turn out a number of the inventions and will install special machinery for manufacturing the article.

The invention is very simple, yet it does the work faster and better than anything now in use. With the device made to test six eggs at a time, the eggs can be tested as fast as they can be put on and taken off the box. It requires no light, not even sunshine although it works to better advantage when the sun is shining. By means of ordinary light one can readily distinguish between a fresh and a bad egg. There is little question but that the invention will be a seller and that Mr. Southworth will make a fortune from his inventive genius. It will be a matter of great convenience to everyone engaged in handling eggs.

Company Makes Good Again.

In the comedy "The Girl From Albany," the Mong company pleased a well filled house last night. The play was laughable throughout and the many humorous situations, developing in rapid succession, kept the house in a continuous uproar.

The orchestra supplied excellent music and the cornet playing by Prof. Rice and the violin music by Miss Snelling were among the strongest features of the evening's entertainment.

Following the performance the company gave a dance which was largely attended. The Lakeview orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and the event was a very enjoyable one.

Tonight the Mong troupe gives its farewell performance, "Down on the Farm." The play is one that appeals to the audience and will give satisfaction to the theatre goers.

The company will go to Odessa tomorrow on the Winema excursion, and will leave for Lakeview Monday.

First Shipment of Beef Goes to Oakland Market

Klamath's first shipment of beef cattle for this season will start from the Horton ranch next Tuesday. Chas. Whorton returned a few days ago from a trip to the Klamath marsh section and while there he bought 164 head of dry cows from Alex. Davis, which will be delivered at the ranch Monday, and will be started for Montague the following day to be shipped to Oakland for immediate slaughter.

In speaking of the stock conditions in the north end of the county, Mr. Horton said, "Grass is fine in that section and stock is in prime condition. The cows that I bought are in fine shape for the market, and the marsh section will supply exceptionally good beef cattle this season. The first shipment is a little early, but the stock is in such fine shape that I see no use in feeding hay.

"It is too early to say how many cattle will be taken out this year. The price of hay will have much to do with that. Stockmen cannot afford to pay the prices that are being mentioned, and there are a large number of lean steers in the county. If the price of hay is high stockmen will not fatten as many cattle as they did last year. The price at present is about six cents for prime steers and five cents for cows and heifers."

Pasmores Come On Pleasure Trip

The Pasmore trio, who will appear in concert here next Tuesday night, played as a trio and in solo, in thirty-four important concerts and functions in Berlin, during the seasons of 06-07, and 07-08. They have played thirty times since returning to America, including an affair of the Harvard professors, two concerts in Chicago, and twice for the professional musicians in Chicago, which netted them an engagement offered with the Chicago Madrigal Club, and the warm support of the profession there who said—several of them—that they had never heard such rendition as that of these girls.

Anton Hekking, the great cellist, predicted great fame for them. Henri Marteau, Joachim's successor in Berlin, writes of Mary, the violinist "She has an enormous technique, and should, by all means, play solos in Berlin this winter (1908)."

All are unanimous in their praise, and the question of individual preference is various. Some chose one, and some another, of the trio, as being the best; but the truth is, that they are about equally gifted, and present a perfect balance.

Captain Jack Crawford has asked them to open his Chautauqua in Michigan. And so from all sides comes but one verdict, and that of warmest praise and delighted admiration.

Since landing in America, May 26, 1908, they have received engagements amounting to $1850. At the close of their engagement at Ye Liberty Playhouse, in Oakland, Calif., last Sunday night, the audience applauded for fifteen minutes after the curtain fell. They will be heard here one night only, on their way to Crater Lake.

Mr. Pasmore writes, "We have heard so much in praise of your lakes and mountains, and are desirous of comparing them with the Alps."

Klamath Falls is fortunate to be so situated as to claim an evening from these gifted musicians, and a crowded house should greet them.

Plan of reserved seats will be open Monday morning at the Perfection. All seats 75c, except gallery, 50c.

Seriously Hurt by Powder Explosion

A very serious accident occurred at Long Lake last evening, when the little 3-year old son of Mrs. M. E. Jones had his face severely burned by a powder explosion. Mrs. Jones conducts a small store and the child was playing in the store room, his mother thinking that he was outside with some of the other children. She was startled by a powder explosion and found the little fellow with his face severely burned.

