Hi everyone,

It was a busy week at the Farmers' Market. The Kidneyorgans of the Fort Smith Children's Hospital and the Fort Smith Chamber of Commerce both held events that brought in a large crowd.

The weather was perfect for outdoor events, and people were out in full force. The market was bustling with activity, and the air was filled with the sounds of laughter and conversation.

In other news, the city council announced that they would be extending the hours of the Farmers' Market to accommodate more people. This change is expected to bring even more visitors to the market and help boost the local economy.

We hope to see everyone at the market next week. Stay tuned for more updates and events.

Sincerely,

The Farmers' Market Team