A physician was summoned by telephone and relieved the child of as much pain as possible and the little one was brought to the city where he is now under the care of Drs. Hamilton and Fisher. It is yet too early for the physicians to render an opinion, as to the extent of the injuries sustained, but it is probable that the sight may be permanently injured.

All of the doctors being absent from the city at the time the call came, Dr. E. D. Hitchcock, of the Star Drug store, who is a student of the Cooper Medical School in San Francisco, responded and dressed the injuries.

It is not known how the accident occurred, but it is supposed that the child dropped a match into a partly filled powder can.

Death of Mrs. Daggett.

Yesterday evening at 4:25 at the home of her son, Claude H. Daggett, occurred the death of Mrs. Rosa Eltha Daggett, after an illness lasting through several months. Her condition had been very low for a number of days and the end was not unexpected.

Mrs. Daggett was a native of Minnesota, having been born in that state June 30, 1857. She first came to Klamath Falls in 1893, and with the exception of a few years this has been her home. She is survived by three children, Claude H., Mrs. Edith Rockwood and Junior F., all of whom were with her when death came.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the house and will be in charge of Rev. Geo. T. Pratt, of the Presbyterian church.

Superintendent and Mrs. F. W. Arant were in the city today from the Crater Lake park to attend the funeral of the late Fred Blehn. Mr. Arant says most of the snow has gone off and teams are now being driven to the rim of the lake.

NOW FOR A CARNIVAL

Chamber of Commerce Directors Planning for Event

BUSINESS MEN GIVE APPROVAL

Proposition Appeals to Everyone as It Would Benefit Entire Business Portion of City and Would Be Profitable For All Parties Concerned in Matter

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have under consideration the question of holding a street carnival in this city during September.

A number of the business men of the city have been interviewed on the proposition and in every case it has met with instant and hearty approval and assurances of financial support. The value of such a proposition readily appeals to everyone, especially in view of the fact that it will be of a week's duration and will embrace all of Main street, from the bridge to Eighth or Ninth street.

One of the problems that must first be met and one that has already been discussed by some of the members of the board is the question of placing the management of the affair in the hands of a man who is thoroughly conversant with such enterprises and who has the time and ability to make it a success. The general opinion is that a competent man should be employed, and with this end in view William V. Mong has been approached. His qualifications are sufficiently well known to make it certain that if he should have the charge of the carnival it would be an unqualified success. Mr. Mong, however, is doubtful whether he will be able to take up the proposition, for the reason that it would be necessary for him to abandon his show troupe and cancel all dates made for the summer, since it would be imperative for him to take hold of the work immediately. Several business men have already interviewed him and he is giving the question careful consideration.

The plan under consideration would be to have a finance committee which would have full charge of all moneys. They would make all collections and all payments would be made by orders on the treasurer. At the close of the carnival, the names of the contributors will be published and an itemized statement of expenditures will be made.

Everything is to operate on a percentage basis, so that there will be no possibility of a financial failure. All shows brought here will work on a percentage basis and all prizes offered will be of like character.

The question of this county making a proper exhibit at the Seattle Exposition next year is the main-spring of the whole affair. The directors of the Chamber of Commerce are anxious that a large fund shall be raised in order to make the showing one of the best of the fair. They realize that with the money that the county will appropriate and that which shall be subscribed by the public will fall short of what they ought to have, and the idea of holding a street carnival for the purpose of adding to the Seattle Fair Fund would serve a double purpose—that of making business in the town lively for a whole week and also aiding materially in greatly increasing the fund.

The general outline of the plan includes the turning of Main street into a Midway Plaisance, on which will be the various attractions. These attractions will include shows put on by the different societies and lodges of this city, to which valuable prizes will be given. Then there are to be the attractions brought in from the outside. In addition to these will be the free attractions to be given at different hours and locations, such as balloon ascensions, tight-rope walking, bicycle riding, etc. In the evening will be the confetti battles. Free excursions are to be run from Bly, Bonanza, Dairy, Merrill, Fort Klamath and all points in Butte valley.

The two things necessary to make it a success is to have the management of the affair in competent hands and to give it the right kind of encouragement.

Funeral of Fred Blehn.

This evening at 4 o'clock occurred the funeral of the late Fred Blehn from the family home. The services were attended by a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives. The remains were interred in the Klamath Falls cemetery.

Every singer and everyone who has a fair voice and those who are interested in music should attend the Summer Music School.
